Stand

lls Story On

awast him towhose right endorf and tae witness the royal has von der aylor, told a ht of the ention of Capt. German miiuntry. Roger id states Atams and other #s story, drivth the jurora er's array of comments e charge of the at of court, der Goltz bemith, in his moindictment, adfioliz and von pilot against the hat it did not enterprise and Thuscher while and pistols to hot have any riose to which e but. he details of the h Papen for the pland Canal and ney from von here men to asnd He said that letter of introuscher, who was the and the pisbtain Tauscher the war and of getting the der Goltz. "I fuses and an while I was done to see obtained. Cap-Alt after my exnight to be faemployed for by means of to'd me he old of getting ite from Caping it from a e told of get eken and inceither Asked of the reto make a id done our got the from Cap-Club then told 1 Niazara Weland Chair, lie said firitzen and make a trip to the canal, to canal. At means of an a river, and it the plotters s planned to d a cheque e parable to ich von Panen name of Statle detailed his brk that he did Papen. He delived a promise e Federal Govmony, but said nment had pro-

T QUELLED. Paris, June 28.ed a serious reting. The rebels by two Free

TWIXT LOVE AND PRIDE

Henry, forgive me!" she ex- | am only sad, and a little lonely, perclaimed, with deep emotion. "You haps," he concluded, turning abruptly cannot leave me like this. I know I away. have been bad, wicked, deceitful, in to her side again, and went on with know well you would never marry me | deceived her. now; and '-lowering her voice -"neither could I ever marry you having once shown you my heart; so there can be no misconception about that. But if you knew everything - how wretched I was, how hopeless, how essential it was that the money should be procured, how terrible it ber, Mildred, that whatever you do, was to me to have to borrow it, and how just and right a thing it seemed to me to give you myself in exchange, having no other means of repayment -you might, perhaps, pity me. Could you only have seen into my heart, you would have read there how real was my determination to be true to swered. you to make you a good wife, and love you eventually as well as I loved the broke down and covered her face with her hands. And Lyndon, who had never yet learned the art of being consistently unkind to anything, feit his wrath and wrongs melt away together, while a choking sensation arose in his throat. To see Mildred ery was to him the nearest pain and misery the world could afford. What was he that he should be the cause of tears to her?

He forgot all his own deep injuries, and taking the pretty golden head between his hands, he drew it down up on his breast, where she began to cry right heartily.

"Mildred, how could you do it?" he whispered, presently, in a broken voice. "Had you hated me, you could have done nothing more cruel. Child, did you never think of the conse-

"I know I have behaved basely to you," sobbed Mildred. "But I aever thought that this would be the end. All might have turned out so differently had-had this day never peen." 'I shall never cease to be thankful that this day did come, he answered, earnestly. "Better to wake from a happy dream in time than rest unconscious until the waking is too late. Bitter as it is to lose you now—and no one but myself can guess how nitter that is-would it not be far worse to discover that my wife had no sympathy with me, no thought akin to mine?" He paused for a moment, and then he said, sadly. "It seems a hard i ingly.

'No, there is noting," he answered, regretfully; "all that could be said or done would not obliterate the past. You are crying still, Mildred," raising of the most substantial dimensions. her face, and regarding it mournfuliy; "are you very sorry then for your work? And yet a few plain words ling one. There had been more dewould have prevented all this. Tell cided symptoms of amendment, and me-when returning the money, which i he had gone through the dressing of you insisted on doing after your grandaunt's death, why, then, did you and stoicism. But toward evening ne not honestly speak the truth? Was that not a good opportunity?"

asked, turning away her head shook his head, and made certain with a little shiver of distaste, changes in his medicine—but all to no "that would have appeared so detestable in your eyes. What?" she ex- a raging fever. claimed, accept your kindness gratefully when I was in sore need of it. and then, when I had no further want lest men of his day -who came and of it, to throw you off without the went through very much the same slightest compunction? Surely you formula as old Stubber-shook his would have thought that a very unworthy action."

than this," he answered, gloomily, he- and so and so-took a pinch of snuff, ginning to walk slowly up and down implored the anxious mother in terms the room, while she stood, weaving of the deepest solicitude to compose her fingers restlessly in and out, watching him. Poor Mildred, the bitterness of her remorse just then made half atonement for her sin. With a heart at once affectionate and deeply feeling, it was to her the intensest agony declared itself Lady Caroline, having to see Lyndon, so crushed and heartbroken, and know it was her own handiwork.

