Poultry Diseases

At least fifty per cent of the chickens, voung ducks and turkeys and ten per cent of the adult birds die each year from diseases, many of which are preventable. This is an annual natural loss of millions of dollars that could be avoided to a large

War conditions make it imperative that farmers and poultry, as far as possible, stop this enormous leak and in order to assist in this connection Dr. Wickware suggests that every breeder pay attention to the general conditions of his flock in order that any ailing birds may be immediately isolated. When anything unusual is noted in a fowl, it is adviseable to place the affected individual in separate quarters. If within a short time recovery does not take place, it is unwise to destroy the fowl without first ascertaining the cause of the disorder. The prevalence of diseases is more often the cause of the poultry-keeper's failure than is the tack of Practical knowledge. The extreme importance of keeping the quarters clean; isolation of all ailing fowls and immedmediate action in regarding finding out Now Open for Business in the the cause cannot be too strongly impressed upon the poultryman.

When trouble occurs, forward to the Biological Laboratory, Central Experimen tal Farm, Ottawa, Ont., a live or sick or in the absence of such, a dead bird. In the interval, disinfect the quarters,

Disinfect the poultry houses by spray ing the interior with a limewash solution (50 lbe, stone lime slacked in a barrel of water plus one gallon of a good commercial disinfectant) Fill cracks and crevices to destroy mites, lices, etc. If a eration for his ankle recently is doing as smaller amount is required it may be prepared by adding two and a half pounds of Mr. and Mrs. O. Lieut. Baker, who previous to enlisting, lived in Seneca Township, was ivery well known throughout the county, having been connected with the militia for some years. He held a captaincy in the 37th Batt. for some time. When the 114th regiment was formed he was made captain of the Caledonia company and was a general favorite in the battalion and greatly respected by the men under his command.
