Claimed by Death

The death occurred at Sand Lake on Saturday last of one of the best known of the Hamilton conference of the Methodist church in the person of Rev. George W. Culvert. Thirteen years ago he retired from the active work of the ministry on account of a weak heart, and finding the climatic conditions of the north best suited to his health, he went there to live, but of late he had failed, and the end came on Saturday. Mr. Culvert was well known in and around Hamilton, and while he was engaged in the work of the ministry, he occupied charges at St. Catharines, Norwich, Paris, Oakville, Thorold, Niagara Falls, Ingersoll and Welland. During the time that he was a member of conference he served as chairman of the district, and financial secretary. He was an able preacher, and a man of genial disposition, and had a very wide circle of friends wherever he was known, and general respect is expressed at his demise. He was a frequent visitor to Hamilton and his large circle of friends include many in the city. Mr. Culvert will be remembered by the older generation of Jarvis having spent his boyhood days in this place. He spent a few days in this vicinity.

Relieved Hippers

A lot of sadly disappointed Hamiltonians came back on the return trip from Buffalo Saturday night last, in connection with the special week-end excursion. When the train arrived at Bridgeburg, custom officers, accompanied by the provincial police boarded the train and relieved many of the passengers of "hippers." It was stated this morning that so many of these were found that the officers had to send out for a number of baskets in order to carry them. Those who succeeded in retaining their "hippers," were obliged to pay duty, in some cases, as high as eighty cents on one bottle.—Smithville Review.

London Newspapers to Increase Price

London, Nov. 12.—The price of the Times will be increased to 3pence after November 20 and other important daily newspapers probably will follow suit, says the Weekly Dispatch. Owing to the cost of production, it adds, a number of leading newspapers are being conducted at very heavy losses.

Bonus for Bank Clerks

The board of directors of the Bank of Hamilton has granted a special war bonus to the staff of the bank in recognition of extra services necessitated by the large number of employees who have enlisted for overseas service and the increased cost of living. The bonus is based on the salary received, and is awarded at the rate of five per cent. to the unmarried men and seven and a half per cent. to the married men.

Died for Us

The following was presented to the Record with the request that it be published:—
On the night of the 31st of August of this year, a splendid young California was killed by a shell on the Western Front, fighting for the Allies, as a British Army officer.
Second-Lieutenant Butters, for that was his name, was the nephew and heir of Mr. Chas. Butters, a well known mining engineer of the Pacific slope. He heard the call of the War in his beautiful home in California, early in 1916. He was then twenty-two. It was the appeal of righteousness and liberty to which he answered. There was no other reason that he offer the sacrifice; and his name is worthy of greater honor on this account.
Lieut. Butters wrote this remarkable letter last January to his "dearest folks." We wish that every Canadian young man might read it. We give it full:—
"I am now no longer untried. Two weeks' action in a great battle is to my credit, and if my faith in the wisdom of my course or my enthusiasm for the cause had been doomed to fail it would have done so during that time. But it has only become stronger. I find myself a soldier among millions of others in the Allied armies fighting for all I believe, right and civilized and humane against a power which is evil and which threatens the existence of all the right we prize and the freedom we enjoy.
"It may seem to you that for me this is all quite uncalculated, for that it can only mean either the supreme sacrifice for nothing, or at best years of my life wasted, but I tell you that not only am I willing to give my life to this enterprise (for that is comparatively easy except when I think of you), but that I firmly believe—if I live through it to spend a useful lifetime with you—that never will I have an opportunity to gain so much honorable advancement for my own soul or to do so much for the cause of the world's progress, as I have here daily defending the liberty that mankind has so far gained against the attack of an enemy who would deprive us of it and set the world back some centuries if he could have his way.
"I think less of myself than I did, less of the heights of personal success I aspired to climb, and more of the service that each of us must render in payment for the right to live and by virtue of which only we can progress.
"Yes, my dearest folks, we are indeed doing the world's work over here, and I am in to the finish."
"Never will I have the opportunity to gain so much honorable advancement for my own soul, or to do so much for the world's progress."
Can any Canadian stay-at-home who reads this sentence, make any sort of decent excuse to himself for missing the opportunity which the present gigantic struggle gives, for soul culture, and for world's service?

The Road to Berlin

On the road to stricken Flanders
There's a place that's vacant still:
There's a rifle lying silent,
There's a uniform to lose you.
But the march will soon begin—
On the roads through stricken Belgium,
With the Allies to Berlin.
In your home securely resting,
Are you there content to stay,
While the others guard your honor,
While the Germans toast "The day"
For your King and country need you.
And we want to count you in—
On the roads through stricken Belgium,
With the Allies to Berlin.
When at length the foe is vanquished,
When the boys come home at last,
Won't you wish that you had listened
"Ere old England's need had passed:
But the gate of manhood's open,
You your part can still begin—
On the roads through stricken Belgium,
With the Allies to Berlin.
In the lonely wayside graveyards
Sleep the boys whose day is done;
Don't you hear their voices calling,
To complete the work begun?
There are ghostly fingers beckoning,
There are victories yet to win—
On the road through stricken Belgium,
With the Allies to Berlin.
When from Mons they fought each footstep,
When their lips with pain were dumb,
'Twas their hope which held the trenches,
Always thinking you would come;
Thro' the frozen hell of winter,
Thro' the shrapnel's racking din—
They have waited, never doubting
That you'd join them to Berlin.
