Come Along and Fight For Britain - Too

We're far across the water
With the Belgians and the French;
We're far across the water
Fighting in the trench;
But don't stand and gaze at us,
Don't sit and wait for us,
But come along and fight for Britain too.

We're far across the water,
We're beneath the Union Jack;
We're far across the water,
Germans cannot drive us back;
Then don't look and sigh at us,
But come along and die with us;
But come along and fight for Britain too.

We're far across the water,
Driving back the enemy;
We're far across the water,
Trying to keep old Britain free;
But don't just depend on us,
To all alone defend the trust;
But come along and fight for Britain too.

King George's Appeal

More Men and Yet More.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—King George has issued an appeal to his subjects to come forward voluntarily and aid Great Britain in her fight against the Germanic Allies. "More men, and yet more men," the monarch says, "are wanted to keep my armies in the field, and through them to secure victory and an enduring peace." The message of the King follows:

"To My People:—At this grave moment in the struggle between my people and a highly organized enemy who has transgressed the laws of nations and changed the ordinance that binds civilized Europe together, I appeal to you.

"I rejoice in my Empire's effort and I feel pride in the voluntary response from my subjects all over the world who have sacrificed home and fortune and life itself in order that another may not inherit the 'Red Empire' which their ancestors and mine have built. I ask you to make good these sacrifices.

"The end is not in sight. More men and yet more, are wanted to keep my armies in the field, and through them to secure victory and an enduring peace. In ancient days the darkest moment has ever produced in men of our race the sternest resolve. I ask you, men of all classes, to come forward voluntarily and take your share in these fights.

"In freely responding to my appeal you will be giving your support to our brothers who for long months have nobly upheld Great Britain's past traditions and the glory of her arms."
