Lunch Sandwiches.

Tomato and cheese sandwiches are good. Slice a small tomato very thin and take out seeds.

Also remove the soft part, leaving only the firm portion.

Put one slice on the bread, one thin shaving of cheese over it, and then put on toasted bread smoothly.

Sardine sandwiches are excellent when carefully prepared, and when lemon is used.

Scrape off all the skin from the sardines, take out the bones and drain them on brown paper.

Mash the sardines with a fork, sprinkle with lemon juice, and spread on toasted bread smoothly.

Cut the bread very thin for all lunch sandwiches, and spread lightly with butter, trim crusts and not taking off all the crusts, but making the two pieces even. Wrap in wax paper.

Double Eyed Fish.

There is a fish equipped with bifocal eyes, one-half of the lens for seeing above the surface of the water and the other for submarine use. This characteristic also gives the fish its popular name—double eyes.

The fish inhabits the shores of South America. Sometimes they swim with the eyes half out of water. Examination shows that each lens is divided into two parts by a dark band. The half above the band is out of water and the other half below the surface.

Naturalists tell us that the fish's eyes become "double" from its practice in swimming with them half submerged. Nature made the part of the eye above water adapted for seeing in the air, while the other part remained adapted for vision under water.

The double-eyes grow to about a foot in length, and in Brazil are caught for food.

THE FALL WEATHER HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Canadian fall weather is extremely hard on little ones. One day it is warm and bright and the next wet and cold. These sudden changes bring on colds, cramps and colic, and unless baby's little stomach is kept right the result may be serious. There is nothing to equal Baby's Own Tablets in keeping the little ones well. The sweetest and the most reliable of all medicines, they regulate the bowels, break up colds and make baby thrive. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A RECORD STURGEON.

One Fish Provided a Meal for 1,000 People.

Very seldom indeed is the sturgeon the finny monster which Edward II. made a Royal fish, and which, when caught in the Thames, becomes the property of the Crown, captured in English waters nowadays. For this reason not a little interest was aroused a few days ago when it was announced that a sturgeon 9 feet 9 inches in length, weighing 439 pounds, had been caught in the River Delph at Weiney Washes, near Littleport, Norfolk. This fish, which according to the estimate of a salesman at Spitalfields, who ultimately sold it for $30, would provide a meal for nearly 1,000 people, had been noticed in the river, and attempts had been made to shoot it. But the cartridges used were loaded with shot too small to have any effect on the sturgeon's hard skin. A large net, therefore, was drawn across the river, after which a boat rowed alongside the fish, when one of the men succeeded in forcing a large and powerful hook attached to a strong pole into his throat. This enabled him to keep his head out of water just long enough for the fish to be killed with a gun. Some idea of its size and weight may be gathered from the fact that five men were required to land it. This, however, is by no means the largest sturgeon which has been caught in English waters. The record was a fish weighing 460 pounds, while in the North Sea fish weighing as much as 582 pounds and 735 pounds have been captured by trawlers. It is pointed out that one of the most remarkable facts about the fish netted in the North Sea is that they are similar to the American species, whence it would seem that the specimens caught from time to time in our waters must have made the voyage across the Atlantic, since the fish appears to have died out as a regular inhabitant of British waters. Sturgeons pass the greater part of the year in the sea, but periodically ascend large rivers, and it was due to this characteristic that the specimen was caught recently in the River Delph. Not only do they attain great size and weight, but, according to the estimates of some experts, they sometimes live as long as two hundred years. Apropos of the fact that Edward II. made the sturgeon a Royal fish, it is interesting to note that its flesh, quite apart from the fact that caviare is made from the roe, is always held in great estimation, and in olden days was always reserved for the table of the king.

STAY-AT-HOMES' RIGHT TO SING

Of Their Guard of Canada, Doubt by Preacher.

Coming and Going Soldiers and Their Outlook.

Two crowds of men in khaki met and mingled at Quebec this last week-end. The one bunch going to the front, the other coming back from the front, many wounded, all disabled.

You could see the difference in their faces and in their walk. You could not say that one bunch was in better spirits than the other; and yet, even in that matter there was a difference.

It came out in the course of an after-church conversation.

There was a church parade for the men about to leave, and some of the newly-returned men were there too.

