WFPE LOST SHIPS IN COLLISION?

Does Upturned Vessel Rest on the Regina?

SEEMS TO BE PROVED

By Evidence Produced at Theaford Inquiry.

Port Huron despatch: Does another vesset lie beneath the wreck of the overturned vessel in Lake Huron, 13 miles from _ere?

This is the theory advanced by Milton Smith, late assistant engineer of STEAMER REGINA, package freighter, the ill-fated steamer Charles S. Price. Mr. Smith returned to Port Huron to-night from Thedford, Ont., where he went to help to establish the identilty of the men whose bodies were in the morgue there,

The first body he identified was that of John Groundwater, chief en-gineer of the Price, whose home was

"Are you sure?" asked the coroner. "As sure as I know my own name is Smith.' he replied

Well, this man had one of the Regina's life preservers wrapped about his body," said the coroner. Smith was dumbfounded. How the chief engineer of the steamer Price happened to be found in one of the life preservers of the Regina was more than he could fathom. Then it ned upon the Port Huron man that the Regina and Price may have col-lided and in the attendant excitement sallers of each vessel graphed the life preservers that happened to be near-

Ris theory is further strengthened by the fact that the bedies of the men who went down on the Regina and the Price were found in precisely the same position on the shore, some of them even clasped in each other's arms. This practically substantiates the belief that the overturned vessel on lake Huron is either the Regins or the Price It also is thought that the vessels collided with such force that one of them it was such completely from sight. That the sceidest estaured with terrible suddensed or completely from sight. That the sceidest estaured with terrible suddensed or the Price's steward, Herbert John, at Superior, Wis.

"For God's sake, don't let them ar-rest me!" scresmed Mrs. Dannoviski in fear, when an interpreter translated the reporter's questions as to whether she was a relative of Beiliss. Mrs. Dannoviski, between sobs, declared she knew nothing of the crime with which Beiliss was charged. For weeks she h d guard ed the secret of her relationship, fearing arrest by local authorities. A fear of Government had seized her, although she is no longer in danger of the Russian Government, who ruined her little home in Russia.

Constitutionalists Are Hopeful of American Support.

Washington, Nov. 17. Secretary State Bryan exchanged messages early to-day with Charge O'Shaughnessy about the reported concessions which members of Huerta's official family have intimated he would make to the United States. Efforts to recall John Lind from Vera Cruz to Mexico City, to discuss the American memorandum demanding that the new Mexican Congress should not convene, were taken here to indicate that the group surrounding Huertie would suggest a compromise arrangement, whereby the new Mexico Congress would meet, but not pass upon concessions or other measures calculated to continue Buerts in power. CONSTITUTIONALISTS HOPEFUL.

Nogales, Sonora, Nov. - An air of cheerful expectation was noticeable today, about headquarters of the Constitutionalist movement, led by Venusti ano Carranza. Word from Washington was eagerly awaited, and Carranza adherents believed the plans of the American Administration when fully revealed could not full to be of advantage to the Constitutionalist cause. It was deemed bring. Parties who viewed the mer-virtually certain that the embargo chandise on the beach the first day established from unition across the border would be lifted soon by the United States, and Carranza's officers were jubilant at the prospect of a vigorous campaign against the Federals. American property-owners along the border also took great interest in proceedings here. They sought further information as to the conference between William Bayard Hale and the Constitutionalist leader, but were forced to be content with assurances that the result appeared satisfactory, although details were not forthcoming.

The man supposed to be Gustave Oleson, of the Regina, was identified to-day as John Groundwater, first engineer of the Price. Two men are known to be off the Regina, an unnamed man who is recognized as a Regina employee, and David M. Lawson of Chatham, N.B., oiler, latterly residing in Toronto. A telegram from his father, R. C. Lawson, was received tonight, directing the remains to be shipped to Chatham, N.B. The identification of four of the Price's men was made easy to-day by a visit from Milton Smith, of 1,202 Ward street, Port Huron, who was assistant engineer on the Price until a week ago. He identified the following: John Groundwater, chief engineer, Cleveland; R. C. McIntosh, wheelsman, St. Chir, Michigan; Winson, McInnes, wheelsman, Johnston P.O., near Owen Sound; Herbert Jones, steward, Superior, Wis. Among the relatives seeking members of the ship's company are two brothers of Captain McConkey, of the Regina, two brothers of R. C. McIntosh, who will take the body there to-morrow morning. A sister of R. C. McIntosh was drowned at St. Clair some years ago on November 9th, the day the Price is supposed to have foundered. The following names of their officers age given by Smith, but bodies have not been recovered: Captain W. M. Black Cleveland; first mate, Charles Hart man, St. Clair; second mate, Howard Mackley, St. Clair; second engineer, H. Brakeman. Much interest attaches to an unknown body, the last to come asliere, as the life preserver bore no name, and is of a different character being covered with ticking, with a blue and red stripe. It is believed the man came from some boat not yet reported. He has a star tattooed on each thumb. and figure of a woman on his shoulder Hands indicate he was a fireman. In the opinion of Coroner Clarke two of bedies had been despoiled of money before being found by the authorities.

The quantity of loot carried away b persons in vicinity was very large, but many ignorant people in the sand hills believe wreckage belongs to the finder. Many have offered to pay for goods in their possession.

Six hundred bales of hay are on the timate that thirty or forty tons have been earted away. Detective Acton, of Sarma, and aides, are arranging for a delivery at some central point. To-day's investigation of the condition of the Northern Queen causes doubts as to ultimate salvage. There is not enough water for successful literage and the boat is practically broken in two.

The principal witness was G. L. Par ons, superintendent of the Goderich Elevator & Transit Co. After asking the witness about the velocity of the storm, the Crown Attorney wanted to know if Mr. Parsons had heard signals. Mr. Parsons believed that signals had been made. but could not speak from personal knowledge. He said that three watchmen were at the dock, and he thought signals had been heard by these men. He suggested that they would give the jury some information. They will be summoned for the next hearing on November 21. Mr. Parsons had heard whistles about 10 o'clock on Sunday night, and again Sunday morning. The witness said that there was no boat in the harbor to render assistance in such a storm. Mr. Parsons was queried about who was responsible for the blowing of the horn. He thought it was the duty of the emplayees of the power house to do this. In the first mace, he said, the present horn is not sufficient and had not the proper power or other equipment. It $750,000, but judging by later cables, as a light could not penetrate the storm
