Sock Knitting.

The following note on How to finish off the toe of socks being knitted for the soldiers by the ladies of the Hal-diamond Sock Batt, will be of interest to the workers and satisfaction to the Committee in charge.

TOE—Divide the 60 stitches between the three needles, 23 on each. 1st row—Knit together 1st and 2nd stitches on each needle. 2nd row—Knit together 2nd and 3rd stitches on each needle. 3rd row—Knit together 3rd and 4th stitches on each needle. And so on, beginning again with 1st and 2nd stitches after reaching the last stitches on each needle. Decrease to nine stitches. Draw wool through stitches, and darn in carefully.

LUMBERING IN THE MUSKOKAS

There are something like a thousand million acres of woodlands in Canada, and about two hundred million of these acres are covered with timber suitable for trading purposes. It would be difficult to enumerate the various kinds of trees that flourish on those great tracts, but amongst the most important of the varieties are spruce, pine, fir, poplar, tamarack, cedar, hemlock, oak, elm, ash and maple. Every province has its own interesting features. In Alberta parts of the Rocky Mountains are covered with huge timber areas of great value. In British Columbia the forest area is estimated at about 180,000,000 acres; the forests of Quebec cover about 130,000,000 acres; then the large forests of Manitoba, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Yukon are regions from which much valuable timber is taken annually.

Not alone are the forests interesting for the value of their trees, but they are attractive through the grandeur of their appearance and for the wild birds and beasts which they shelter; and every farmer loves the trees, for they are to him a fortification that breaks the force of the storms that rain would destroy his property on those occasions when the elements get into an irritable mood. In portions of Western Canada some districts are very much exposed to the blast. With a view to affording them protection the Dominion Government has distributed trees for planting along the prairies. The conditions are often away from ideal, but the conditions as to the matter of cultivation have not been compared with the Canadian Pacific Railway company has also given our young men a similar object, and the great preservation Commission organizes expeditions and these expeditions at intervals or the best possible wind-break. In former years many of the Canadian forests suffered much destruction from fires, but of late the loss has not been so great. Some of the forests have their keepers who reside in pretty homes in the woods. Between such homes there is telephonic communication, so that if a fire breaks out the message can be quickly spread and fire-fighters brought to the spot before the flames become really formidable. Our government has not been forgetful of the necessity for preserving the wild cover 102,000 square miles. Amongst them run a network of beautiful rivers and lakes very valuable for the untold power that is in them and for the delight they give to the sight-seeing traveler or fisherman. Through these forests the Canadian Pacific Railway takes its track, opening up the region to the possibility of a great future. As a protection against forest fires in the Canadian Rockies the Canadian Pacific uses oil burning engines beyond Field. The illustrations of "Lumbering in the Muskoka" tell their own story, but it will not be uninteresting to narrate that the lumbering season begins about the time the snow begins to fall. Then the snow is broken by the loss of the timber. When the trees are cut down and divided into logs suitable for the mouth of the boards into which they are to be sawed at the mills, the hollows in the rugged ground are filled up by snow, and the horses or oxen can travel freely over paths that in summer would be impassable. Drawn by the horses, or oxen as it may be, the logs slip gracefully along the surface of the snow to a convenient point where they can be easily loaded on to sleigh to be drawn to the mill. But if the mill is far away the timber is often taken to the edge of a river ready for the drive to the mill when the ice melts. In other cases it is piled on the edge of a lake and when the ice breaks is gathered into booms and floated to the mill. There is an enormous supply of pulpwood in the Province of Ontario, and the district of Patricia, which has an area of 140,000 square miles, has vast timber resources which have not yet been thoroughly examined.