For a few minutes there was silexcept for the faint sound of Lyndon's footsteps, as he paced heavily to and fro on the thick carpet. At length she could bear it no longer. "Why do you not reproach me?" she cried, passionately. "Abuse me, speak harshly to me-do anything but act toward me as you are doing; your kindness is killing me. Not all the epithets you could heap upon me still raved; but he said: would punish me sufficiently for all I forgotten that I actually thrust myself mpon you? That it was I who offered myself to you that fatal night, not you who asked for me? Why do you not taunt me with all this? Have I to ched. Lyndon smiled, though rather sadly, together in such a manner. "I ar afraid you will have to go on being wretched forever if you are man, impatiently, and then the little waiting for me to be unkind to you," ray of reason that had come to him he said. "Do you know, strange as in connection with her face vanished, it may seem, all the displeasure I felt and he wandered off once more into in my heart against you has somehow the terrible feverland, bearing with disappeared, leaving only leve and him the name of her he loved.

forgiveness in its place. I am not For two hours he lay thus, calling, angry with you now, my darling; I

Corns Applied in Cured from corn-pinched toes can be cared by "Lody Communications of the cared by the corner by the corner by the cared by toes can be cured by Quick in 24 hours. "Putin 24 hours. "Putnam's" soothes away that drawing pain, eases instantly, makes the feet feel good at once. Get

She same without a moment's delay.

25c bottle of "Putnam's" to-day.

After a short interval he came back every way, but, oh, forgive me. I a forced cheeriness that in nowise

> "Hwever," he said, "of course this state of affairs will not last forever. Time, they say, cures all hings. In the meantime I will get through a little travelling, I think, and refresh my memory about certain foreign cities, so good-by for a while, and do not quite forget me during my absence. And"-in a low tone-"rememor whomsoever you marry, I wish you all the good fortune and happiness that can possibly befall vou."

"Are you sure you forgive me?" whispered Mildred, tremulously. "Think of all that has happened." "I do, with all my heart," he an-

"And you will promise to think no more of me, but try to love some other girl worthier and better?" "How shall I find her?" said he, a deep yearning breaking through the lightness of his tone. "Ah, very easily," she answered: "there will be no difficulty about that. But give me your promise that when you do meet with her you will not shut your heart against her, nor consider all women unlovable because one proved false. I shall feel happier when you have said that." "Very well," he said, "be happy then. I give you my word that, under such circumstances, I will do my best." "And"-hesitatingly-"do you forgive me?

"I do, indeed," he said for the second time. "Will you not kiss me then?" whispered Mildred. So he kissed her once again, for the last time, upon her lips, and it was thus they parted.

CHAPTER XXIV. Denzil did not appear to recover quite so rapidly as had been, at 11rst, confidently expected, the inward injuries he had received—though slight -telling on him more seriously than the doctors had anticipated.

Mrs. Younge had been telegraphed for on the evening of the accident, and had arrived at King's Abbott early the following morning, having elected to travel all night rather than endure the agonies of suspense, though the telegram had been very reassuring.

thing for me to say, but yet—oh, Mil- having seen his son, and been recog-Her husband came with her, but, "Is there nothing I can do to make doctor's report, which was very favor nized by him, and comforted by the able, had returned home, content to leave him in his mother's and Lady Caroline's care, who sat with him alternately, assisted by a hired nurse

The third day showed their patient arrarently better than on the precedhis wounds with wonderful composure grew depressed and irritable, and evinced a faint inclination to wander: "Oh, how could I do it, then?" she whereupon the doctor looked grave, no purpose. The next day he was in

So another doctor was hastily summoned from London-one of the greathead, looked grave, said his brother physician had done everything that "Still it would have been better was necessary, except for so and so, herself, and, having pocketed his fee. went back to London again, leaving them all terribly alarmed and dispirited by the pomposity of his man-

The fifth day after the fever first insisted on the poor mother's lying in Denzil's room as the time wore on toward evening. Bending over his bed, she noticed a certain change in his face. "What is it?" she asked, tenderly. "Mildred," he whispered, with deep entreaty in his tone, and holding out his band. "I am not Mildred, dear Denzil," said Lady Caroline, thinking that he

