cers on every ragments and s richer than other day in among the renounced the nd jewels, disade provision ties, spent her orphanage in She herself o shillinga a d, and makes but turist! lim, and it is about. Who have Thee in a consuming npest, light T. Miller.

RKETS.

Conadian livery, as fol-100 lbs. 0 01 100 lbs. 8 7 k 60 ibs. 8 11 100 lbs. 8 11 100 lbs. 8 01 100 lbs. 8 01 100 lbs. 8 01 100 lbs. 7 71 100 lbs. 7 51 nulated bags. nulated bags. cartons, 30c

DCK

RKETS XCHANGE.

igh Low Close 1 82% 1 82% 1 77½ 1 77⅓ 1 80 1 80 0 59% 0 59% 0 60% 0 60%

2 50 254 2 48% 2 51% bTo $1.81 5-8

N MARKE - December, sh, No. 1 hard, thern, $1.90 to $1.85 to $1.93. to $1. Oats 52c. Flourrst and second an, $26 to $27. MARKET.

rn, $1.87 1-2 to rn. $1.80 1-2 to 1.87 1-2 asked. 1 1-2: October. 70; December,

ARKETS. to-day's meet-Cheese Board

regular meeting

oard 602 boxes t 22 1-8c. combine busi-n't be careless

HER HUMBLE LOVER

that arrested Signa's footsteps.

cigar between his lips.

looked up and saw them.

"This is a surprise," he said, light-

"I'm quite well," said Archie, air-

"Reading a little, thinking much,"

are alike to him with a good conscience-or a bad one," he added, with a curious curl of the lips. As he dusted it with the duster which lay think if you sit here," and he places

coming and going a little as she appearance, I should speak the simple bored with my own society. Think ing is poor amusement, and it is one looked round the book lined room.

upon her face with an intent gaze.

"Yes," said Signa. "From my

Not a word of excuse. Simply the

'with them" in stead of "with us."

"It is very kind of Mrs. Podswell," ped and laughed softly, with quiet

"Do I think what?" asked Signa.

"I wonder whether you will be of-

"Isn't that generally understood?"

"I am answered," he responded.

Mrs. Podswell very much, and assure her that I should only be too delighted, but-but-will you help me with an excuse? I can't say that I am otherwise engaged, because I am not,

and she should know it. I have no grandmother on a sick bed, or business demanding an instant journey into a far country. Will you help

"No," said Signa, laughing softly.

"Besides, you misunderstood me. They

"I see. Will you thank

"You mean looking back?" said am rather too much given to."

"Disturbed-" he echoed, in a signifi-

Signa sat down.

proached her mission.

Signa.

He nodded.

past his had been.

his glance.

amusement.

eaid, slowly.

to come?"

she said.

smilingly.

said.

Signa laughed.

Signa colored.

remembering her errand.

dine with them to-morrow."

on the table. "Won't you sit down?"

"I have been dreaming! Well,

"What are you doing? Read-

It was the presence of a human be-

It was true that he had not spoken | were placed in alcoves built to receive a word to her in the drawing room at them. It was an apartment fit for a the rectory, but she was not offended; she knew that he had refrained from addressing her because he desired to ing. For seated in a chair near the avoid any reference to their meeting centre was Hector Warren. The table on the beach. With the delicacy of a gentleman he had so behaved as to which apparently had failed to interspare her any embarrassment. Signz est him; for he sat with his head quite understood it, and was in no resting on his hand, a cigar between way offended; she knew that he had read her uncle and aunt at a glance, upon the painted roof.

and it made her arrand all the easier. Still she approached the great, huge felt half-guilty of prying upon him, place slowly, scarcely heeding Archies chatter as he ran by her side, occasionally turning off to chase a butterfly or pick a flower.

They reached the broad terrace with its moss grown flight of steps, and to spend half an hour in meditation, Archie ran up then, calling to her to but for his modern clothes and the "Perhaps he'll be gone." he said, ap-prehensively. But he had not gone. The big door.

with its panels of worm eaten oak, was ajar, and with a strange feeling of mingled awe and curiosity Signa entered the hall.

