Will present the Colors

A beautiful stand of colors has been promised to the 114th by Mrs. and Miss Margaret Thompson, wife and daughter of Lt. Colonel Thompson, both daughters of Haldimand, the one by adoption and the other by birth.

"Colors" are something with which the people of Haldimand are not familiar, because rifle regiments never carry them, and the 37th Haldimand Rifles was a rifle regiment. A few words of explanation, then, are in order.

The Colors consist of two flags, the one known as the King's Colour, the other as the Regimental Color. They represent the honor of the Battalion, and are always greatly cherished by the corps. Many a brave man has given his life to save the colors, and many another has won distinction by saving a set from the enemy.

Old churches, public halls, museums, etc., in Great Britain, are thickly adorned by colors taken in many a noted British war, besides which it is customary to deposit colors in Cathedrals and Churches when they have grown too old and tattered for further use. Upon them is embroidered the names of battles in which the corps possessing them has been engaged with distinction—"Battle honors" as they are known, and perhaps when these come back to Haldimand, the war over, they too will be adorned with proud historic names. Stringent rules and regulations are laid down for these military flags. They must each be made of the heaviest possible silk, three feet nine inches long, by three feet broad, surrounded by a beautiful gold fringe.

The King's Color is the Union Jack embroidered in the centre with the King's Crown and a part of the regimental crest. The Regimental Color is of dark blue, and in its centre is embroidered the full regimental crest. Rules are laid down too, for the exact shades and colors of the silk to be used in the embroidery, and only an expert is really capable of producing an absolutely correct set. The work is in the hands of Mrs. Malone, of Ottawa, a lady who has produced numbers of very beautiful specimens for other corps. It will take her with an assistant, six weeks of steady labour to finish the task.

The presentation of colors is always a great day in the history of a corps. When the Haldimand Battalion has been together for some fairly well drilled, it is the intention to have the ceremonial, and big excursions will be run from all parts of Haldimand, so that the people may see their very best.

Rescued by Nature.
"Were you ever lost in the woods?"
"Almost."
"Who rescued you?"
"Nature."
"What do you mean?"
"The wind was blowing so hard that the girl didn't hear me when I proposed."—London Standard.

Smoked Ceilings.
Smoke from a lamp or gas often soils a ceiling in the one particular spot, while the rest remains beautifully white. It is useful to know that ceiling ceilings caused by lamp and gas will be rendered less conspicuous if rubbed over with dry whiting.

Just What He Meant.
"Is the rain still keeping up?"
"Why, what d'ye mean? I haven't seen any rain."
"That's what I asked you, if it was still keeping up?"—Exchange.

Cheap.
"Mrs. Gabby just loves to indulge in cheap talk."
"Then let her try a little conversation on the line between New York and San Francisco."—New York Times.

Children of Today.
"If you don't give me a piece of your chocolate, Edith, I'll tell mamma that you are secretly engaged."—Fleegende Blätter (Munich).

For Example.
"Everything has got to be improved right along to go these days."
"Not at all. Take love making. There haven't been any improvements for years, and yet it goes great."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Domesday Book.
According to Stone's Chronicle, the title of "Domesday Book" arose from the circumstance that the original document was kept in a place in Westminster cloisters called Domes Day, or house of God.

Didn't Have to Come.
"Don't any of your friends come to see you on visiting days?" asked the kindly old lady.
"No'm," responded No. 777,444; "they're all here wit' me."—Buffalo Express.

After the Honeymoon.
"I think his love is growing cold."
"Now, my dear, you mustn't imagine things."
"It is not imagination. He reads a newspaper while I am sitting on his lap."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Creature From the Fire.
Aristotle believed that some creatures were capable of supporting life even though confined to the devouring element. He says: "In Cyprus, when the manufacturers of chalcitis (lime) burn it many days in the fire, a winged creature something larger than a great fly is seen emerging from the stone and leaping and walking about in the fire. These creatures perish immediately upon being removed from the furnace."

Saving the Innocent Ones.
Governor Stewart of Missouri once found eight convicts mowing the grass of the statehouse lawn. He questioned them. Seven of them said they were innocent men. The eighth said, "I stole or hawg, sah, an' it was a mo' stonishing good hawg!"
"You're pardoned!" Stewart thundered. "Leave the prison at once. We must preserve our innocent convicts from contamination."

A Trip Through the Cariboo Country

ON the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, is a little town crowded in between the Thompson River and the tracks of steel that span a continent and a Dominion.

Its time table name is Ashcroft, the southern doorway of a famous Cariboo Columbian region known as the Cariboo country. For nearly seven hundred miles northward the route extends, for long years one of the most picturesque stage routes of the continent, a route operated by the "B. X." as the British Columbia Express Company is locally known. For many a long year the stages and freighters climbed the hills, and crept, so, rather galloped down grade, on this unique thoroughfare—ten, eighteen freight teams and capacious stage coaches drawn by the pick of the stables.

But today the automobile has invaded this mountain realm and there are still traditions of what happened and what was said when the Guggenheimer copper kings sent in the first motor car and had a fight for the right of way on a narrow bit of road with a huge freighter. It was a battle royal, chiefly in the language of the western type.

I know of no roadway in all Canada that offers a greater variety of human interest. Nature is revealed in an infinite variety of scenery as she exhibits her varied moods. Shacks of the old-timers survive alongside of comfortable modern homesteads. Here a semi-arid hill bears only sage brush, there an irrigation ditch has turned a desert into a garden. Scarcely is a beautiful stream, opening into a series of lakes, while a few miles along the way cascades leap from the upper levels. Indian villages alternate with the white man's town, and the Oriental looks out at you from his shop or laundry or cook place. It is a meeting place of the nations in this Cariboo road.

Every mile is reminiscent of the gold rush of the 'Fifties, when thousands of adventurers, afflicted with the morrow's hang for gold, passed through the wilderness from which few have emerged. Legend and tragedy

(1) An Old Time Coach. (2) Ashcroft, B.C. (3) The Old Cariboo Trail, abundant in the tales of the old-timers, as the lonely and neglected graves add their pathetic note.

One doubts if there is another stretch of country in Canada's far-flung areas that is quite like the Cariboo trail. Evidence is abundant of untold mineral wealth. Forests clothe
