and reproduction of the timber growing mals, birds and fish therein, and for the maintenance of conditions favorable to a continuous water supply." To accomplish these ends the reserves must first be protected from fire, and under the direction of technical foresters and supervisors, fire-lines are being cut or plowed, trails are being cut, telephone lines and look-out stations installed. "caches" of tools distributed in accessible places throughout the reserves, and efficient patrols established.

Nor is the timber so protected allowed to die of old age. The foresters determine at what diameter in each section the maximum production is attained and when the trees reach this size they are granted free, or for a nominal sum. to homesteaders who apply to the forest officials for cutting permits. Care is taken not to allow over-cutting, for it is the forester's aim to crop the forest perally and at the same time increase its producing capacity by proper methods of management.

Thus, by this policy of forest reservation, instead of denuded hillsides, drifting sand and barren rocks, and muskegs, these areas will in time be covered with great tracks of forest owned by the peopie and supplying their wants, not only now, but to all future time, when countries with less foresight will be in the threes of a timber famine.—Department of the Interior, Forestry Branch.

Cruelty to Animals.

It is gratifying to know that the friends of animals in Chicago are active and that accusation made against employees of the Chicago College of Medicine are to be investigated in the minor court.

One instance is that an animal, having undergone vivisection, was kicked downstairs, was picked up moaning in its agony and was chloroformed by humane individuals. Dr. Odeon Borque, the superintendent of the hospital, admits that this happened and that the employee was cautioned not to do so

One of the principal arguments brought by the physicians in charge of animal experimentation with the scalpel is that they cannot control the young and callous medical students. If these are guilty of such cruelty they should not be allowed to pursue their studies. What moral right has a medical college to turn loose on the world as a practitioner such a creature as this who would cut an animal to pieces and kick him into an alley while still alive?-New York Herald.

The barque Catalpa was purchased by the Clan-nagael men, and sailed from New Bedford on April 29, 1875, under the command of Captain George Anthony, a native of Nantucket. In order to avert suspicion from the real designs of the vessel, the Catalpa cruised for nearly a year as a whaler and did not arrive at Bunbury until March, 1896. Five days later the Catalpa anchored near the Rockingham shore, and the following morning all arrangements for the escape having been planned, Wilson, Craston, Harrington, Darragh, Hogan and Hassett, the six political prisoners, who had been engaged in the open on various works at Fremantle, left their employment and were driven to Rockingham.