Hector Warren had opened one of the shutters, and the light streamed into the vast space, discovering the massive beams of oak and walnut, the on the table, and flinging his cigar in exquisite carving, in which the giltthe grate. pure gold-still shone; a line of portraits, all the Delameres since the race ily. obtained, the name, looked duskily Archie, and how are you?" and he down on the two intruders; fair wo laid his hand on the boy's head. man in silks and satins, rows of men in armor and tunic, with sword and ily. with parchment roll, there they were, ing?" half-obscured by the dust, worth a king's ransom as works of art, and he answered, fixing his eyes on Sigyet left to the moth by the young na. man who had inherited their name

From the roof, all carved and gildbig place it is? Aren't you afraid to sit here all alone?" ed, depended a score of tattered flags, and on the gallery still shone, for all the dust, a great shield emblazoned boy's hair. "What do you think with the Delamere coat of arms. there is here to harm me? All places

Signa had been in many an ancient palace in romantic Italy, and visited many a German castle and famous Swiss chalte, but she had never felt same sensation as she felt now. She tried to laugh, but the laugh died away on her lips. The vast place he said to Signa. "It is," as Mrs. seemed like a church, and instinctive Podswell said, 'fearfuly dusty,' but I ly she glanced toward the east for the altar; but though there was no altar, there was a magnificent painted window, which she knew must be of ed by an ocean of dust." priceless value.

She tried to laugh, but she could only manage a smile. "Here we are at last, Archie," she said; but Archie was too excited to answer in the same strain.

"Isn't it grand, Signa?" he said. "I shouldn't like to sleep here!" Signa laughed and walked toward the staircase, that, large enough to admit of a coach-and-four being drawn up to it, ran up to the foot of the painted window, and thence round to numberless corridors. "I don't know where to find Mr Warren." she said, half aloud. "We might wander about for hours, Archie. The place is like a cathedral!" "Supose we shout?" suggested Archie; but Signa shook her head. It seemed like desecration. "No-no;" she said. "He said he wanted the library; that must— it alone!" ought to be on the ground floor. Let us try." and she opened the door leading from the hall, and entered a long, lofty room. It was the dining-rooma banquet hall we should call it now. The dust of numbers of years rested as a falling veil upon the scene, yet its magnificence still made itself felt. Stained windows, exquisite carvings, magnificent pictures, and furniture which a connoisseur would have pronounced unique, struck Signa with a sense of awe and delight. Upon the long table stood an immense epergne of bronze, filled with flowers long since faded, and beside a chair lay a bouquet dropped by some fair hand, now perhaps turned to dust.

"This is the dining-room," she said. "We shall never find the library, Archie!" "Never mind. Let us go on till we do. Isn't it jolly, Signa?" "Jolly isn't the word for it, Archie," she said, trying to speak lightly. "How can a man leave all this to dust and Archie didn't reply to such a physiological question, but slipped his hand from hers, and scudded to a door at the end of the room, and, pulling it ajar, ran in. Signa followed, and then stood silent and motionless.

They had found the library at last. Before them was a room, not so as the dining-hall, but much alaborately fitted and furnished. The our sides were lined with books, the ight coming from above through a dome of painted glass. Luxurious chairs were placed at worm-eaten writing-tables; portfolios six feet high

RAPPERS! Send your

sands of trappers in Canada who send their furs to us because they know they get a square deal, and receive more money for their furs. You will also. We buy more furs from trappers for each than any other five firms in Canada. Hallam's Sportamen's Catalogue Hallam's Rev Fur Quotations Hallam's Fur Style Book (32 pages) tree on request. Address as follows: JOHN HALLAM Limited really wish you to accept, and to ccme." 201 Hallam Building, Toronto. "That alters the state of things," he said, instantly. "Then I shall be only too delighted, and it is really very eigh-flown acceptance. will meet some people." He bowed.

hospitable shores."

"Then I will tell her," she said, rising: "they dine at six o'clock, and you kind of Mrs. Podswell to take compassion upon a stranger and an un-

Signa smiled at this unintentionally

"I shall be very pleased," he said. "How jolly!" exclaimed Archie from the top of the steps, where he had perched with a large folio of plates on his knee; "that is if they let me come in to dessert. They do sometimes if the hishon isn't there."