"I know you are not," quite dishave made you suffer. Have you tinctly; and then again, "I want her -why does she never come to me?" Poor Lady Caroline was greatly perplexed; she knew not what to do. Had things been different, she would have followed the dictates of her own put these cruel thoughts into your kind heart, and sent for Midred on head, or is it that you are too noble the spot; but, as it was, she rememto use them against a woman? If | bered former scenes and Lyndon's you would only be unkind to me. I recent sad departure, and did not care think I should not feel quite so wret- to take the responsibility on herself of bringing her daughter and Denzil

"Mildred, Mildred!" called the sick sometimes wildly, sometimes feebly, but always for her, until his loving nurse's heart was smitten to the core. At length came Stubber, the family 5 Seconds doctor, and seeing Denzil in this state,

"Lady Caroline," he said, with deci-

She came without a moment's delay, and, even as her foot crossed the threshold, a sudden silence fell upon Denzil. He turned—the fever for a time sank conquered-while his beautiful eyes lit up with passionate expectation and fond hope.

Slowly and with hesitation Mildred advanced to the side of the bed, and then Lady Caroline went over to the window, followed hurriedly by the

What happened after that nebody knew, for Lady Caroline and Stubber, standing with their backs to the bed, and their faces turned to the chilly outer world, could tell nothing.

When at length they returned to the bed, they found Mildred pale and trembling, the heavy tears coursing each other down her cheeks in rapid succession, which are hastily brushed away as they drew nearer, her hand tightly clasped in Denzil's. He had even made an effort to hold her with the poor injured fingers, and had brought them so far that the tips touched hers.

He was quite sane now. His face, slightly flushed, was looking upward; his eyes, glad and happy, were fixed on hers, while she answered back the gaze, forgetful of all else but that he lay before her sick, it might be, unto death.

"Denzil, you are exciting yourself," said Lady Caroline, nervously. "No, I am not," answered Denzil. his voice clear and distinct, but with-oline nor the doctor could bring themselves to disobey the command.

But Stubber, who was becoming seriously uneasy about his patient, glancing round at him cautiously and surreptitiously, saw what followed. He said that when he and Lady Caroline had again withdrawn, Denzil looked at Miss Trevanion, and that then Miss | returned "the queen," evasively. Trevanion stooped and kissed him, not once, but twice.

This was what Stubber said, but he have I never seen her since—in any also added that it was his firm belief | way?" that she did it out of pure humanity and nothing more. When two minutes her?" asked Mabel jesuitically, and later, he again approached Younge, he with considerable confusion, turning found that Madred had disappeared, to arrange some flowers in the small and that Denzil was lying perfectly table near her. composed, his face turned toward the half-open door He sighed heavily. to the realities of life.

that I am better?"

"Time will tell," answered the little in that much-to-be-desired condition. | me to remain in this room." Lary Caroline, I trust to you to let no more young ladies into the room to go?" demanded Dr. Stubber, irritthis evening."

Denzil laughed rather rationally, and, changing over to the other side, his patient during the past few weeks, in a few minutes fell into a sound refreshing slumber.

Not once again during all the reway, althuogh Lady Caroline noticed the intense look of interest that came down to morrow." into his face whenever her name was casually mentioned.

After a week or two the remembrance of her visit faded, or came to him only as a shadow from the feveruntil the doctor had given nim permission to quit his bed for an hour or so every day, to lie on a lounge in the adjoining apartment, did he venture to speak of it and try to discover the truth.

It was one morning, when he was feeling considerably stronger, and had him scraps of poetry that every now down for an hour or two, was sitting | and then struck her fancy as she glanced through the volume in her hand, that he approached the subject. "Is your sister away from home?" he asked, in the middle of a most patnetic subject. And Mabel answered "No," reddening a little.

"Then I think she might have come to see me before this," he said, with all the fretfulness of an invalid.

"Well, you see she has all the housekeeping to attend to, now mamma is so much your slave," returned Mabel, smiling; "that keeps her away. She always asks for you, though, and is so glad to hear of your getting on so rapidly."

This sounded rather lame, and Mabel, feeling it to be so, tried once more to resort to her book "I suppose it would give her too much trouble to make her inquiries in

DRS. SOPER & WHITE

SPECIALISTS Piles, Eczema, Asthma, Catarrh. Pimples, Dyspepsia, Epilepsy, Rheumatism, Skin, Kid-ney, Blood, Nerve and Bladder Diseases. Call or send history for free advice. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours—10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays—10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Consultation Free DRS. SOPER & WHITE

25 Toronto St., Toronto, Ont. Please Mention This Paper.

person," he said, bitterly, "every one else comes to see me except herself. Surely Lyndon could not object to that?

