Men With Red Blood

As a meeting held in Honey Hill, Toronto, the week before Christmas Sir Robert Borden, Prime Minister of Canada, spoke of having had before him certain statements of Viscount Bryce as to what Germans had done to helpless Belgians in Belgium. These statements have not been published with the report of Viscount Bryce's Committee because they were too terrible for publication. Sir Robert went on to say that any man with red blood in his veins if he knew of these things, would be compelled by his own sense of indignation to take the field if he were at all able to do so, in order to bring to justice those guilty of this diabolical brutality.

Major C. W. Gordon, better known in all our Canadian homes as "Ralph Connor" has also something to say about men with "Red Blood in their veins." The following is from an interview with "Ralph Connor" who has just returned from the front on short leave:

"Major Gordon was asked what in his opinion would most stimulate recruiting in Canada. He showed surprise.

"Does it require stimulating?" "Is it possible that any young man in Canada fit to go and ought to go and fight is unwilling to do so?"

"The spirit of our men is splendid. The spirit of the whole people is splendid. In fact that is the continual wonder of the war. Nobody talks of peace until our task has been accomplished."

"What we want in the next few months" he continued "is such a demonstration of power on the part of the Allies as will break the heart of the German militarists. It is very near the breaking point now. When the Spring comes—well, we shall."

This tells its own story. When the Spring comes what will be the feelings of the man who knows that he ought to and has not enlisted? The only way to be sure of an easy mind is to apply at once to those who are recruiting in this county and have the matter settled. The happy men the men in khaki.

Canadian Officers to Visit Front.

Arrangements are being made by Sir Sam Hughes whereby a number of the higher officers on service in Canada, in connection with the administrative work at headquarters and also in the various military divisions, will be permitted to visit England and the front. The group will include, it is understood, such men as General Wilson, of Montreal, and General Logie, of Toronto. The proposed visit will give these officers an insight into conditions in England and on the firing line, which will be of great use to them in connection with the organization work in Canada.