"And why not when the bishop is there?" asked Hector Warren, smiling up at him.

palace. But it was not the grandeur "Because I once trod on his gouty toe, and he can't bear me ever since," replied Archie, with perfect equanimity. "I hope they'll let me to-morrow, because you're going to be there." was strewn with books, and papers, "Thanks, very much. Suppose I enter into a little conspiracy with you,

Archie? "I don't know what you mean," he his lips, and his eyes fixed dreamily said, calmly. "Let us imagine that, just at des-As Signa stood looking at him, she sert-time, you were passing outside the open door, and I saw you, and I so weary and dreamy was the expressaid, 'Dear me, is that my young sion of the handsome face, so lost to friend Archie? Kindly permit him to the present, so buried in the past. He join us at the festive almonds and might have been one of the figures in raisins, Mrs. Podsweil?' How would armor that lined the hall, strolled in that be?" Archie laughed in his quaint, oldfashioned way. "I think you are very clever," he

"There he is," said Archie, trimphlockout for me, and if you don't see and gold! Oh! I wish I could wave a "Hush!" said Signa, warningly, and me I'll give a soft whistle." she would have retreated. But the Hector Warren laughed. boy's voice, light as it was, reached the dreamer, and raising his head, he

"I don't think I would venture on the whistle, Archie," he said. might lead to a suspicion that the Without a start, but with a smiling whole thing had been arranged." air of surprise, he rose and approach-"I see," mused Archie. "Perhaps I ed them, dropping his well-worn hat might mew like a cat; I can do that very well."

"You might venture so far," admitted Hector Warren. "Have you got a nice book up there?" 'Yes, pretty fair," said Archie.

"Then will you wait while I show Miss Grenville the picture gallery?" Archie nodded from his lofty perch. "I'll wait," he said. "I suppose I can look at any books I like. You will take care of her?" he idded, "We couldn't find the library for gravely.

ever so long," said Archie. "What a "Every care, I assure you," replied Hector Warren, gravely. "I promise to return her to you without a broken "No," he replied, still stroking the limb."

"Very well, then," said Archie, with an air of being satisfied. Signa stood smilingly looking on while this negotiation was being conducted; then she said, as he took up the bunch of keys, "But I think we spoke he drew the chair forward and must be going back, Mr. Warren.'

"Do not say that," he pleaded. "Let us take a look at the picture-gallery before you go; it is well worth see-

"I am all curiosity," said Signa; the chair, "you will be on an island of comparative cleanliness, surround-"but I am afraid that we have interrupted and disturbed you." He smiled, and it was a sufficient "After all, it is clean dust," she answer.

"But I am afrair we have disturbed you," she went on, her color he cpened a door opposite that by which he had entered. "It is not so thick here, excepting in the carvings. | motto." This is the long corridor to the piccant tone which repudiated the idea ture-gallery; there is a door here emphatically. "If I were going to which leads to the dining-room, and she asked. say that I am deeply grateful to you another passage which twines all -and Archie-for putting in an apround the house." Signa looked at him with a smile of lessly.

truth only. I was getting terribly surprise on her face. "How do I know?" he said, putting her question into words. "Because I have been exploring the place during the short time I have been nere, and have gained a vast amount of information from a plan and guide to this "Yes, looking back; the vainest and building which I found on the centre most useless of operations. 'Ah! if I table in the library; I will show it to had but done this, or I had left that you when we get back. This is the Bah!" and he laughed, with door of the picture-gallery," he added, a touch of sadness in the laugh. as he opened a tall door with painted 'What waste of time it is! This is panels. "I have been here before this just the place for dreaming," and he morning and opened the windows." Signa uttered an exclamation of sur-Signa watched his face; there was prise and admiration. It was a spienstill a vague expression of melancholy did apartment, a salon decorated in in the dark eyes, and she found herthe most exquisite taste, and still self wondering what he had been untarnished and unsolled, save by a looking back upon, and what sort of a thin coating of dust. The contents of the room were priceless, and how any But she checked the speculation, allowed such a collection of treasures "I have come with a message," she to remain neglected and unguarded said, looking up at him as he leaned against the table, his dark eyes fixed amazed Signa. "It is a handsome place, isn't it?" he

"A message?" he said, with a faint said, quietly. "It is magnificent," said Signa-"simply magnificent. The place is a aunt. She will be glad if you will palace! It is difficult for me to realize that it can be so neglected and deserted!"

plain invitation. He noticed and Ho shrugged his shoulders. "It is not the first palace that has fully understood it and admired the diowned a fool for king," he responded, rect, truthful way in which she had quietly; and he walked beside her put it. He noticed also that she said thoughtfully, as she ran her eyes rapiely over the pictures. For a moment he stood silent, his eyes fixed on the ground, then he

