Varence

There are indications of a continued scarcity of fried potatoes.

Apple sauce is likely to join the luxury class for the ensuing year.

The potato beetle has not been conspicuous this year. Even the worst season has had compensation.

We would remind bean growers that "hope spring eternal."

Miss Ida Finsette, of Toronto, was a guest at "Huronford" during the early part of the week.

Miss Muriel Rowntree, of Toronto, is rusticating at R. Parkinson's.

Mrs. H. Brown, of Toronto, is spending a few weeks with her brother, Ed. Chanda.

The framework of Mr. Cecil Mattice's new barn was erected on Saturday last.

Auto Accident

A motorcar containing Messrs. Lorne Dougherty and Leslie Atkinson and their wives met with an accident on Wednesday morning last, on its way to Hagersville, that proved a miracle no way was injured. The car, a Chevrolet, driven by Mr. Dougherty, was approaching a culvert over a creek on the sidewalk just north of the Stone church near the Grand Trunk tracks. When just near the bridge a team was met and, in turning to pass the auto, owing to the slippery condition of the roads, slid into the ditch and tumbled upside down. The fact that the top was up probably accounts for none of the occupants receiving injuries. The damage to the car was considerable, the top, windshield, steering wheel and one wheel being smashed. One fender was also badly bent. Booth & Pond brought the machine to their garage where it is undergoing repairs.

Haldimand Tribune

The ADVOCATE has had placed in its hands the file copies of the Haldimand Tribune. Hands up all those who remember the Tribune? Those who do are dropping of one by one, for the Tribune was published in Cayuga from 1859 to 1864 when it was removed to Dunnville, where it gave up the ghost the next year.

But through the kindness of Mr. Geo. Weatherby, son of the founder of the paper, these file copies which are of value to the history of the county were sent to the Advocate in trust for the Cayuga Historical Society, if one is ever formed. But the Advocate will see that these old papers relating to events before Confederation are kept for future reference. The county owes Mr. Weatherby a debt of gratitude for contributing these papers.—Advocate.

Death of Mrs. Harrop

The death occurred on Friday last at St. Joseph's Hospital, Hamilton, of Mrs. Edward Harrop of this town. The deceased had been in poor health for some time and an operation was deemed advisable in order to benefit her health. The operation was performed some time ago but Mrs. Harrop never seemed to gain strength and kept gradually sinking until the end. She was in her 54th year. Mrs. Harrop was a consistent member of the Methodist church and was held in high esteem by a wide circle of friends. A sorrowing husband is left to mourn her loss. The funeral took place on Monday last to the Hagersville cemetery and was largely attended. Rev. G. E. Smith conducted the services at the house and grave.—News.

Eat Fish and Help Win the War

Nature has stored the waters of Ontario with fish of many kinds. On the one hand we have bass and brook trout to delight the angler, and on the other whitefish, salmon trout and many others to feed millions as the fish of commerce. This rich heritage costs man nothing and brings to maturity—it waits only to be harvested. It is our duty to-day, in this time of food shortage, to eat fish in order that meat and grain may be saved for export. Fish is waiting to be caught—it takes both time and money to raise meat and grain, and these are needed at once by our soldiers and kinsmen overseas.

The food value of anything depends upon its chemical make-up and digestibility. In both respects fish stands very high. It contains both protein, the body-building compound, and fat, the fuel or energizing compound, in excellent proportions and it is more easily digested and more readily assimilated than the bodily needs than meat.

The more machines of one kind a factory turns out, the less each will cost; so, the more fish we eat, the less it will cost per pound to supply it to us. A certain amount of machinery is required to catch and distribute fish, but there is machinery—the fisherman, the railroad, the distributor, the retail merchant to get fish to us all, it can supply ten times the quantity for about the same overhead cost. If we assure our fish crops of a regular and increasing demand they can afford to reduce the cost per pound, and at the same time give a much better service to their customers.

Everyone knows whitefish and salmon trout and herring, and they are much in demand for food. It is, however, too often overlooked that pickerel, pike, carp, perch, catfish and eels are just about as good food and quite as palatable when properly cooked. Moreover they cost far less. To reduce the cost of living, ask for these cheaper fish. You should get them at 10¢ a pound or less.

Ontario's citizens can help to win the war by eating fish, and particularly by eating the cheaper, though scarcely poorer, kind of fish. Our soldiers and kinsmen overseas need every pound of food we can send them, and the purest patriotism would suggest that we should eat the food which we cannot possibly export in preference to that which can be exported and upon which our allies rely.

Eat fish because it is a wholesome, palatable food. Eat fish and reduce the cost of living. Eat fish as a patriotic duty.
