Wouldn't you enjoy having a comfortable New Chair?

Here come

Dear Mary—

How much I enjoyed my visit with you! This is not very complimentary to you, but I know my pleasure was increased because you had such a comfortable chair to repose in.

Despite all the new things I've bought, I'm going to ask my husband to give me just one thing more—a nice pretty easy easy chair.

I'll tell him he can use it night and Sundays.

Your friend—HELEN.

P. S. I like your new furniture and rugs very much. I know you got them at

The Bacon Hog

Few people realize that the bacon hog has taken place in trade in the war. An example of this is the bacon industry. Prior to 1914 each year saw the exports from Denmark to Great Britain increase and those of Canada decrease, for at least a decade back. Since that time Denmark has seemingly switched her trade from her friends to the enemy, for in 1915 the exports declined 73,000 pounds. At the same time Canada's exports have been continually on the increase, having been 23,920,861 pounds for the year ending March 31, 1914, 72,036,027 pounds for 1915 and 144,150,309 pounds for 1916. Against this had to be recorded a decrease in the last five years in the number of hogs in the country of one million. The facts are given in a pamphlet entitled "The Bacon Hog and the British Market," by John Bright, Live Stock Commissioner, and H. S. Arkell, Assistant Commissioner, that can be had free on application to the Publication to the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. The author points out that this state of affairs is most unfortunate in the face of the rare opportunity that is offered to further extend our "Wiltshire" trade with Great Britain, a trade that for the year ending Dec. 31, 1915, amounted in value to $15,957,652. While there is a certain demand also for the fat hog, Messrs. Bright and Arkell do not favor increased breeding in that direction for the export trade, as the United States are in a superior position to Canada to the raising of that particular sort. The bacon hog is our opportunity, but to take advantage of it we shall have to be more conservative in our methods. As the pamphlet says, the word over there exists a confidence in the future of the live stock trade which has no parallel in history. Canada has now the opportunity of placing herself in a very powerful position in the export bacon business. The most stable condition of affairs can be brought about by each farmer doing his bit to increase production without involving himself in any great financial outlay.

Feeding Problems

Considering the great lack of succulent stock foods such as silage and roots, and the shortage of barley and corn, many feeders will be at a loss to know what supplementary foods to buy. This shortage means, especially among dairy farmers, that intelligent use will have to be made of such concentrated foods as oil cake, cottonseed, gluten and other meals.

If you are at a loss to know what to purchase as supplementary foods the local office of the Ontario Department of Agriculture will be able to lend you valuable assistance. Merely state the feeding material you have on hand and the local price of concentrates, and we will be able to advise what to buy and the proper quantities to feed.

For further particulars address Ontario Department of Agriculture, Cayuga, Geo. L. Woltz, Representative.
