SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON V.—August 3, 1913. The Plagues of Egypt.—Psa. 103: 23-26.

Commentary.—I. Israel in Egypt (vs. 23-25). 23. Israel also came—Joseph's entrance into Egypt has just been mentioned and his promotion in the kingdom, and now the coming of Israel, or Jacob, is recorded. The merest outline of these important events are given by the psalmist. Sojourning—Dwelt as a temporary resident. Land of Ham—Egypt. 24. He increased his people greatly—God gave great prosperity to the descendants of Jacob, notwithstanding their later apostasy (Exod. 1: 7, 12, 23). Stronger than their enemies—The secret of Israel's increase in numbers and power was God's good hand upon them. Seventy souls went down into Egypt, and their numbers had become about two million. 25. He turned his heart to hate his people—It was his goodness to Israel which caused the Lord to cause it, and, moreover, he made use of this feeling to lead them to the land of promise, and so to their readiness to leave the land to which they had evidently become greatly attached. Thus far and no further did the Lord turn the hearts of the Egyptians—Sparrow. The Egyptians followed the bent of their own evil disposition in hating the Hebrews. Their wicked propensities. In circumstances are permitted to come to them which excite their own volition. To deal subtly—to deal deceitfully and destructively. The Egyptians had attempted to destroy the male children of the Hebrews, and to oppress the slaves so greatly with hard work, that their increase would be checked. The plans of the Egyptians failed, because God was on the side of the Hebrews.

II. Deliverers raised up (vs. 26) 26. He raised up Moses and Aaron—The Lord had the men in readiness and all he had to do was to commission them and thrust them forward. They were two for mutual comfort and strength, even as the apostles and the seventy. The men differed and so the one became the supplement of the other, and together they were able to accomplish far more than if they had been exactly alike. The main point was that they were both sent, and hence both clothed with divine might—Sparrow. Moses was now eighty years old and Aaron eighty-three (Exod. 7: 7). The former had received his training in the court of Pharaoh and in the desert of Midian, and the latter had been all his life associated with his people in Egypt. God has ever had his servants at hand to meet the great crises of his people in his world, and he has often called them from most unexpected places. Whom he had chosen—God has always chosen those whom he would commission to do special work for him. When Ananias had serious misgivings about obeying the vision which directed him to Saul in Damascus, the word came to him, "Go thy way; for he is a chosen vessel unto me to bear my name before the kings and rulers, and the children of Israel; for I will suffer for his name's sake" (Acts 9: 15, 16). Further we read, "As they ministered to the Lord, and fasted, the Holy Ghost said, Separate Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them" (Acts 13: 2). David was chosen and anointed King of Israel in a most critical time in that nation's history, and it was necessary for him to undergo bitter trials and tests before he could assume the throne.

III. Divine judgments (vs. 27-30). 27. His wonders and wonders—God's marvelous tokens of power which were sent upon the Egyptians. The psalmist does not enumerate all the plagues, for the fifth and sixth are omitted; nor does he mention them in the order in which they are recorded in Exodus. The first three plagues were the waters turned into blood, the frogs and the lice, and included the land of Goshen, as well as the rest of Egypt. The plagues came through the use of Aaron's rod, and the magicians imitated the first two, but could go no further. Pharaoh was not moved by these plagues, which were loathsome rather than destructive or painful. The next three, in which no one was used, caused loss and pain. They were flies, murrain and boils, and did not include the Hebrews. By this plague of flies Pharaoh was slightly moved. The third that so affected Pharaoh that he confessed his sin, and made a promise, only to break it. In these Moses' rod was used. The plague of hail, locusts and darkness afflicted the Egyptians, but not the Israelites. The tenth plague, the death of the first-born, led the Egyptians to thrust the Israelites out of the country. There is no means of knowing the exact length of time occupied by these signs and wonders, but it was probably but a few months, ending about April first. These plagues were all miraculous in their nature. While some of them were similar to visitations likely to come to that land, brought about, they were emphatically supernatural. The plague of hail, locusts and darkness were foretold and brought about they were emphatically supernatural.

28. Darkness—The ninth plague is mentioned first, perhaps, because it was symbolic of the darkness that hung over Egypt. The darkness was so great that it could be felt, and no one removed from his place for three days, but the darkness had light in Goshen. The darkness can not be accounted for by referring to natural agencies, although the attempt has been made. The Egyptians rebelled not—The Egyptians were ready, while the plague lasted, to let Israel go; but when it was over, they were again unwilling. 29. Waters into blood—This included the Nile and all other streams, as well as the pools and the water brought for domestic uses. The fish, upon which the Egyptians largely subsisted, were destroyed. 30. Frogs—Frogs were abundant in Egypt and were objects of worship. This plague was especially loathsome, because the frogs came

POULTRY WORLD

MILD WEATHER HARD ON CHICKS. The hot weather of summer is now on, and the average poultry raiser finds that many conditions have changed in poultry raising from that of earlier in the season.

It is an altogether mistaken idea that soil needs rest. Unless it is producing something it is certain to deteriorate. Better a crop of weeds than a bare surface exposed to rain. Some crops are well worth planting and cultivating for their fertilizing alone. If it is true that the hog is one of the most important sources of profit in raising of beef, it is also true that the hog is one of the most important sources of profit on the dairy farm.

There are many ways of producing milk on the dairy farm that can be utilized by the farmer. Among these products are skim-milk, roots and surplus feed of all kinds. Buttermilk that cannot be disposed of would have to be thrown away were it not for the pig. Whether the dairy be for the production of milk or of butter, the necessity for having the hogs is about the same. The man who has a contract with a city man to take all the milk he can produce. Rancid butter is caused by leaving buttermilk in the butter. Buttermilk cannot be worked out; it must be washed out while the butter is in the granular stage. Four in about as much cold water as there was milk and strain the curd over a couple of times. Strain off this water and wash the butter a second time. Always have the wash water a few degrees colder than the butter, so as to keep the granules firm.

The best time to cut oats when used for hay or when use is to be made of the straw for feed is to cut when the grain is in the tough dough stage. The straw shrinks slightly, does not shatter badly, and the straw is relished by horses, cattle and sheep. Care should be taken to shock securely and protect the grain from the sun and the rain, and as much as possible, from birds if they happen to be numerous. Oats make excellent feed for horses, and it is worth while to use care in harvesting. The garden and the orchard are important, and it is not wise to neglect them for the field crops. The garden should not be considered a place to work when there is no other work needed, nor should the orchard work be deferred till the ground in the field is too wet to plow for horses, and the garden and orchard features of farm management.

The best way to make the farm more profitable is to get good livestock and produce feed to sustain the animals. Those who persist in selling their crops are facing poverty that sooner or later will be reached. Remember in using commercial fertilizers that nitrogen is the element needed to stimulate the growth of foliage, tender branches, etc. Phosphoric acid is needed for kernels of corn, grains of wheat, oats, rye, etc.; potash for rigid stalks, roots and stems; flavor, color and quality in fruits. It is a well-known fact that the cow that makes the largest profit is given the best care and most comfortable shelter. It is wrong to expect the cow to yield a large profit simply because she is a large breed. She must have feed and care in the breeding will amount to nothing. Many dairy farmers are working hard to feed, care for and milk 20 cows every day, when 12 or 15 out of the same herd would pay a decidedly better profit. The idea is to find the cow that are doing the best work and sell the rest.

The Kansas Experiment Station has an experiment comparing the manufacture of milk from grain and silage ration. It found that the grain ration when used cost $1.05 to produce the 100 pounds of milk, and when silage was substituted in the same ratio for half the grain