"Some of these, I feel sure, are looked up at her with an inquiry in masterpieces," she said "To think of them being hidden away like this! What can possess Lord Delamere?" he said. "Do you think-" he stop-He smiled gravely

"Lord Delamere has been possessed by evil spirits, many and various," he said, in a low voice. "Amongst them they have driven him from his fended if I should ask you the queshome, and made him a warderer uption that trembled on my lips?" he on the face of the earth. But you are an artist, I see," he said, more lightly, yet earnestly; "there is no mistaking "Had you not better try?" she the expression in the critical eye. If you will make a promise, I will have "I will! I was going to ask you this gallery properly cleaned—you if you thought they really wished me know I have Lord Delamere's permis-

"What promise?" she asked, looking over her shoulder at him.

"That you will come here now and again and spend half an hour with the greater portion of the heat. pictures," he said, respectfully, pleadngly.

Signa flushed. "I will come if I may," she said, simply.

"That is a bargain," he said. "See, now, here is the ballroom. It was not a bad idea to open it on to the picture gallery. I wonder how many a young couple have wandered here to look at the pictures, reflected in each other's eyes?"

Signa laughed, then she clasped her hands in a genuine girlish gesture of admiration and delight. "Ah, I don't know which is best!"

she exclaimed, looking from the splendid salon to the picture-gallery. "Designed by Luigi Barri, frescoes by Boucher, carvings by Grinling Gibbons,' so says the guide," said Hector Warren. "Yes, it is a fine room." "Imagine it filled with guests, with music floating in the perfumed air, with laughter and gay chatter echoing in the galleries; fancy the place lit up said, admiringly. "You keep a sharp and dazzling in all its glory of blue > Grange to its old glory! If I were "Or mistress?" he said, softly. "Or mistress," she said, her eyes growing deeper and more rapt, "how proud I should be of it! Even as I am," and she laughed, "an insignificant nonentity, I would like to see the place full of life and happiness."

> magic wand and restore the Northwell

strange smile on his face as he leaned strange smile on his face as he leaned health by the united Dr. Williams' Pink against a pillar and locked over at Pills. These pills actually make new. her, flushed with the faint excitement called up by the theme.

She laughed and recovered herself. "Yes, but if wishes were horses, beggars would ride. I'm afraid Lord Delamere will not come back and restore the house of his forefathers, because Signa Grenville has a fancy for seeing it free from dust and full of

He did not reply, and in silence he followed her to the hall.

"What wonderful faces they have," she said, locking round at the por-and wholly indifferent to the portraits appetite was poor and I was constant- electricity. "As how?" "Why," said Signa, "they are all either extremely handsome or cx- move about or do anything. I tried tortable bedsteads cushioned armtremely ugly. There is no mediochave been particularly good-looking or tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had that his predecessor lived there with particularly "Take care of the dust," he said, as they carried the rule to their moral qualities. 'Good or evil, pure and simple, should have been the Delamere Signa listened with interest.

"Did you read that in the guide," "Oh, I have heard Delamere say much the same thing," he said care-

(To be continued.)

Johnny Roche's Tower.

County Cork, Ireland, is a remarkable of Dr. Williams Pink Pills as I ceredifice known as "Johnny Roche's tainly have cause to be a firm champ-Tower." The whole tower was built ion of them." by the labor of one man, who subsewho received no education whatever, also erected a mill, constructing the water wheel after a special design of Brockville, Ont. his own. Long before the introduction of the bicycle he went about the country in a wheeled vehicle of his own construction propelled by foot power. His last feat was to build his tomb in the middle of the river bed. John Roche died, but was not interred in man in his same senses could have the strange burying place which he selected for himself, his less original relatives deeming such a mode of sepulture unchristian. — London Strand

DRS. SOPER & WHITE

SPECIALISTS Piles, Eczema, Asthma, Catarrh. Pimples, Dyspepsia, Epilepsy, Rheumatism, Skin, Kid-ney, Blood, Nerve and Bladder Diseases. Call or send history for free advice. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours—10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays-10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Consultation Free DRS. SOPER & WHITE 25 Toronto St., Torento, Cat.

Please Mention This Paper.