"Have you not heard, then" asked Mabel, hesitatingly. "I fancied you would have known before this. Her engagement with Lord Lyndon is at an end. He has been abroad for the last four weeks." CHAPTER XXV.

"Mildred's engagement is at an end with Lord Lyndon!" Denzil's pale, haggard face flushed crimson; he put up his uninjured hand and brushed back his hair impetuously, fixing his eyes on Mabel the while. "What caused it?" he asked, with suppressed agitation. "It must have been very sudden. Four weeks ago, you saywhy, that was just after-" He paused

"Just after your accident occurred," said Mabel, slowly; and then she grew frightened, fearing that Mildred would condemn the remark if she heard of it, and determined to make no more admissions, whatever happened. "You are talking too much," she went on, hurriedly: 'you are looking very pale. Your mother will say it is all my fault when she comes in. Lie back amongst your cushions comfortably, and I will go on with my reading

"'We look before and after, And pine for what is not:

short laugh—"I am afraid you think cent. in eighteen years. me a savage—do you?—and are wonated during this iliness, or whether I am now, for the first time, showing The former has great need of being is, I like talking to you better Learn to be a careful investor than listening to the most per- first thing a careful buyer does if he to-day, and beware of substitutes. fect poetry that could be written, Now wants to buy a horse, a cow, a house dollar outfit is guaranteed, and small You cannot call that uncomplimentary or a farm, a bond or a share of size, 50c; trial size, 25c. At all dealat all events, can you? I feel as though stock is to make a careful investigations. I had left the world for years, and, tion. Schoolboys may swap the having come unexpectedly back to it, jackknives they hold in their closed am now hearing all the strange things a sort of Rip-van-Winklish feeling, can buy with as great safety as the me before I make my way downstairs, same bankers or brokers in these out moving his eyes from Mildred's; Miss Sylverton was with me yester- days when small lots are popular day, and told me of Charlie's promo- with firms of established character. He waved them back, impatiently, tion. She said nothing of her marto the window, and neither Lady Car- riage, however; but no doubt that will follow, as a matter of course." "It is almost arranged to take place next month," observed Mabel. "Queenie," said Denzil, in a low voice, "tell me this—when did I last see Mildred?" "It was she that saw you fall, and went to your assistance, you know," "I know that," said Denzil-"your mother told me the whole story. But

"Oh, where could you have seen

"It was only a dream then," murmured Denzil, disappointedly, and said but contentedly, and then came back no more on the subject, to his companions great relief. But the next day "Dr. Stubber," said he, "do you know he tormented little Stubber to allow him to go downstairs.

"Do, doctor," he implored, earnestdoctor, sententiously; "and now you ly; "I feel I shall never progress tomust go to sleep if you wish to keep | ward recovery so long as you compel "And where, may I ask, do you want ably. He had grown wenderfully fond of and could not bear to deny him anything but what was impossible. "To the library," said Denzil, "they can wheel the sofa up to the fire, and mainder of his illness did Miss Tre- I promise you faithfully I will not try vanion enter Denzil's room; neither to walk. Give me your permission, did he ask for nor allude to her in any and then my mother and Lady Caroline can say nothing. I want to go

(To be continued.) HEALTHY BAB'ES

A well child sleeps well and during ed past he had gone through, and not its waking hours is never cross but always happy and laughing. It is only the sickly child that is cross and peevish. Mothers, if your children do not sleep well; if they are cross and cry a great deal, give them Paby's How One British Soldier Escaped With a tongue that's big and black with a tongue that beginning that the tongue that beginning to the black with a tongue that beginning that beginning to the black with a tongue that beginning to the black with a tongu Own Tablets and they will soon be well and happy again. Concerning the Tablets, Mrs. Chas. Diotte, North Tem-Mabel beside his couch, reading to ascaming, Que., writes: "My baby was greatly troubled with constipation and cried night and day. I began giving night." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

HIGH COST OF LIVING.

