Rash in Patches. Came on Like Blisters. Could Hardly Sleep or Keep from Scratching. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Healed.

Germania, Ont.—"My eczema broke out with a rash just in patches about an inch long. It came out like little blisters with water in them and got a little larger and then they broke and the water-like mass ran out. The eczema was red and like a running sore, then formed a thick scab. It caused disfigurement for the time being. The sores itched awfully and even pained down to my throat. I could hardly sleep w keep from scratching them. When the seab came off it left a scar. "I used some salve but it didn't do much good. Then two more sores broke out in the same way and I at once started to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I applied the Ointment to the sores and washed them. with the Cuticura Soap and hot water. Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured me in two weeks without leaving any disfigurement." WILL STRENTHEN UNIONS.

(Rochester Heraid) (Rochester Herald)

There are not lacking indications that there is a growing feeling in the membership of many trades unions that some of the past practices of men in authority might be abandoned with profit to the organizations. It is an awakening of the civic spirit, and a realization of the first that some of the things with which they are reproached are indefensible in themselves, and have no permanent value to the membership as a whole, even when they result in temporary advantage. We incline to the view that this new attitude will greatly them with the public.

A Home Industry.

An ear of sweet corn on the average dining-car and hotel a la carte service costs 25 cents. Considering this, canning corn on the cob for the market might prove a very profitable investment for a thrifty housekeeper and bring to her considerable pin money.

One advantage of sweet corn canned on the cob over other canned corn is that all the best fool values are kept with the cob. In cutting corn off, the germ quality of the kernel, which keeps up its standard, is usually lost. This germ quality is the part of the corn that is sought by rats and mice when they look for food in the corn bin, and is the most vital part. Much of the corn is also rendered mushy when it is cut from the cob.

Too Much for the Cabs.

One afternon Signor Lablanche, the celebrated basso, a man of enormous proportions, on leaving Covent Garden theatre after rehearsal, found that his carriage had not arrived, so he sent for a four wheeler. Into this, after a strenuous effort, he managed to self seated on the edge of the smaller seat, a truly uncomfortable position, which it was imperative at once to change. As he struggled to his feet in his attempt to do so the bottom of the vehicle gave way, and the artist found himself standing in the road. Help, however, was at hand, and he was released with no small difficulty from his ridiculous dilemma.

A similar adventure befell the brothers Pope—one a doctor, the other the well-known Q. C.—who between them weighed over forty stone, when crossing Waterloo bridge in a four wheeled cab. How it happened is uncertain. but about the centre of the bridge the floor of the cab collapsed, and for the next thirty yards two pairs of sturdy legs, straining to keep pace with the horse's mild amble, was a specticle for unrestrained mirth. Cabby soon pulled up, and eager hands quickly extricated the obese and exhausted brothers.-London Tit-Bits.

The literature of the kitchen sometimes sheds a light on the traits of historical personages. As to Mistakes.

The people who make mistakes lead the world. The perfect people work for them, running errands and counting columns of figures. Only trifles are always true. Every great and serious truth has an obverse side which is also true. Professor William James was the greatest phychologist of our time, but the best he could do in defining truth was this: "The truth is simply what will Whatever is may not necessarily be right, in spite of Pope; but whatever is is That is the main point. And it is every man's job to accept the is-ness and get down to business. Most men have the wrong location, have taken up the wrong profession, have failed to improve the opportunities for education they had in youth, suited to them, have not the money, influence and position they need to show what's in them. And they are of two classes. One class sits around the loafing places and tells its woes, and whistles and pities itself. The other plucks up, forgets it, takes the situation as it is and makes the best of things. The genius is not the man who never made mistakes, who had his chance thrust on him who was endowed and all that; he is the man who had no chance and was not gifted but who took the raw material of life and fate as he found it and made something fine out of it.

TAKE A LOOK. (Niagara Falls, N. Y. Gazette)

Have you ever taken the trouble to analyze your troubles-or more proporly, alyze your troubles—or more proporly, perhaps, the causes of them?

As a rule people don't.

They come to regard trouble and themselves as a good deal like Daniel Webster's ideas of liberty and union—one and inseparable. And they go through life accordingly.

There is much to justify the belief that Nature intends a certain amount of disappointment for every one. The commonplace experiences of life prove that neither wealth nor rank afford immunity. rank afford immunity.
But the notion that there can be no divorce from trouble is wrong ninety-nine times out of the bundred. Usually the worth of one's troubles are of one's own making—or at any rate of one's own permitting. The man defies the laws of Nature or common sense—or both—and pays the penalty. Or he sits supinely by adversity ties him up, with the exception of his tongue. This he works overtime to tell of his misfortunes.

Brazil's Name.

Long before the Portuguese colonized the coast of Brazil adventurous Bristol merchants had equipped expeditions in a vain search for the supposed it and of Brasy'le. Who gave Brazil her present name is unknown to fame—the early Portuguese called it Terra da Vera Cruz-but whoever baptized the country took the name from the East Indies. For many years before the discovery of Brazil merchants had brought from the east for the use of dyers a wood which yielded a beautiful red color-brasill or brasilly. The West Indies have trees of the same sort, but Brazil contains them in more abundance than any other country. So that Brazil wood is not called so after the country. The country is named so because of its red dye trees.-London Chronicle.

THE BUTANISTS AND FARMING.

To be sure, we can farm without being botanists, but we can not farm so well. Through the ages agricultural man has stumbled on many important facts and principles that the botanist has later on explained, thus making more scientific farming possible. Witness the enrichment of land by growing leguminous crops—a fact mentioned by Pliny, and explained by modern botany, and as a result utilized with vastly increased success by the present-day agriculturist. Witness, too, the history of our knowledge of the wheat rust, or the recently discovered hereditary symbiosis of bacteria and seed plants—phenomena seen by agriculturists as in a glass, but very ,very darkly until the theoretical botanist explained them.

In spite of these instances and hundred more, the practical man is coming increasingly to look with scorn upon the theoretical botanists. What matters it, say we? Alas, it matters much, unless we happen individually to be endowed. For botanical positions, like other things in life, are controlled by the law of supply and demand. In more than one institution that I know the tenure of position of the botanist depends upon his success in attracting students. The student. needing bread and butter, will not be attracted in lines in which he cannot earn it, and, as Mr. Dooley says: There ye are." In several state universities the clash has already come, and in every case of which I am cognizant, the more practical botany of the agricultural department has won as against the more theoretical botany of the academic department. Even in our private institutions we commonly have practical trustees who sooner or later may see the trend of the time and act accordingly .- Prof. C. Cowles