The Coffee Plant's Friend.

in Columbia there is a tree highly esteemed as a shade for the coffee plant. It is found also in tropical Brause It will live on a stoney, poor soil, and a tree only eighteen months old will shade 144 square yards of ground, while when full grown it may be fifty feet high and have a spread of fifty feet on either side.

THE PIGHT BAIT. (Rochester Times) A preacher, accompanied by two charming young ladies, stood entranced by the beauties of a passing stream.

A fisherman, happening, by, and mistaking his occupation, said:

"Kechin' many, pard?"

"I am a fisher of men," replied the preacher, with dignity.

"Well, you sure have the right bait," replied the fisherman, with an admirging glance at the girls.

TIRES OF A MOTORCAR.

Why They Are Found Heated After a Long and Fast Run.

It is well known that after a long and fast run the tires of an automobile are found to be very not, and many have supposed this is the result of the friction of the tire on the road. The Scientific American says that such is not the case, at least as to the

"The real cause of heating," says that magazine, "is the internal friction of the fire itself, for as the tire is being constantly deflected by contact with the road, the various piles, or layers, which compose the tire do not act uniformly, and consequently there is more or less motion between them that results in friction and heat. The greater the change in shape in the tire as it contacts with the road the greater will be the friction.

"Of course the harder the tire is pumped the less will be the friction, but it is evident that, while a perfect ly rigid tire would generate but little heat, it would fail in giving easy riding. So we must put up with some heating and consequently wear of the tire. The subject is one that is being successfully studied by the tire-

THE SHADOW OF

Can Be Quickly Dispelled Through the stairs and with thick wooden the Use of Dr. Williams Pink

When the shadow of poor health follows your life; when hope begins to fade and friends look serious then is the time you should remember that thousands just as hopeless have been "Would you?" he said, with a cured and restored to the sunshine of rich blood which brings a glow of health to anaemic cheeks; cures indigestion; headaches and backaches, staircase already described. In one drives out the stinging pains of rheumatism and neuralgia, strengthens the nerves and relieves as no other ing and sleeping, its cwn place for parmedicine can do the aches and pains from which womenfolk alone suffer. In any emergency of poor health give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial and they will not disappoint you. Here is a case that will bring hope to | metz, was designed to house a whole many a weary sufferer. Mrs. E. C. company of 300 men, with the needful Taylor, Ascot avenue. Toronto, says: "A few years ago I was so run down rooms, a well, a forge, riveted with "Wonderful!" he said, half resting with anaemia that I could scarcely sheets of cast iron, an engine-room, on a table and swinging the keys on walk about the house, and was not and a motor-room. Many of the caphis finger, his eyes fixed on her face, able to leave it. I had no color: my tured dugouts were thus lighted by ly troubled with headaches, dizzy spells and general disinclination to many medicines, but none of them chairs and some pictures. One room is helped me, and my friends thought I lined with glazed sanitary wall-paper, "There is none in the unhappy fam- was in a decline. One day a friend and the present English occupant is ily," he said. "They are all said to who was in to see me asked if I had convinced by circumstantial evidere plain, as you say, and heard of this medicine often, but had his wife and child. Clearly there was not used it, so I determined to give it no expectation of an early move. a trial. I certainly got a pleasant could feel an improvement in my conappearing, and I began to gain in give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the cremonths, and completely regained my Standing on the banks of the river old time health and strength. I hope my experience may convince some Awberg, between Mallow and Fermoy, doubting person as to the great merit

You can get these pills through any quently resided in it. This individual, dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 and probably made by British troops. cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from | So that, at the moment of the advance The Dr. Williams Medicine Co.,

Hun Trenches Were to Last

Along many miles of the western front, as it was till the end of June, No doubt the size and the overhead it is now possible to stand at one's strength of German dugouts keep ease in the middle of No Man's Land down casualties under bombardment and observe the differences between a and sometimes enable the Germans to German front trench on the one hand | bring up unsuspected forces to harass and a French or British front trench on the other. The first point to be gun and rifle fire when a charge has noticed is that the allies' wire is only cut across by neat lanes or gangways | dugout of the kind. On the other hand, at convenient intervals, while the Cerman wire lies in a trampled mess on every German left in such a dugout the ground. Then, the allies support will be either a dead man or a prisontheir barbed wire mainly with wooden er. No doubt, again, the German stakes; the Germans do it with iron. dug-outs give more protection from Next, our parapet owes much more of very bad weather than ours. But they its strength than the German to also remove men more from the open visible sandbags.

