

Early Roman Newspapers

It appears that it is to Caesar that we owe the first attempt to satisfy the public's demand for printed news. The newspaper was a daily record of not only official news, but also of small scandals, the latest police news, the arrivals in the city, even the gossip of the countryside. There were also extracts from the latest speech of Cicero and the freshest epigrams of Marcial. These last appeared by way of advertisement of the author's latest works before they should appear in the collected form and be sold along with the latest thing of Ovid's and those improper little novels that came from Greece and were displayed in the fine shops that bordered the Forum's edge and stretched round the Palatine Hill.

The Acta Diurna, or Daily News, was the work of literary, handwork, careful and elegant, whether written with the stylus on papyrus or inscribed on a wall coated with chalk, the citizens standing around, agog with interest. The lack of a printing press was surely a fortunate circumstance, since it goes far to account for the epigrammatic terseness of the Latin style, for the delightful endeavor to express in one syllable what the garrulous take a couple of phrases to interpret.

Huetner, in his dissertation on the Acta Diurna, has collected 45 passages from ancient authors, all of which relate to these Acta Populi, which is only another name for this embryonic newspaper. They are all of a nature to interest the public, reading or otherwise, even to-day. Fortunately they are told in Latin, in which, for the most part, they had best remain.

The more ordinary relate to public affairs, the sayings and doings of political persons, notably Caesar's refusal to the title of King, the defection of Lepidus and the more notable cases before the courts. Both Pliny and Aelianus relate the case of Scævus as having been fully reported. Dion Cassius relates the avidity with which men read of the punishments to which important persons had been condemned, and the anxiety of the crowd to learn whether they met their end as gentlemen or cowards. Tacitus mentions the newspaper account of Claudius' Pomerium, the extension of the circumference of the city by the erection of a new wall. Lampridius tells us that he got his idea of the fulsome adulation with which the Senate acclaimed Alexander Severus from the current issue of this daily paper, a document which must have been approximately speaking, 100 years old, when Lampridius saw it, and mendacious at that.

There were extracts from new laws, decisions relating to provinces, and, naturally, passages from the discourses of "the God of Rome." Under the Empire there was the Court Circular, which chronicled the various doings of the imperial house, the "progresses," the funerals, but not, however, the likelihood of the Emperor's death, as it was only the unwise astrologers who would dare to draw such a bow at a venture. The Emperor Commodus, so Lampridius assures us, was inordinately proud of his achievements in the arena. No matter whether he was last in the race, it was to him that the palm was awarded, or, rather, he awarded the palm to himself, and then quite magnificently shouted, "Commodus Caesar, victor in the race, gives his crown to the people of Rome!" Then there were published at the "bits of information" in the city. Pliny cites the newspaper accounts of the funeral of the celebrated jockey Felix the Eretrian, fall and restoration of public buildings were recorded; so were the births, marriages and divorces in illustrious families; likewise prodigies and curiosities. Pliny has a sneering reference about the record of a rain of titles, and states that an old priest swore that he had seen the arrival of the first Phoenix in Rome. Petronius gives a parody of what the Roman got in his daily paper. It

SPRING REMINDERS OF RHEUMATISM

Raw, Damp Weather Starts the Pains, But the Trouble Lies in the Blood.

Spring weather is bad for rheumatic sufferers. The changes from mild to cold, the raw, damp winds start the aches and twinges, or in the more extreme cases, the tortures of the trouble going. But it must be borne in mind that it is not the weather that causes rheumatism. The trouble is rooted in the blood—the changeable weather merely starts the pains. The only way to reach the trouble and to cure it is through the blood. The poisonous rheumatic acids must be driven out. Liniments and rubbing may give temporary relief, but cannot possibly cure the trouble. The sufferer is only wasting time and money with this kind of treatment and all the time the trouble is becoming more deeply rooted—harder to cure. There is just one speedy cure for rheumatism—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They act directly on the impure, acid-tainted blood. They purify and strengthen it and thus root out the cause of the rheumatism. Here is strong proof of the above statement. Mr. Michael Personage, Fenlon, Man., says: "My mother suffered several years with rheumatism. We tried a number of remedies but they all failed to cure. Then we got Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after using them for some time she was completely cured and has had no sign of the trouble since."