Things That Are Mere Comforts Now Used to be Luxuries.

phasis on the fact that if the cost of ing, a grenade in his capacious fist. living is higher now it is to a large This he dexterously returned to his extent because the average man is de pocket when the Boches had finished manding more comforts and luxuries, rummaging his tunic. and these must cost more. Before the was borne in triumph to the German days of plumbing and bathrooms the lines. For some reason he appears. rivmbing out of the house.

tricity, but people pay more for a without slipping out the safety-pin, he medern light because they want the suddenly broke from his posture of better service even at the higher cowed subjection and brought the obprices. Workmen by the thousands ject down with a tremendous whack have phonographs, a form of enter- upon the skull of his guard. The Gertainment unknown until a very few man dropped like a log, his rifle and wage-earning family. suredly, but it also yields more.

Even street cars are rather a new subscribed for such a publication.

MAKE YOUR MONEY WORK

And the Lesson the Small Investor Needs to Learn.

The advice of one of the large, banks of the country is that every one should invest his surplus, wnether large or small, in dividend securities of the best class, whether railroad, real estate or farm mortgages or public utilities, for "To keep seeds, and the broom grew. Then the or public utilities, for "To keep money idle is a costly operation."

Let every reader of this article remember that with as little as $5 or $10 he can make first payment on the purchase of a first class $100 bond. Let every reader who has a few hundred dollars to spare put it in a good $500 or $1,000 bond on the partial payment plan and let it earn something. Five hundred dollars invested in a 6 per cent. bond (with the income deposited in a savings bank at 4 per cent.) will double itself in 12 years—that is, the $500 will have become $1,000 in that time. This $1,-000 at 6 per cent. will earn $60 a "No," interrupted Denzil, putting his year or over $1 a week for its posses- fills the breathing organs with a headhand hastily over the open page. "I sor. Even at 5 per cent. it will ing, soothing vapor that relieves ird-

The lesson the small investor wants dering whether I have sadly deterior to learn is that his money is just as works like a charm. Catarrhozone good as that of the larger investor. a permanent cure for bronchitis myself in my real character. The fact careful because he has less to spare. that have happened during my absence know better. The humblest investor suppose; so I want you to educate proudest, for both can deal with the

SWORDS OF JAPAN.

Religious Rites in Their Making and a Final Blessing.

That the Japanese are past masters in the art of sword making is proved by the splendid weapons, equal to those of Toledo and Damascus, which they turn out. The actual methods of Proper supply of fuel. sword making in Japan are jealously guarded, an entraordinary feature of the industry being the religious ceremony which accompanies every proof every sword making shop in Japan works easily, but it is powerful will be found to be covered with rarely gets out of order. allegorical representations of the Evil spirits are kept away by charms succeeded. He could not make even consisting of bits of paper and wisps feather! Finally he discovered that of straw, while, should any woman he would make a machine that enter the shop, disaster would cer- fly he must give it wings and an tainly come to the swords that are gine, So he constructed an aeroplane being made and to their wielders. which has wide, stiff wings, Consequently women are absolutely "planes," measuring about thirty debarred from entering business as from tip to tip. These wings cannot sword makers, while not only is be flapped, and in themselves they furprayer offered up before the work nish no power. But to them man added begins, but various religious rites an engine driven by gasoline and elecreculiar to the Japanese are performed tricity. This engine turns a long bladin order that the swords, when finally ed propeller, which urges the completed, may be said to have been plane forward, while the planes sup-well and truly laid. Even the final processes of polishing and sharpening are characterized by certain religious ceremonies, and finally the weapons are offered; one by one to be sword god to be blessed. This ceremony consists in placing the swords in front of the goddess of the Shintos on the wail, with an offering of sake, rice and sweetmeats, after SLEEP WELL AT NIGHTS which prayer scrolls are read and blessing upon the work is invoked.

A CLEVER TOMMY.

Reuter's correspondent, writing from the British Headquarters, says a certain soldier is now the pride of his regiment in consequence of the skill her Baby's Own Tablets, and now she and daring with which he extricated is fat and healthy and sleeps well at himself from a very tight corner. Just where the adventure happened matters not. The man was sent out on patrol duty with another. They were surprised by a party of the enemy in considerably stronger force, and called upon to surrender. They replied by firing, and killed a German, after which the companion bolted.