looks. In every way, like the work of matism and bronchitis than it loses in men who hoped and meant to move on the way of general health and vitality. before long. The German trench looks like the work of men who hoped or feared, that they would be in it for years. British trench housing has been much more of a makeshift, a sert of camping-out, with some ingenious provisions for shelter and comfort, but not more than the least that would serve. Most of the dugouts are just roughly delved holes in the earth, with only enough props and rafters to hold the roofs up; their floors are bare and possesses qualities that make ground, with a little straw on it; their it reculiarly suited for this particular | deors, if they have any, are a few odd pieces of plank with a couple of other pieces nailed across; often the floor is on the trench level, to save burrowing. Lighting is done with candles, mostly bought at the canteen, and H anyone owns an armchair or a twofoot high mirror, it is the jest of the

The German front in the west is like one huge straggling village, but of wood, and strung out along a road 300 miles long. Of course, the houses are all underground. Still, they are houses, of one or two floors, built to certain official designs, drawn out in section and plan. The main entrance from the trench level is, sometimes at any rate, through a steel door, of a pattern

"MADE IN CANADA" DOMINION

Best for Quality, Style and Value. Guaranteed For All Climates.

ASK

YOUR

DEALER

apparently standardized, so that hundreds may come from the factory on one order, and missing parts be easily replaced. The profusely timbered doorway is made to their measure. Outside this front door you may find a perforated sheet of metal, to serve for a deormat or scraper. Inside a flight of from 12 to 36 stairs leads down at an easy angle. The treads of the stairs and the descending roof of the staircase are formed of mining frames of stout timber, with double top sills; the walls are of thick planks notched at the top and bottom to fit the frames and strengthened with iron tiestruts at right angles to these. At the foot of the stairs a turneled corridor runs straight forward, for anything up to 59 yards, and from it open rooms and minor passages on each side. In many dugouts a second staircase, or two staircases, lead to a lower floor, which may be 30 feet or reds running from top to bottom of 40 feet below the trench level. All these blaheases, passages and rooms are, in the best specimens, completely lined with wood, and as fully strengthened with it as the entrance typical dugout each section of a platoen had its allotted places for messade in a passage, and its own emergency exit to the trench. in another, used as a dressing station, there are beds for 32 patients and a fair-sized operating room. A third, near Makitchens, prevision and munition store

In the officers' quarters there have been found full length mirrors, com-

Other German trench works show surprise, for after using two boxes I the same lavish use of labor as the dugouts. In the old German front dition. Continuing the use of these trench south of La Boisselle an enpills I began to regain my health, the | trance like that of a dugout leads to headeches and dizzy spells were dis- a flight of 24 stairs, all well finished. At their foot a landing three feet weight. People began enquiring what square opens on its further side upon I was taking and I was not slow to a nearly verticle shaft. Descending this by a ladder of 32 rungs, you find dit. I took the pills for less than two | a second landing like the first, opening on a continuation of the shaft. Down this ladder of sixty rungs brings you to the starting point of an almost straight level tunnel three feet wide and about five feet high, cut through pure, hard chalk. It ends in a blank wall. This is right underneath a huge crater which had evidently been heldin July, nothing remained, presumably, for the Germans to do but to bring the necessary tons of high explosive to the end of their tunnel, and blow the mine under the base of the old crater. Like an incomplete dugout near Fricourt. the mine still contains part of the machinery used for winding up the excavated chalk to the sur-

German trench work is, therefore. more elaborate than the British, but our troops in the rear with machinecarried our men past an uncleared when an allied advance is made good, air, and there is nothing to show that Inside the two trenches the differ the half-buried German arymy gains ences are greater. The allied trench more by relative immunity from rheu--London Times.

> Common sense is very uncommon. -Horace Greeley.

Art Pottery

You will be pleased with the choice

New Art Pottery hich we are showing this week. The assortment contains Flower Bowls, Bud Vases, Vases of various shapes, Jars, etc., in Yellow, Jet, Verd, Red and Blue. This is very attractive. Priced from $1.00 to $5.00.

64 KING ST. E. SOUTH SIDE Hamilton, Ont.

THE HOUSE FOR GIFTS.

i; 21 1-2c bid;