was during a feast at the house of that ostentatious philosopher Trimalchion, who so far forgot his imperious veneer of aristocratic good manners as to describe the origin of his wife to his guests, much to that lady's discomfort, for she was still "climbing" assiduously, and did not relish being thus "given away" to others. In his efforts to impress the world with his magnificence, Trimalchion used to send for his actuary, who read to the company a sort of process verbal, of which the following is a translation: "VII. Cal. Jul. There were born on the Domain at Cumae, which belongs to Trimalchion, 30 boys and 40 girls. Five hundred thousand bushels of wheat were transported from the fields to the granaries; 500 oxen were used for the transport. On the same day the slave Mithradates was crucified for blaspheming the tutelary deity of Cumae, our master. The same day 10,000,000 sesterces were taken to the bank because it was impossible to find a use for this money. The same day there was a fire in the gardens at Pompeii, which originated in the residence of the farmer Nests," etc., etc.

The last mention of this Roman newspaper is in the late days of the Empire. Vopiscus, in his "Life of the Emperor Probus," knew of its existence, after which time, it is thought, it disappeared along with such other literature as Constantine and his new advisers found inconvenient. Nothing similar appeared until that busy body Gutenberg began to flood the world with a literature that has been the outward expression of a great renaissance.

Calls Them One of Her Best Friends

DAME BELANGER TALKS OF DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Tells How They Cured Her Rheumatism and Made Her so Well She Could Work Without Fatigue.

St. Amateur, Gloucester Co., N. B., April 17.—(Special.)—Cured of rheumatism, from which she has been a severe sufferer, Dame Pierre Belanger, well known and highly respected here, is telling her friends that Dodd's Kidney Pills have made her well.

"I consider Dodd's Kidney Pills one of the best friends I have," Dame Belanger states. "I had rheumatism and the pains in my limbs caused me a great deal of suffering. I took six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and they made me well. My pains are all gone, and I can now work without being fatigued. I will always keep Dodd's Kidney Pills in the house."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure rheumatism because it is caused by sick kidneys. Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood. If the kidneys are healthy and doing their full work they strain all the uric acid out of the blood, and there can be no rheumatism. Dodd's Kidney Pills always make the kidneys well. They take away that tired feeling by ensuring pure blood and good circulation.

Professional Pawnbrokers.

In many of the mean streets of London there are professional pawnbrokers—women well-known to the pawnbrokers, who, for small payments, take clothes and household goods to pawn for their neighbors. It is stated that the function of the professional pawnbroker is two-fold. The woman who pawns through a recognized intermediary gets a larger loan than she would if she did the business herself. For the pawnbroker the professional pawnbroker guarantees the good faith of the owner and will be able to exercise pressure in case of default.—London Express.

SAUCE COMBINATIONS.

The Right Ones for Fish, for Flesh, for Fowl.

A well-made sauce is said to glorify any dish, but this depends to a great degree on the selection of a right combination. The sauce that enhances the flavor of fish may add nothing to meat. It is generally true that the combination, which seems to be no more than a mere custom of eating certain things at the same time, has in reality a hygienic reason for its long continuance. For instance, a meat like pork or a bird like goose, both require an acid sauce or adjunct because of the excess of fat.

