THIS PLANT IS A THIEF.

Dodder Steals All the Digested Food of Its Clover Neighbors.

Possibly he's too lazy to feed himself or it may be that he came from a family of criminals and can't overcome his heredity. At any rate he's a robber, a thief and a plunderer.

After awhile the root withers and dies and the vine keeps reaching out for more victims, binding them together with its tiny threads.

The Difference.

Case and Comment says that at a recent meeting in Hamilton one of the speakers told of a colored witness who was rebuked by the judge for the constant repetition of the phrase, "also, and likewise."

LONDON SCARES

Men, it has been well said, thank in herds. It will be seen that they go mad in herds, for innumerable instances can be given of a whole people suddenly taking off the trammels of reason and running wild under the delusion of some impending calamity.

A panic terror of the end of the world spread over London in 1776 by the prophecy of the famous Whiston, who predicted that the world would be destroyed on Oct. 13 in that year.

Again in the year 1761 the citizens of London were plunged into excitement by two earthquake shocks, and the prophecy of a third, which was to destroy them altogether.

As the awful day approached the excitement became intense, and great numbers of credulous people resorted to all the villages within a circuit of twenty miles, there to await the doom of London.

Great consternation was caused in London in 1524 by a prediction that on the 1st day of February the waters of the Thames would overflow the whole city of London and wash away 10,000 houses.

By the middle of January at least 20,000 persons had quitted the domain of the city, leaving nothing but the bare walls of their homes to be swept away by the impending floods.

The man or woman who is run-down, not feeling up to the mark, whose irritable, nervous or sleepless nights can wait no longer, about the wonderful results the newly discovered blood-food is giving the folks that use it.

There is a reason for this change and that reason consists of the fact that Ferrozone contains blood-making materials you can get in no other way.

Ferrozone makes the blood tingle and sings with new vitality. This ensures lots of nourishment and strength being supplied to every part of the body.

Amnestic for the Teeth Wanted.

There is no local anesthetic that will penetrate dentine, which forms the principal part of a tooth. That is why dentists hurt teeth so much when drilling holes in them for fillings or when grinding them down for gold crowns.

Tavern Heroes.

The Marquis of Granby bears a title that swings from many a tavern sign-board all England over. London alone has some half a dozen. Yet this popular soldier, who commanded England's troops in Germany during the Seven Years' War, was the target of some of "Junius'" most bitter invective.