The preacher, in the course of his sermon, said:

"I sometimes ask myself the question, when we sing, 'O Canada, we stand on guard for thee,' what right have we to sing it,—we who stay comfortably at home."

Some of his civilian hearers must have found it hard to give a satisfactory answer to the question. Even among his soldier hearers there was at any rate one who was not altogether satisfied with himself.

He was talking it over afterwards with a young fellow of the departing regiment.

"I hadn't been two days in the trenches," he said, "didn't have a chance to do anything, before I got hit, and now this," he continued, looking down at his right arm, "is good for nothing. It'll be months before I can use it, they say, and maybe never. Talk of me 'standing on guard' for Canada or anything else!"

The other was evidently at a loss, at first. But then an idea struck him.

"I guess that's what was the matter with my brother," he said, "it's on account of him getting knocked out by I'm going. There's only two of us boys, and we did most of the farm

ST. VITUS DANCE CAN BE EASILY CURED

A Tonic for the Blood and Nerves With Rest All That is Needed.

Many a child has been called awkward, has been punished in school for not keeping still or for dropping things, when the trouble was really St. Vitus dance. This trouble may appear at any age but is most often met between the ages of six and fourteen. The most frequent cause of the disease is poor blood, aggravated by indoor confinement, or mental strain at school. Under these conditions the blood fails to carry nourishment to the nerves and the child begins to show listlessness and inattention. Then it becomes restless and twitching of the muscles and jerking of the limbs and body follow. A remedy that cures St. Vitus dance and cures it so thoroughly that no trace of the disease remains is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which renew the blood thus feeding and strengthening the starved nerves. This is the only way to cure the trouble, and parents should lose no time in giving this treatment if their child seems nervous or irritable. Mrs. Wm. A. Squires, Cannington, Ont., says: "My only daughter, now fourteen years of age, was troubled for several years with St. Vitus dance. She was so bad that at times she would lose control of her limbs and her face and eyes would be contorted. We had medical advice and medicine, but it did not help her. In fact we thought the trouble growing worse, and finally we had to take her from school. About a year ago we began giving her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and by the time she had taken five boxes she was completely cured, and is now a fine healthy girl. I firmly believe we owe this to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and are very grateful for her restoration to perfect health."

You can get these pills from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

COLD LIGHT.

Man is Far Behind Nature in Illumination Power Yet.

If M. Dussaud has succeeded in producing cold light he has raised mankind in this particular to the level of the glow worm and the lightning bug. These attractive creatures produce their illumination without heat; man has never been able to equal them in this respect, though engineers of the highest attainments have studied the problem, the solution of which would result in a conservation of energy in a degree difficult to estimate. Mr. Hutchinson, of Mr. Edison's establishment, has told the Sun's correspondent that if all its energy could be transferred into light "one small dynamo would light a whole city"; and the application of light in new ways in industry, mechanics and art is obvious.

Dame Nature does these things better. A lady of the Phenogodini flashes a red light at each end of her body. Her Paraguayan admirers call her the railroad beetle. The cunyo, one of the Elateridae, reaches a length of two inches, and is the beetle used as a hair ornament in the countries fortunate enough to harbor it. The light of these interesting fellow citizens is produced practically without heat, as is the luminosity of the familiar lantern carriers who may be seen on the lawn at night. But the method by which they generate their illuminant is a mystery.

M. Dussaud wears a good reputation, earned by his achievements in engineering. We hope the announcement made in his behalf is justified by his discoveries. It is humiliating to confess that an untutored lightning bug, without scientific or technical training, surpasses man in the field of applied physics.—New York Sun.

WONDER BOATS OF THE NAVY

"Jackies" at St. John, N.B., Tell of New Marvels.

45-Mile-an-Hour Cruisers—Huns Will Fight.

(St. John, N. B., Telegraph)

"You won't know our navy, you won't when this war is over," said a sturdy son of the sea, who was on board the battleship Warrior when she was sunk in the Jutland fight, when talking to a representative of The Telegraph last night.

He was a member of a gun laying draft of forty-three men that arrived in the city yesterday on the Chignecto from the West Indies where the boys have been engaged in gunnery practice. Not a few of them had been in that famous battle, but they did not seem to be wan or paralytic, in spite of that terrible experience; they were men after Nelson's own heart, who saw their duty ahead and did it.

