The Port Rowan News says,—"If the Provincial License Board is unable to stop the bottle trade in Port Rowan and other local option places in the county, it can at least cut off all liquor stores in Norfolk. There is no doubt about the success of this strategy. It would be good policy on the part of the liquor interests of Norfolk to cease magnifying the sales of bottles in local option places.

During the past few months it has been difficult to pick up our papers without reading an account of an airship raid or an attack upon some un-fortified town by one of the gas bags of Count Zeppelin. At the Toronto Exhibition this year bombs will be dropped from airships while in flight but as the missiles will not be loaded with asphyxiating gas or German shrapnel they will be quite harmless. These flights will be most spectacular and realistic and some daring stunts will perform all kinds of stunts in view of the visitors to the Exhibition.

Look at Your Label This Week

The mailing sheets of The Record have been corrected, up to and including

TUESDAY, JUNE 1st.

In the past three months we have made many changes in the lists. We do not claim to be super-human, and that there are errors, is inevitable. Will you glance up now and look at the date on your address label. It is supposed to give the end of the period for which your subscription is paid for. If it is not in agreement with your receipt, will you please drop us a card and tell us of the error. We want to make it right, now. If you find yourself in arrears, it would be much appreciated if you remitted the amount due.

A number of errors in our mailing lists were brought to our attention during the past week. We have not corrected some this week, but we would ask those whose labels are incorrect to notify us at once. We would also ask that those whose labels show them to be in arrears to kindly remit at once. It may only be a very small amount individually, but on our entire list it means a few hundred dollars to us. DO IT NOW.

A PROMISING SPEEDER

One of the most promising young colts of the "speed stock" that we have had the pleasure of viewing this season is to be seen at the field of Mr. Joseph Owen, the proud possessor and well known horse-man of Jarvis. Little "Bal. Jr." is by Balboa 21614, the famous standard bred and registered trotting stallion, owned by Messrs. Weil & Hewson. Balboa has many promising youngsters in this district but to all appearances this little fellow of a week old appears to be the "speed boy" of them all. Mr. Owen had a little hard luck last year and lost a very promising colt from this same horse. This year he took time by the forelock and used that famous remedy known only to a few horse-men, "Fosline," manufactured and prepared by The Waiden Drug Co. of Winnipeg. This is an excellent preparation and one horse-man should not fail to try with their breeding stock. The discoverer of this remedy, Mr. H. G. Wright, is a well-known horse-man and importer of the best stock that ever stepped into Canada, and his discovery of this sovereign foaling remedy is sure to become a great boon to the horse raising industry of this country.

GOOD-BYE SULPHUR GAS

Jarvis is to have good gas at an early date. It is now an assured fact.

The following letter received by Dr. Jacques from Mayor Spence, of the city of Brantford, is self-explanatory. It is certainly good news to local gas consumers.

Mayor's Office,
City of Brantford,
Brantford, Ont., June 10,
Dr. W. Jacques, M.P.P.,
Jarvis, Ontario.

Dear Doctor—

Yours dated June 8, 1915, re Gas Question was duly received and contents noted, and in reply would say the Company are building a new pipe line from the Governor's Road, just outside of Paris, straight through Brantford and Amara or Tps. into Hamilton, to deliver the Tibury Gas to the manufacturers in that city, and on completion of this line, which they say will be before end of June, they will restore the old gas to Brantford through the old pipe line, which will relieve the situation in your neighborhood.

Yours very truly,
JNO. H. SPENCE,
Mayor.

A NEW CANADA

We hope that President Falconer, who speaks with a mystical and awful solemnity, is right in saying that we are in a new Canada. We are not sure that we understood what he means, but we gladly welcome a new Canada because there was so much to reform in the old. The old Canada lacked, for example, unity, community and inspiration. In other words, as some would prefer to say, it lacked national spirit. It was sectional, intolerant and the prey of mean passions. Above all, we should say, it obstinately refused to look at things as they are, preferring vapouring and fine speech to simple, honest statement. The old Canada having at last got itself into bankruptcy and disorder, a new Canada will be a happy change.

THE WAR AND BENEFICENCE

A general complaint at the church meetings which are now being held is that work must be stayed because funds are failing. The failure of funds is ascribed to the hard times, the taxes and the demands made upon the people for the many funds of the war. Not only church work and religious instruction, but effort generally for the improvement of the human lot will be delayed by the destruction of wealth, which the war involves. England was about to make an effort to lift the last third of her people above the poverty line, and to devote a great part of her savings to better housing, water supply, drainage and schools. These beneficent schemes must now be put aside till industry is reconstructed and the war debt paid.

WEARING GERMANY OUT

The war is being fought with unwonted fury on every front and along every line. It is, in the main, a conflict of attrition for the possession of the trenches, to which the soldiers must cling as long as life endures. Every day there is an appalling casualty list. We read that the French fired last week in fifty-two hours in the neighborhood of Arras half a million shells. The Canadian casualties in France now number about eight thousand. Last week the British casualties, which include the Canadian, were more than twenty thousand. The casualties on all sides in France, must have exceeded during the week a hundred thousand. That cannot long continue because it leads quickly and inevitably to the exhaustion of the armies which one side is able to set against the other. The allies have apparently decided that while the commercial isolation of Germany is doing its work, the destruction of life is the only other means to bring the war to an end.

AFTER THE WAR

An interesting correspondent speculates on the prospects of peace after the war. He is not hopeful. He fears that dread of such an assault as Germany has made, will stimulate defensive armament the world over. The vortex of militarism will no longer be merely European. The English people are, he says, about to submit to conscription and industrial organization on the German plan. Though the submission is made for the urgent need of carrying on the defence against Germany, it will be maintained. The Empire will be organized by the Tory and imperialist influences now in control of the British government. Against it, the jealous and fearful powers will wage an incessant warfare until all supplies are broken into fragments.

Our correspondent's gloom would be dispelled, if he were reminded, as we are, that money, though the root of all evil, is the root of a good deal of good. There will be a long period of recuperation during which peace will be assured. Business and industry will have the strength of the money to fight. There need be no fear about English conscription. It will not cost so much, and it will not be so long, as the conscription of the United States. It will be a time to contribute to the relief of the war-weary and to the reconstruction of the world. Not only the British Empire, but more than that it is now a colonial autonomy will be more than a