For the benefit of the inexperienced a table with sauce combination is given:

- Raw oysters, quartered lemon, horseradish sauce, tabasco.
- Baker fish, drawn butter, Hollandaise sauce.
- Broiled fish, Maitre d'hotel butter, sauce tartare.
- Roast chicken, bread sauce, green grape jelly.
- Roast turkey, cranberry jelly.
- Roast goose, acid apple sauce, barberry jelly.
- Fried chicken, cream gravy.
- Roast duck, orange sauce, currant jelly.
- Roast veal, tomato sauce, horseradish sauce.
- Roast pork, apple sauce.
- Roast lamb, mint sauce.
- Roast beef, brown gravy, horseradish.
- Roast fillet of beef, mushroom sauce.
- Roast venison, barberry jelly.
- Roast quail, currant jelly, celery sauce.
- Roast canvasback duck, black currant jelly, olive sauce.
- Boiled mutton, caper sauce.
- Boiled tongue, sauce tartare.
- Corned beef, mustard.
- Steamed fowl, celery sauce.
- Pork sausage, apple sauce, fried apples.
- Printed beef, horseradish.
- Roast mutton, sauce béchamel.
- Roast codfish, sauce béchamel.
- Roast chicken, sauce béchamel.

TREAT EVERY CHILD'S COLD EXTERNALLY RUB ON "NERVILINE"—A SAFE CURE

A Miracle of Healing Power in Every Bottle.

Little children cannot be expected to romp, day in and day out, without some time coming to grief. Some of their games and rough and tumble, cause undue fatigue, and not infrequently the kiddies are bruised, have strains, swellings and aches just like their elders.

When children come in tired and sore, see they are well rubbed with Nerviline. It does wonders in breaking up a cold, has an amazing effect on any sort of muscular pain.

The wise mother always keeps trusty old Nerviline on hand. It has a wonderful list of uses, and a bottle handy on the bedroom shelf often saves calling in the doctor.

Young and old alike can safely use Nerviline—there's no harm in it—just a heap of curative power when you rub it on.

Whenever there is a pain or sickness, Nerviline should be close by. It is a true specific for rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica or neuralgia.

As for carache, toothache, sore back, sprains or strains, nothing else will cure so fast as good old Nerviline. In use about fifty years—sold by dealers everywhere. The large 50c family size bottle is the most economical; trial size 25c, all dealers, or the Catarrhose Co., Kingston, Ont.

tralia. Josiah Wedgwood was a Fellow of the Royal Society, and the last paper he contributed to the society was headed "An Analysis of a Mineral Substance from New South Wales."

"The Hope of Sydney Cove" was the name given to the medallion referred to. The figure of Hope standing on a rock, with her emblem—the Anchor—at her feet, was most beautifully rendered. Labor appeals to Peace, Art and Honor to unite in guiding the destinies of and assisting in the development of the newly-explored land. The Cornucopia—the emblem of Plenty—filled to overflowing with the fruits of the earth, a glimpse of the wild country yet to subdue and till, and the suggestion of the vast surrounding ocean for an appropriate background to a delightfully conceived grouping of figures, emblematic of the natural resources of the new colony.

Exposure to cold and wet is a usual cause of sore throat, and it may be of rheumatic or gouty origin. Local irritation, as from drinking hot drinks or the inhalation of noxious gases, will cause an acute catarrhal inflammation of the mucous membrane of the pharynx, soft palate and uvula. Going out of doors when very warm, not protected by wraps, will cause an inflammation in the throat. Housekeepers run out into the yard to hang up tea towels, etc., and nine times out of ten never put on a scarf or coat, and then wonder why they suffer so frequently from attacks of sore throat and cold. Much of the ill-health we suffer from can be traced to carelessness and heedlessness on our own part. It is contrary to reason and good judgment to sit down to cool off, when very warm, where the wind will blow directly upon one. To ride about in open automobiles without wearing heavy coats and being protected about the feet by thick robes. The many thoughtless things one does every day will cause a sore throat, which may be severe enough to result in a fatal illness.

Wonderful Bilious Remedy Actually Prevents Attacks

There are two great causes of biliousness—constipation and defective liver action.

When Dr. Hamilton's Pills are taken, they not only correct constipated bowels, but act upon the liver as well. Quite unlike ordinary medicines which purge and give temporary relief, Dr. Hamilton's Pills remove the conditions which cause biliousness, and thus permanent cures are effected. No person who occasionally uses Dr. Hamilton's Pills will ever suffer from the headache, bad stomach or bilious complaint. Get a 25c box to-day.

