Where We Are Welcome

An advertisement is a beckoning hand, a token of invitation, a sign of welcome.

A business serving the public should most certainly advertise—beckon, welcome, and show an eagerness to serve.

The attitude of a business serving the public, yet which does not advertise, is not one of courtesy or appreciation.

A business which uses the expanding factor of advertising is on a fair way to reach its fullest possible potential development.

To The People In And About Jarvis

You will have a better service, not to say better values, if every retailer in Jarvis will advertise his business every week in the Weekly Record.

THE ORLOFF DIAMOND.

Russia's Magnificent Jewel Was Once

the Eye of an Idol.

The magnificent gem, known to history as the Orloff diamond, which in its rough state formed the eye of an idol in a temple near Trichin-opol, was stolen by a Frenchman, who escaped with his prize to Persia, and who, fearful of being discovered, was glad to dispose of his ill-gotten gain for a sum of about $10,000.

The man who bought the stone sold it to one Shafraz, an astute Armenian, for $60,000. Shafraz had conceived the idea that by carrying the stone to Russia he would obtain from the Empress Catharine the Great a princely sum for it.

How to travel in safety with the stone, the theft of which had, of course, been discovered and proclaimed, became a grave consideration. It was too large to swallow, and no mode of concealment presented itself to Shafraz that seemed secure from discovery.

The way in which he solved the problem is remarkable.

He made a deep incision in the fleshy part of his left leg, in which he inserted the stone, closing the wound carefully by sewing it up with silver thread.

When the wound healed the Armenian merchant set out on his travels quite boldly and although more than once apprehended, rigorously searched and even tortured a little, he was obdurate and firmly denied having the stone in his possession.

Having at length reached his destination he asked from the Empress the sum of $200,000 for the gem, an amount of money which Catherine was unable to raise at the moment.

We next find the Armenian at Amsterdam with the intention of having his diamond cut. Here the stone was seen by Count Orloff, who determined to purchase it for presentation to his royal mistress, the Empress Catharine.

The sum ultimately paid for the gem was about $350,000 in cash, together with an annuity of $2,500 and a patent of nobility.

Shafraz flourished exceedingly and died a millionaire.

Does Your Spine Shiver?

"A shivering spine," said a psychologist, "is the one infallible proof of an artistic temperament. Does a shiver run up and down your spine when you listen to beautiful music or read a lovely poem or look at a superb painting? If not the gates of art are closed to you forever. All great artists and all good critics experience this shivering sensation of the backbone before a worthy work of art. Some of these men use the shiver as a measure. The work that does not evoke it they pronounce a failure. My own spine shivers best to music. The violin solo that precedes the last act of Massenet's

'Thais' sets up in me a tremolo movement that wrinkles the back of my coat."—Exchange.

Napoleon as an Editor.

The Almanach de Gotha was already of sufficient importance over a century ago to prompt a dispatch from Napoleon. On Oct. 20, 1807, he wrote to Champfagny, his foreign minister, complaining that "the latest edition of the Almanach de Gotha is full of errors, no account having been taken of the changes wrought by me in Germany.

Tell the minister from Gotha to call on you and inform him that this must be set right in the forthcoming edition.

Insist on seeing the section devoted to Germany before the edition is published."

How They Are Watched by Electric Control in Land Operations.

In modern warfare the searchlight is invaluable. On dark nights of war it is the only means of guarding against torpedo boats, which its beams will reveal at a distance of two miles and more.

On shore it is the electric eye of the army. It is carried to all parts of the field of action by motor truck, and the motor that propels the vehicle drives the electric generator that supplies the current for the light.

Most of these field searchlights are not directed by hand, for each instrument is fitted with what is known as the distant control. Two small motors govern the vertical and the horizontal movements of the light. From them an electric cable runs to the station of the operator, who, although he may be several hundred feet away, can send the rays of the light in any direction he pleases.

According to the Navy and Army

Illustrated, one advantage of this distant control is that the objects picked up by the beam of light can be sighted more quickly and more definitely, for if the operator stands behind the light and looks along the beam his vision is hampered by a luminous haze. A second advantage is that the light can be placed in an exposed position without endangering the men who run it.

Were the operator and officer beside the apparatus they would be certain to receive the fire that is sure to be pooured upon a searchlight and would suffer the instant the range was found.

VIRTUE OF AN APPLE.

At One Time the Fruit Was Called the "Food of the Gods."

The apple has become so familiar as the commonest of all fruits that its value as man's greatest friend in the vegetable kingdom may not be fully realized. It was called the "food of the gods" because it was believed to be the magic renewer of youth to which the gods resorted when they felt themselves growing old and feeble.

There have been many mystic traditions about the apple, which has been credited with varied potency. It is the healing fruit of the Arabian tales.

Latin chronicles and institutes and early English poems contain many references to it. Scientific analysis of late years has justified all the ancient glo-riification of this fruit, which has been found to contain albumen, sugar, gum, malic acid, gallic acid, fiber, water and phosphorus.

Malic acid of apples neutralizes the excess of chalky matter caused by too much meat and thereby helps to keep us young. Apples are good for the complexion, as their acids drive out the noxious matters which cause skin eruptions. They are good for the brain, which those same noxious matters, if retained, render sluggish. The acids of the apple diminish the acidity of the stomach that comes with some forms of indigestion.

The phosphorus, of which apples contain a larger per cent than any other fruit or vegetable, renews the essential matter of the brain and spinal column.