The unnamed hero, coming to the conclusion that a live man is very much better than a dead one, permitted himself to be taken. But his captors failed to observe that, with No economist has put enough em- | sieight-of-hand skill, he was conceal-workman missed some onerous bills, to have been left in charge of a solibut he is now ready to throw the tary senting, whilst the rest of the Oil is cheaper for light than elec- drawing the bomb from his pocket, but bayonet clattering to the ground.

Tommy, then took to his heels in thing, and the poorest families spend the direction of the British lines, but many dollars every year for this ser- had not gone far when he came upon vice, which has become indispensable. another German patrol. Challenged Magazines are purchased now by many to surrender, he stood still, and allowpeople who ten years ago had never ed the enemy to approach him close. Then suddenly poising the grenade, he Thousands of articles are for sale in hurled it right into the midst of the every department store, of which a little group. There was an immediate large percentage are purchased at explosion, followed by cries and some time or other by the average groans, and the gallant soldier continued his sprint, returning safely to Modern living does cost more as | tell the story to his cheering comrades.

FIGHTING NATURE What One Man's Patient Effort

Wrang From a Desert in France

In the southwest of France, between In the southwest of France, between the rivers anoute and tharonne, are load stretches of pine woods, green and cook. Where these pines how stand was a barren waste in the mudale of the leat ceutury. Spun and wind vied with each other in making the land crier and dustier. Over the stormy bay of Biscar came winds that set up great sandstorms and sometimes buried whose villages. The whole region was one of beplessness and despair. Fate was against if and despair. Fate was against it.
But flually there came a man who acknowledged fate only as something to be Enowledged fate only as something to a overcome. This man, one Bremontier, was an inspector of roads. He began fencing in the desert. He built a tenor and behind it planted broom seeds.

broom in its turn afforded shelter to the delicate pine shoots.

Soon the pines spread, and the rough roots bound the sandy sod sether. The first step was accomplished. Then canals were made to drain the wat parts and carry water to the dry.

Thus did one man by patient turn a dreary desert into a home are industrious and healthy population. Rewas an instance of triumph over fallows. New York Tribune.

TEN MINUTE COLD CURE RELIEVES ALMOST INSTANTLY

Nothing cures so quickly as the healdcuble in fifteen years and at 4 per tation at once. Ordinary colds cured in ten minutes. Absolutely sure for catarrh, and in throat trouble E throat trouble. Not an experiment not a temporary relief-but a care

WINGS OF A BIRD

Compared to Them Flying Machine Planes Are but Toys.

Although the bird traveler has trunk to pack, guidebook to study ar ticket to buy, still he must make some preparations for the journey. The warbler, which nests in Aleska and passes the winter in northern South America, should not begin 8,000 mile voyage through the air over mountains, plains and seas unless engine is in good order and it has

"But," you ask, "what is a bird's engine, and where does it carry fuel?" A bird's engine is really its wings and the muscles which move them. It cess of their manufacture. The walls | is one or the most period carrons.

sword makers and the chief goddess flying machines which should have wings like those of birds. But he never port it when it is in motion. But a bird's wing, we must remenber, is both plane and engine. It gives support as well as power. It is therefore a far more remarkable machine than the one made by man.—Frank L Chapman in St. Nicholas.

FANCY AND FACT.

Is he livin' in the tre'nches, a-fighther of the Turks,
And a-servin' of his Majesty the Klass With a sun that's blazin' 'ot And the chance of gettin' shot Any minute, any minute as he hears the bullets sing.

Is he marchin' on the desert, doct And 'alf a pint o' water or else—maybe a quarter— To quench 'is thirst each day, until

Is he fight'? Is he marchin' Is he live in a camp? or is he in a dug-out, six by four?
With bombs a dropping round had artillery to pound 'im

And blow him to the Ever Sunny Shor

With

No! He ain't fightin' now, and won't be for a bit. And he ain't a-sniping Turcos from stump. He's a-lyin' (this 'ere Bard) In the Isolating Ward ith the measles—and a double dose

F.N.P. in Manchester Eng., City News. "In screening coal the undesirable products are gotten rid of." "It out to work that way in screening place tures."-Louisville Courier-Journal.

Nervous, sick headaches tell of exhausted nerves, and warn you of approaching prostration or paralysis. By enriching the blood Dr. Chase's Nerve Food restores the wasted nerve cells and thoroughly cures headaches, sleeplessness and other nervou disorders. 50 Cents a Box, all Dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Linked Toronto.