Dutch Barges in the Thames.

For more than two centuries there have always been some big, broad-sterned Dutch boats lying in the Thames River, with baggy trousers and Dutchmen smoking on board, quite calmly. It is the reminiscence of a Dutch conquest. Those boats have moored there, with their heels for London ever since William III gave them the right of traffic. And if there wasn't a Dutch boat for a single second just below London bridge, the ancient rights would be lost. But you will always find the calm Dutchman smoking on his "pitch."—Westminster Gazette.

Better Than Spanking

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble, Mrs. A. Summers, Box W. 8, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money. Write her to-day if your child's trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

Eggs.

The egg is pure food. Nearly all the essential elements of animal tissues are found in an egg.

Eat an egg and you get blood producers. You get food for the muscles. You get sulphur and calcium for the system, and some iron.

Albumen is the chief ingredient in an egg. Albumen is an organic element, mostly carbon, with a small per cent. of sulphur, and containing hydrogen, nitrogen, oxygen, etc.

It is the sulphur in the yoke of an egg which blackens silver in contact with eggs. The bad odor of rotten eggs is also due to the sulphur, sulphurated hydrogen being formed during decomposition.

The raw albumen of an egg is soluble and consequently raw or soft-boiled eggs are merely digestible. The coagulated albumen (formed when eggs are boiled) is insoluble and indigestible for weak stomachs.

There is no other single element of human diet of either animal or vegetable character which is, perhaps, more commonly used the world over, nor served for the uses of man in a greater variety of styles and ways than are eggs.

Eggs are often taken as an antidote in various poisons, including bichloride of mercury (corrosive sublimate), sulphate of copper (blue vitriol), acetate of lead (sugar of lead) and nitrate of silver (lunar caustic, with which albumen forms insoluble compounds).

About six-tenths of all eggs is in white, three-tenths the yolk and one-tenth the shell. And of the white of an egg 80 per cent. is water, 15 1/2 per cent. dry albumen and 4 1/4 per cent. salts, etc. Even more albumen is contained in the yolk—17 1/4 per cent. The yolk has so much oil (23 per cent.) that it is really an emulsion.

The negro population of the United States is approximately 12,000,000, the larger part (probably 10,000,000) being in the Southern States.

Middle names were once regarded as illegal in England.

The average adult inhales about one gallon of pure air per minute.

The Lakes of Killarney are thought to have been once the site of a hot and poisonous city.

Hammets were mentioned as being the outstretched hands of the sun.

INFLUENZA

Catarrhal Fever, Pink Eye, Shipping Fever, Eczema.

And all diseases of the horse affecting his throat speedily cured; colic and horses in same stable kept from having colic by using SPENCER'S DISINFECTANT COMPOUND, a 1/2 cent. dry albumen and 4 1/4 per cent. salts, etc. Even more albumen is contained in the yolk—17 1/4 per cent. The yolk has so much oil (23 per cent.) that it is really an emulsion.

SAVED BY POETRY.

Plaintive Pina That Moved Ly-sander to Spare Athens.

When, B. C. 48, after a heroic struggle, Athens, the "City of the Violet Crown," was captured by Ly-sander there were not wanting clamorous voices to urge that the city whose lust for empire had brought such woes on Greece ought to be laid level with the ground.

The Spartan general at first lent a willing ear to his powerful allies, but while the council was still debating this momentous issue a plaintive voice was heard from the city walls enating those noble lines from the "Electra" of Euripides, that most human of the poets of Greece, in which the heroine contracts her fall on lot with the splendid exaltation of her father, who had dismantled the towers of Troy.

Ly-sander bent his head and pondered on fortune's cruel reverse. Triumphant as Agamemnon, who could tell but that he might be reserved for a fate as cruel? The lesson of moderation was accepted. Athens was saved.

