Infantile Paralysis

WHAT IS IT?

The following instructions regarding Infantile Paralysis are issued by the Provincial Board of Health:

Infantile Paralysis, also called Anterior Poliomyelitis, is a communicable disease chiefly of children between the age of two and fourteen years. Older children and adults may also be effected by the disease. The cause is unknown. It is known, however, that the agent causing the disease is present in the secretions of the nose and mouth and in the intestinal tract from being swallowed.

The disease is epidemic in some United cities and at least one town in Ontario.

It is believed that Infantile Paralysis is spread from one child to another by means of the secretions of the nose and mouth by direct transfer. It is possible also that it is spread by flies which have been in contact with intestinal discharges. It may become widespread in country as well as in crowded city districts, and persons who have been in contact with cases of the disease may harbour the contagion and give it to others without contracting the disease themselves.

WHAT TO DO ABOUT IT:

(1) Every CASE must be quarantined for a period of SIX weeks.

(2) All children who have been in contact with a case must be quarantined and kept under observation for a period of TWO weeks.

(3) Adult members of the family who are wage earners may be allowed to go about their work subject to the regulations of the Provincial Board and on the direction of the Medical Officer of Health.

(4) Where there is an outbreak, gatherings of children, such as picnics, picture shows, and playgrounds should be prohibited.

(5) The source and origin of each case should be carefully enquired into in order that proper quarantine may be maintained.

(6) In houses where cases appear all doors and windows should be screened, the premises kept clean, and no accumulation of garbage or waste permitted.

(7) All cases should be at once notified to the Medical Health Officer, and by him to the Chief Officer of the Provincial Board.

(8) Mild Cases showing slight headache, rise of temperature and vomiting persisting for a few days, with slight muscular weakness and absence of paralysis, should be quarantined. These are probably one of the chief sources of contagion.

(9) As Infantile Paralysis is a most serious disease and in the present epidemic giving a high death-rate, the public is urged to second the efforts of the authorities in every way in order to prevent a severe outbreak in the Province.

(10) All materials such as cloths, etc., carrying secretions and discharges from patients should be burned, boiled, or disinfected.

If the disease shows any tendency to succeed, special quarantine measures may be necessary.

JOHN M. McCULLOUGH, Chief Officer of Health.

When the Boys come Home

Hear the heavy tramp of footsteps as the boys come marching in From the war that's ended justly, hear the merry church bells ring. Though the dead are not forgotten, still there's nought but joy to-day, Strike up the martial music, let the drums and bugles play.

Cheer after cheer will give them and a hearty welcome home. For they fought our battles nobly in the land across the foam. We will press in front to greet them and shake them by the hand, And we'll hail them all as heroes and a credit to the land.

There'll be happy homes tonight, now the boys are all come home. For we have them back in safety; their feet no more will roam. No need the daily news to scan with eager anxious air. And mother's, wives, and little ones can throw aside their fear.

Then men who went we'll honor, but what of those who stayed? No "Honor Roll" will bear their name, no loved ones for them prayed. Too late to think of duty when the work has all been done. And deep remorse has been the lot of each and every one.

—HENRY A. ASHMEAD, Gen. Post Office, Toronto, Ont.