"Yes," he continued, "no one knows the wonderful new ships that have been added to the navy since the war began. There's two I know about, light-battle cruisers in Beatty's squadron, the Glorious and Resolution. They develop a speed of forty-five knots an hour, those fighting boats do. Now what do you think of that?"

"FAST AS EXPRESS TRAIN."

The poor landlubber could only blink hard and express his wonderment. "Yes, sir, fast as an express train, and that's taring up the water all right."

The tar in question shifted his gait to the other cheek and said with a twinkle in his eye, "That's a bit faster than the express trains in this country. I don't know much about them, but what with the experience I've had

Don't Whip a Child in Anger.

It is absurd to whip a child who is overcome by anger. The best thing to do is to let him alone and let his passion wear itself out. If he could be taken before the anger gets the upper hand of him he might be controlled.

What the parent should do is to study the things which will arouse the child's anger and then avoid those things. It is the height of folly for a parent to excite anger in a child and then try to control it by punishment. It is worse than folly; it is brutal and is likely to ruin the child.—Mother's Magazine.

In one of the rooms a rule of silence is strictly enforced. The other occupants of the room were startled to see a member press a bell button with evident anxiety and when the door opened or appeared to hear his exclamation, pointing to a neighbor in a chair.

"Water, remove that number."

The man in the chair had been dead three days.

CANADIAN IN BATTLE

Eye-Witness

A Nova Scotian

Quebec despatch: The committee from the County Recorder Office has been Canadian Corps Headquarters, France, via London, Ontario, impossible for those who have been actively participating in the war and who must still entertain a notion of warfare based on the old methods of the revolution which has given place in our methods of the Somme offensive is based upon new principles, the study and experience of two years. It is at the same time the most colossal and the most costly of wars which have been evolved. Its methods of change and invention in warfare have been completely new. Its gigantic scale is illustrated by the fact that the casualties returns, which are now being received from the front, show that a small force of troops may be seen from the trench maps, where the loss of a man is a matter of innumerable men. The most intricate pattern of slow labor and nature of the objectives of attack must be the exactitude of their movement. They must be prepared for the construction of parallel trenches and communication lines, so as to reduce as much as possible the period of infantry combat. The direction of the assault is planned and obtained by the use of the precise location of the lines and the results of preparation there. Photographs and searching, and during the assault even the vanishing figures of the infantry are a matter of detail. The exactitude of the plan is laid bare, so that the enemy's lines have been taken and the staff concerned to all the staff concerned.

ALLIES DOMINATE

In the respect the French domination is almost complete. The other Allies are all circling above our heads. The coming of the war has come and gone with the speed of a flash, far off in the distance, and the war has hang suspended in the air, as if a flight of five or six minutes upon some special over high up and disappear distant mist. So rarely do men machines appear that have been here daily for a long time. The Canadian corps in the great drama, it depends not upon its own but upon the intricate greater scheme of battle. The task and the rearranging of the whole fabric must be the ultimate aim is never to be again, but the same grim machine. There is an inexorable apparent in all this of movement. To the casual observer, the war seems to be a forward along the road, with rolling plains and valleys, with the ceaseless restlessness and where from the unexpected emplacement of the most modern and smallest degree, every detail is planned and coordinated. It is the will of a great army, and when the Canadian army is playing its part, taken and given its share. This battle has now gone on for the slow, small grinding military machine.

A REGION OF CONTRAST

There is human agony such engines of destruction ever so profoundly itself upon the face of a landscape could be more natural light more devastated. It is a region of contrast of heavy-footed infantry, marching from one place to another, they may be in a village with its shabby gardens bright with roses, they will plod along the roads, marked by the regular patterns on either side. So far as the eye can follow undulating plains, all as cultivated as the best garden at home.

Fields are only distinguished by the crop or the color of the furrows. There are no more waste places, groves, no idle clumps of half-cleared land. Every ear of corn, every tree, every tree grows for a purpose, do not wander aimlessly, peered in a field of corn, each may only eat its allowance. The ordered traffic, agricultural or smoothly self-supporting, the farmer's life is known, nothing day, the faithful brave women, the health of his children.

Very deep and very strange admiration of the Canadian
