A Machine Gun Section On our Way Rejoicing

For The 114th Battalion

Lieut. B. G. Fleming, of Cayuga, and Sergt. W. N. Rennie, of Dunnville, have returned from their course in machine gun training at the Exhibition Camp, Toronto, and a Machine Gun Section is to be organized in the battalion as soon as possible.

Machine Gunning is undoubtedly the most interesting of all arms of the service, and besides receiving instruction in the Machine Guns themselves the Gunners are trained in Signalling, Bombing, Scouting, Range-finding and many other subjects which compel the attention of their students on account of their interesting nature. The men of this section are permitted to wear a special Distinguishing Badge, and are not required to do Guard, Picquet or Fatigue duties either whilst in training or at the front; and when actually on service are only required to be in the Trenches at such times as it is necessary for them to be for the purpose of operating the guns. These privileges give them more leisure than falls to the lot of the ordinary "Tommy" and are much appreciated by those who enjoy them.

Thirty men are required immediately to qualify as Gunners, etc., for this detachment and on account of the specialized nature of this work only men of good education and physique and of a high standard of morals can be accepted as recruits.

This gives many who have been awaiting the opportunity to get into a "Corps d'elite" the chance they have long looked for.

Applications should be made by letter telephone or personal or personal interview to

LIEUT. E. G. FLEMING, Cayuga, Ontario.

BEING 1,200 miles from Australia—her nearest relative—New Zealand is probably the most isolated civilized region in the world, and for the reason that most of those who live there are of the same race as ourselves, we should be especially interested in this beautiful country and her people. New Zealand is made up of a group of islands, comprising in all about 104,751 square miles, and the native birds. Native animals are also few, but European birds and animals, and even fish, have been introduced with success. Gold, coal, copper and sulphur are the chief of the New Zealand minerals. Gold was first discovered in 1853, and since that time something like $350,000,000 worth was found. Auckland is the principal gold mining area. The Canadian Australasian Line has a regular service of fine passenger steamers between Auckland City and Vancouver.

At present the population of New Zealand is something like 1,000,000 people, and nearly all are of British extraction. Still there are 45,000 colored folks. The early inhabitants of the country were the Maori tribes; they came there in their war canoes in the fourteenth century. In 1642 the islands were discovered by Abel Janszon, a Dutch sailor, and Captain Cooke visited the place in 1769. It appears that when the famous captain returned to England he gave the English people a wrong impression of the place; he reported that the islands did not seem to be of much value, also that the Maori people would be a formidable race to attempt to conquer. Anyway, for 70 years after Captain Cooke's visit the British Government did not think it worth the trouble to annex the present proud possession. It was in 1840 that the Union Jack was first hoisted on the shores. At that time the Maori folks numbered 85,000. The decline in the race since then is due to disease and to war, for both have played a big part in the history of the Maoris. Before the British came these people warred amongst themselves, and later they warred against the British. Up to 1770 they knew nothing about pottery or metal, and until that period their battle instruments were their fists, clubs and stones—they were even unaware of the existence of bows and arrows. For themselves this was all the better, for immediately after the introduction of guns and swords amongst them fully one-fourth of them became no more. As time progressed those of the Maoris who were left progressed also, and between 1830 and 1840 many of them became Christian. Now the Maori children go to school side by side with children of our Southern cousins. Maori representatives take their part in the government of their country. Some of the Maori people are skilled at wood-carving and dyeing; they are an imaginative race, and have delightful poetry and tales to recite and tell. Their homes are pretty and their home life simple.

New Zealand has many things in common with Canada; she is a new country rapidly developing; she is rich; she is patriotic; she has sent thousands of brave soldiers to fight for the Empire in this great war. In New Zealand there are more men than women, and it is quite likely that after the war she will be a resort for some of the superfluous ladies of the Old Country, who, unable to have the opportunity of blessing some man at home, will seek the chance of blessing some abroad.
