Successful
Walpole township has been singularly fortunate in her sons. From times long past this municipality has received distinction and credit through the successes of her boys, both those who have remained at home and those who have gone forth into the outside world. Since the war started honors has been coming thick and fast to the township through the bravery of her soldier lads at the front. One of the "boys" whose career has been a source of pride to the old township is E. M. Harris, better known as "Eve" in Nanticoke, his own home town. Fresh recognitions have recently been heaped upon this Walpoleite by the citizens of his adopted country—the United States.
When President Wilson sent an expeditionary force into Mexico this Old Boy made an unsuccessful attempt to get into the fight. However, his ambition to get into military game for the land of his adoption was realized soon after, for immediately the States entered the European cataplexy of war on the side of the Allies, he saw and took the opportunity for which he had been waiting to use his undoubted abilities for patriotic purposes. Although, not under the selective draft law, he at once joined the army and was promptly given a position as drill instructor, later receiving a very material promotion.
In the course of his military duties he made time to take part in the Liberty Loan campaign, using his powers of persuasive eloquence, justly famed throughout his own county of Ogenaw and even the State of Michigan, to recruit buyers for the Liberty Bonds. At present he is taking "Time Out" from his military duties to defend a sensational murder trial in West Branch.
Recently the business men of his county insisted, in spite of his objections that he had not sufficient time for the purpose, on electing him Scoutmaster for the county to organize all the boys into the ranks of the Scouts, which has become quite an important American institution since the States learned the lesson of preparedness. He has also been prevailed upon to accept the duty of recruiting a battalion of men to constitute the State Home Guards.
Thus do Walpole boys make the name of their old towns ip an honored one throughout the outside world.

A Change of Trainings
She didn't raise her boy to be a fighter; But they went and took him from her just the same,
And they stripped his giddy garments off the blighter,
And they strapped a suit of khaki on his frame.
She didn't raise her boy to be a scrapper— And to do her training justice he was none;
But they carried off her ukulele tapper And they coached him in the technic of a gun.
She didn't raise her boy to be a stabber; And she loudly called the government a thief
When it took him off his regimen of clabber
And corrupted him with spuds and army beef.
She didn't raise her boy to be a killer; But they got him when the country claimed its own,
And his body, soft and puffy as a pillow,
They whipped into a mass of brown and bone.
She didn't raise her boy to be a shooter— Nor anything, in fact, except a fool; But they handed him a sergeant for a tutor
And they turned him out a credit to the school.
She didn't raise her boy as I have told yer— To live upon the military plan; But they sent him back to her not just a soldier
But every single inch of him a Man!

Of particular interest is the December issue of Rod and Gun in Canada, which is already on the news stand. Amongst the good things which this number offers are "A Naturalist's Christmas" by Bonycastle Dale; "In the Sky Pastures," a story of mountain goats and cougars in the Selkirk, by H. C. Haddon; "My Bob," a realistic story of a dog's experiences with his master on the firing line, by Vincent Perry; "The Jumper," a New Brunswick guide's story of the French river divers of that Province, by Leslie Marvin Hayward; etc., etc. The Kennel department this month contains the list of awards given at the Western Dog Show at London and the New Brunswick Kennel Club Show at St. John. The other departments, notably, Fishing Notes, Guns and Ammunition, and along the Trap Line are up to standard and the whole number one that any Canadian sportsman will find of special interest. Rod and Gun is published at Woodstock, Ont., by W. J. Taylor.

His Modesty the Kaiser

(By RING W. LARDER)

Finally, in January, 1917, when he (Hollwig) was again talking of peace, I said, "what are these peace terms to which you refer continually? Will you allow me to ask a few questions as to the specific terms of peace? First are the Germans willing to withdraw from Belgium? The chancellor answered, "Yes, but with guarantees." I said, "What are these guarantees?" He said, "We must possibly have the forts of Liege and Namur; we must have other forts and garrisons throughout Belgium. We must have possession of the railroad lines. We must have possession of the ports and other means of communication. The Belgians will not be allowed to maintain an army, but we must be allowed to retain a large army in Belgium. We must have the commercial control of Belgium."—Mr. Gerard's Book.
The Kaiser is a violet,
As modest as they grow,
Like Goldsmith's Man, the Kaiser wants But little here below.
Should we delay the joyous day
Of butchery's surcease,
When they're so dog-gone moderate,
The Kaiser's terms of peace?
What does he ask of Belgium?
Nothing that isn't fair—
A few big forts, a lot of ports,
The only army there,
Control of all the commerce,
The railroads and the wires;
Aside from this there's not a thing
This little heart desires.
And if he wants so little
From a land of Belgium's size,
He'll certainly go easy
On the rest of the allies.
Let's see if we can figure out,
Let's see if we can guess
What all the fuss will want of us
Before he'll end the mess.
Of course he'll wish for Poland;
He'll claim Alsace-Lorraine;
That part of Portugal which lies
Between the sea and Spain;
Roumania and Serbia
In toto and intact;
Not very much of Russia—
One-half to be exact.
Of Italy say Venice
And Florence, yes, and Rome;
The choicest site in Naples,
Where he'll build a winter home.
Of France the whole of Paris
Versailles, Calais, Bordeaux,
And all the rural districts
Where the champagne makin's grow.
Of Britain, O not very much:
Merely some guarantees
That English ships will make no trips
Without first saying "Please!"
And that the Teuts be given
Exclusive right of way
Between the unimportant ports
Of Dover and Calais.
Of our U. S. he'll ask much less
Because we started late:
Possibly New York Harbor,
Besides the Golden Gate,
The Capital, the White House,
Our railroads and our mills,
And just sufficient change to pay
His and his sidekicks bills.
The Kaiser is a violet,
As modest as they grow,
Like Goldsmith's Man, the Kaiser wants But little here below.
They say he's been that way since birth:
Shy as a young gazelle.
The Kaiser only wants the Earth—
But what he'll get is Hell.

Letter from Corp. Parsons
Belgium, Nov. 10, 1917.
Mrs. Thos. Westerby,
R. R. No. 3, Jarvis.
Dear Friend:
No doubt you will be surprised to hear from some one you never knew. We were drawing socks a few days ago and I drew a pair with your name sewed on them and being an old Jarvis boy I thought I should write and let you know someone drew them who appreciates what the Canadian ladies are doing. Where we are now it rains almost every day and the mud is something fierce. Just at the present time of writing it is coming down in torrents and of course to make it much better we are living under canvas, but I suppose we should not kick as there is a war on. Will close for this time, hoping this finds you as well as it leaves me and again thanking you for your kindness. I remain
Very Sincerely yours
Corp. R. E. Parsons