Milton has immortalized this dramatic event in one of his best known sonnets.

The repeated air of sad Electra's poet had the power to save the Athenian walls from ruin bare.

A Remedy for an Ailment That is Very Distressing.

Exposure to cold and wet is a usual cause of sore throat, and it may be of rheumatic or gouty origin. Local irritation, as from drinking hot drinks or the inhalation of noxious gases, will cause an acute catarrhal inflammation of the mucous membrane of the pharynx, soft palate and uvula. Going out of doors when very warm, not protected by wraps, will cause an inflammation in the throat. Housekeepers run out into the yard to hang up tea towels, etc., and nine times out of ten never put on a scarf or coat, and then wonder why they suffer so frequently from attacks of sore throat and cold. Much of the ill-health we suffer from can be traced to carelessness and heedlessness on our own part. It is contrary to reason and good judgment to sit down to cool off, when very warm, where the wind will blow directly upon one. To ride about in open automobiles without wearing heavy coats and being protected about the feet by thick robes. The many thoughtless things one does every day will cause a sore throat, which may be severe enough to result in a fatal illness.

The treatment for the symptoms, such as chilliness, fever, stiffness and tenderness in the muscles of the neck, soreness in the throat and painfulness when swallowing—the hoarseness and dry, hacking cough—is by medicines. First a gargle. This may be one of potassium chlorate, used three times a day; or a gargle of bicarbonate of sodium—one teaspoonful dissolved in a teacupful of hot water and used (when warm) every five hours. It is best always to remain indoors, for 24 hours, and preferably in bed, when suffering from a beginning cold or sore throat. A laxative medicine (whether suffering from constipation or not) should be taken. A bottle of the effervescent citrate of magnesia or a dose of castor oil. If the pain in throat is severe, cold applications are soothing—cloths wrung out of cold water and applied to the neck, changing them as soon as they become warm. Sucking small pieces of chopped ice proves grateful also. If the fever is high and there is an unusual amount of restlessness and irritability always call in a physician.

CHILDHOOD CONSTIPATION

Mrs. Andrew G. Lund, Hughenden, Alta., writes: "Two of my babies were very much troubled with constipation and I tried several remedies without success. A neighbor advised me to try Baby's Own Tablets and they were so satisfactory that now I would use nothing else." The Tablets never fail to cure constipation and they may be given to the youngest child with perfect safety. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Sir John Lubbock's Ant.

In the biography of Sir John Lubbock, later Lord Avebury, is an amusing story of the notice accorded to an odd pet in the Lubbock family. One of two illustrious queen ants, sovereign of one of the colonies upon which Sir John based his famous studies of the ways of the little creatures, attained the venerable age of fourteen years and then died. Several scientific journals spoke of her decease, and the news penetrated to France, where a distinguished French journalist, in whose mind, insufficiently acquainted with the possibilities of English orthography, ants and ants were evidently confused, offered profuse condolences to Sir John "on the loss of his aged and valued relative."

Golfer and Caster.

A quaint match took place on a Shropshire (England) golf course between a golfer using the usual clubs and ball and an angler with his rod and a two and a half ounce fishing weight. A large crowd watched, while the angler endeavored to get round the course in fewer casts than the golfer made strokes. The angler started favorite, and, of course, bunkers had no terrors for him. But he lost heavily on the longer holes, though some of his best casts were more than a hundred yards, and were well beaten on the round, taking 102 casts against his opponent's 87 strokes.

An Eye for His Colors.

Haiti appears to breed a spirit of sensitive patriotism unknown in other countries. Some years ago a general in the Haitian army ordered an artificial eye. The maker did his best to execute the order satisfactorily, but the eye was returned from Port au Prince, with a letter complaining that "the eye you forwarded me is of a tint that resembles the Spanish flag. I am far too patriotic to wear any colors but those of my own country." After ascertaining from the minister of Marine the colors of the Haitian standard a scarlet and green eye was dispatched, and this met with enthusiastic approval.
