IN MEMORIAM

A few lines written on the death of Mrs. John Axford, by her daughter, Florence.

Gone just a little while,
Before her loved ones left;
Yet a little while seems long,
Without her loving face.

Our hearts are sad,
But, oh, we must cheer up;
When, lo, we think of her so dear,
Smiling and waiting on the other shore.

But wait only just a little while,
And we will all be there;
For lo, we know she cannot come to us,
But we can go to her.

THE MESSAGE OVER THE WIRE.
A message came over the wire,
To the waiting nation, it came;
It told how her soldiers in battle
Had won an illustrious name.
It thrilled the heart of the nation
With an ecstasy of pride—
A bride intermingled with sorrow,
For many had nobly died.
A message came over the wire,
To a fair Canadian home,
Where sat a grey haired couple,
In the twilight dim, alone;
It robbed the night of its beauty,
Their hearts of their tenderest joy;
For with the words, "Killed in action"
They read the name of their boy.
A message came over the wire,
To a home where children played;
While the mother smiled upon them,
Her smile, and their air, it stayed
For the brief and fatal message,
Which entered the soldier's home
Told that the children were orphans,
And she was a widow, lone.
A message came over the wire,
To a sweet Canadian maid,
Who dreamed of her soldier lover
It made the day dream fade.
Vain had been dreams of his coming,
He'd never linger more by her side;
Never return o'er the ocean,
To make her his happy bride.
To homes throughout the Dominion,
Thus tidings of grief were borne;
Leaving the hearts of loved ones
All bleeding and forlorn;
Never again, to beat gladly,
With the joy which once they knew
Yet proud to know it was yielded
In the cause of the red, white and blue.
O God, send one of Thine angels
Where each little message goes
To carry a ray of comfort
To the hearts oppressed by woes
The sting of the bullet is borne,
Not only by those under fire;
It enters the hearts at home
In the message over the wire.

WESTERN FAIR, LONDON.
September 10th to 18th.
Queen's Park at London, Ontario, the home of the Western Fair, is a very busy place at present, as active preparations are in progress for the great Exhibition to be held in September. Ever since the last Exhibition the entire grounds and Buildings have been in possession of the Militia authorities. The city of London and the Board of Directors of the Western Fair Association have been very pleased to be able to help our Government in some small way in these strenuous times and so the grounds and buildings were placed at their disposal entirely free. As the soldiers are now under canvas a great deal of work will have to be done to prepare the buildings for the Exhibition. Owing to an unfortunate fire in the Grand Stand the old structure is entirely demolished and a new and up-to-date steel stand with a capacity of 5,000 people is in course of erection. This will very much add to the comfort and convenience of the visitors as every seat in the new stand will give a full view of everything taking place on the track and platform.
Any information regarding the Exhibition will be gladly given on application to the Secretary, A. M. Hunt, London, Ontario.
