New Steel in B.C.

THE completion of the Kettle Valley Railway, a subsidiary of the Canadian Pacific, opens a new territory in British Columbia, and gives another connection between the prairies and the mining districts of Southern British Columbia with the Pacific Coast. It was at Ladner Creek where steel met steel and the last spike was driven with proper ceremonies.

The whole work of grading the route from Hope to the Coquihalla Summit was done under a contract let to McArthur Bros. From Hope up to Ladner Creek the superintendent of tracklaying was the genial Mr. W. J. Newman, familiarly known as "Doc," and a better finished piece of roadbed for a newly constructed line, it would be difficult to find. From Coquihalla Summit down to Ladner Creek Mr. Michael Dundan was in charge of the tracklaying, and the remaining two miles or so of track between Boston Bar Creek and Ladner Creek were also laid by his gang.

The first siding on the way up from Hope, just north of the Coquihalla River Canyon, is named Othello. From its proximity to the canyon the scenic beauty of which it is difficult to describe, and the good trout of about 2,000 feet above sea level and the air most exhilarating. The country has a very rocky, mountainous aspect at the next siding, which is called Iago, to keep up the Shakespearean tradition.

Near Rouse there is a charming view looking up towards a bald, rocky mountain from Slide Creek bridge, which is another large steel structure.

The siding known as Coquihalla Summit is opposite two delightful lakes. From this point the track falls both ways, the average gradient going west being about 2.2 per cent, whilst that going easterly being much lighter, about 1 per cent. The elevation of Coquihalla Summit is about 3,200 feet above sea level. The lakes are full of trout and are most interesting from a geological point of view on account of the many crater holes in the formation, caused, it is supposed, from gaseous emanations in ages past. Just at the next siding, is eternally separated from Rouse by the summit. At Brodie, once called Mons Junction, and prior to that known as the Loop, the Hope cut-off joins the Kettle Valley Railway line to Merritt going north, and to Princeton and other points going southerly. When the through service becomes effective it is expected that trains to the Okanagan from Vancouver will be routed over the Hope cut-off via Hope, to Brodie, and thence to Princeton and Pentiction, thus doing away with the superfluous round trip via Spence's Bridge and Merritt and thus affecting a saving in distance of about 150 fishing and shooting in its vicinity. It is prophesied that Othello will be a favorite spot for residents and tourists for picnic parties and sport. Jessica, the name of the third siding from Hope, is one which will still further help to immortalize another character already immortalized by the bard, besides having a good educational effect on the public. Jessica is within about two miles or so of Ladner Creek. Hereabouts the scenery is wonderful, and there is no doubt that the whole route will be considered one of the best bits of scenic railway in Canada.

Near Boston Bar Creek is Fortia and a fine place for the railway company to put up a chalet, or a hamlet, for the use of their patrons. This spot is an elevation miles, and making it possible to get from Vancouver to Nelson in much less time than at present. At Slide Creek there are some picture rocks, rude representations of a horse, supposed to have been painted by the Indians at some remote date.

Fruit Tree Diseases

"Fruit Tree Diseases of Southern Ontario" is the title of a very instructive Bulletin (No. 21 of the Second Series of bulletins of the Dominion Experimental Farms), of which Mr. W. A. McCubbin, M. A., Assistant in charge of the Dominion Plant Pathological Laboratory, St. Catharines, Ont., is the author. In this bulletin, prepared under the direction of Mr. H. T. Gussow, Dominion Botanist, 14 diseases of the apple tree, 5 of the pear tree, 4 of the quince, 7 of the apricot, 5 of the cherry, 7 of the plum tree, and 12 of the peach are dealt with. In each case there is given a description of the disease and their nature; information is furnished for their identification, and various means for prevention and control are outlined. In addition to these descriptions, the value of which is greatly enhanced by the numerous original illustrations, the opening chapter deals in a general manner with disease, its nature, types of disease, due to various fungi, transmission of spores, wintering of diseases, infection, methods of meeting disease, and other causes of unhealthy conditions, as winter injury, debark, bud injury, sun scald, crown or collar rot, etc. Directions are also given for sending specimens to the Dominion Botanist. The preparation of the various fungicides—sprays, washes and disinfectants—is also outlined. The author clearly shows that timely attention to the control of destructive fungus diseases will save considerable waste and losses and will result in increased production, a factor, ever important, but at this present time most important to our view. This bulletin is available to applicants to The Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, Ontario.
