Plenty of boys in the country would rather hoe corn than study arithmetic, though of course flahing is very much more entertaining than either. In the cities who have no ambition for an education, even of the most elementary sort, and who find any sort of work that isn't seography and grammar and "doing sums." It doesn't follow that they should be allowed to do as they please; while incapable of judging what is best for them they must be directed by their parents or the school authorities. But the real, evil in releasing children from school attendance is that they do not care. In this city thousands of children of school age have certificates allowing them to leave school and go to work, but they are not at work; they are playing in the streets.

ENLISTING CRIMINALS.

(Stratford Beacon) The man who goes astray and commits an offence against the laws of the land should be given a chance to reform, but the protest waich has been made in Toronto against offering enlistment in the Canadian Expeditionary Force as an alternative for a term in iall is fitting. This has been offered in Toronto and some other places, and some of those who have been brought before the authorities there and elsewhere have asked for this privilege. It should not be granted except in rare cases. The reformation of criminals is not to be found in getting in separating them. The present in the army of a number of those who have committed crime is likely to contaminate those who are free from it rather than to reform the offenders. We think upon young men, men who will reflect credit up on Canadian soldiers as exemplary young men, men who will reflect credit up on Canada in every respect, and enlisted, nor the people of Canada generally would regard with satisfaction the soldiers against the law to those who are going forth in affects. the protest waich has been made in Torgadition of offenders against the law to those who are going forth in defence of the Empire.

THE ERA OF GLASS.

The iron ove deposits of the world are being rapidly exhausted, and the time is not far distant when we will have to get along without iron and steel. Before that day arrives some substitute for these valuable things will have to be found, and it has been suggested by a scientist familiar with the subject that the logical successor will be glass.

Glass can be made to meet nearly all the requirements of iron and steel and with improved methods of manufacture will be a great deal cheaper. There is an abundant supply of the materials from which glass is made, and long before iron reaches the obsolete stage it is more than likely that glass will be one of its strongest competitors.

The chief fault with glass is its brittleness, but it is possible even new to produce a grade of glass which can stand a good deal of hard usage and serve many of the purposes for which iron is employed. The progress of invention is bound to evolve a quality of glass which will be as strong and

A MATTER OF INTERPRETATION. (Hamilton Herald)

(Hamilton Herald)

Discussing the waste of male lives in the war, some "progressive" thinkers in England are seriously proposing a resort to polygamy after the war as a means of making good the shortage. They are astray in their progressive thinking. Before the war there were in Britain upwards of a million more women than men. The war will help to redress the balance and make it easier for every Joan to have her Darby.
