A CURIOUS CUSTOM.

How the Dusky Maidens of Western Africa Win Husbands.

The natives of western Africa, and especially those on the coast, retain many quaint customs. When a girl has reached her eleventh or twelfth year she is considered quite old enough to enter into the bonds of matrimony. She is taken to the bank of the nearest river and an offering to the particular deities that she and her tribe worship is made with all due solemnity beside the stream. The dusky maid is then publicly washed in the river; a bracelet of black and white beads and gold is placed around her waist, or if her family are not rich enough to provide beads of gold, her wrist is simply marked with white lines. She is then dressed in the best of the family wardrobe and is escorted in a procession through the town to show to all beholders of her beauty that she has reached the marrying age. Her hair is fantastically plaited and she is pertumescing with scents.

All this done, if she is lucky a number of eligible young bachelors come forward and make offers for her hand and heart, and the match is arranged on a strict cash basis. The preliminaries concluded, the marriage is solemnized. The bridegroom gives a feast, to which he and his family and the bride and her family all come. On the day after the feast the bridegroom shows his appreciation of his wife by powdering her hair and shoulders with fine clay, and once more there is a procession through the streets of the village.

Hollanders and Herrings.

Holland can claim the honor of having first established herring fisheries and taught its people the very great nutritious value of this fish. A Dutchman, Wilhelm Benkenszoon, discovered the secret of preserving herrings in the fourteenth century, and the salted herring made its appearance on the market in precisely the same manner as it now does. For the preserving process has undergone no marked change. Your Dutch fishermen are an expert at his job and can manage as many as 1,200 fish in an hour, working at top speed. He ties a short knife to the third and fourth fingers of his right hand by a string, which is attached to the handle of the knife. He thrusts it through the gill cavities and, with a sharp cut, brings away the gills, heart, gullet and pectoral fins of the unfortunate herring.

HOW M. C. LINDOS FOUND A CURE IN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

One of the Reasons Why Dodd's Kidney Pills Have Had a Phenomenal Growth of Popularity in the West.

Ellicott, Alta., March 29th.—(Special.)—The growth of popularity of Dodd's Kidney Pills in this section of the Great West has been phenomenal. They cure kidney disease. That much has been proved again and again. One of the latest proofs comes from M. C. Lindos, well known and highly respected here.

"Thanking Dodd's Kidney Pills because of a small way of expressing my gratitude," M. C. Lindos states, "I suffered from headaches and dizziness and was unable to find anything that would do me any good. I tried several medicines that were advertised to cure my trouble, but they did not.

Dodd's Kidney Pills were recommended to me by a friend and I sat for a box and gave them a trial. The result is that I am feeling fine now. I shall always keep a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills handy."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cured M. C. Lindos because the trouble came from the kidneys. Lumbago, rheumatism, dropsy, heart disease, diabetes and Bright's Disease are other troubles that come from sick kidneys. To cure them cure the kidneys with Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Women's Time Schedules.

Few women speak of a train starting slightly off the even hour, as the 3.02 train for example, or the 3.12. "Three" will do. It bothers a man a heap to go hunting for a 3 o'clock train by feminine directions, when it is a 3.12 train. For some women "3" will do for the 2.54 train; it's near enough. Then the man following feminine directions, unless he is on his guard against these pitfalls, is lost. Probably, if it were not for his business training, which teaches a man that 3.02 is not 3, and 3.01, not 3.01 1/2, not 3.01 3/4, not 3.02, he'd be better natured about women's time schedules.—Exchange.

Your Corner.

Don't you like your little corner of the world?

Have you sweetened it with sunshine and with song.

Have you tried to make it brighter as you toiled.

Have you tried to fight its sorrow and its wrong?

Do you think it's just the finest spot you know.

And the noblest spot for effort that could be?

Have you made it shed around a brighter glow?

Have you tried to help the rest of us to see?

Are you happy in your station and your time.

And contented with the way that things go on?

Have you made the little corner round you chime.

Does it sparkle with the dewdrops in the dawn?

Do the thousands that go marching on their way.

Stop to smile before the beauty that you've brought.

From the chaos and the turmoil of the fray.

By a little friendly purpose and sweet thought?

Don't you like the little corner He has given.

For your gladness and your use and your delight?

Have you made it just a little nearer Heaven.

Have you turned it from its darkness and its night?

It's your corner and it ought to be so fine.

No other corner anywhere could glow.

With the beauty and the gladness and the shine.

That your social little corner's learned to know.

SUBMARINE HAS EARS.

Microphones Direct This Ship When Submerged.

Although the submarine is blind of itself it can be made to hear with the aid of microphones or electric ears. Edward F. Chandler, an inventor who has made a close study of submarine problems, has worked out a method of utilizing microphones whereby a submerged craft may direct its course accurately toward a hostile ship. He gives an interesting explanation of this method in the Popular Science Monthly.

"In the modern telephone," says Mr. Chandler, "the transmitter is essentially a microphone, the pressure of the sound waves being communicated to the conductors by means of a diaphragm. The submarine equipped for battle under the sea is provided with microphones on its port and starboard bows. Telephone ear-pieces enable the submarine commander to listen to the sounds gathered by the microphones. If the submarine is not pointed head on toward the ship to be destroyed the microphone on the off-side will hear less than the other, and the difference in the volume of sound received by the two microphone detectors will be noted at once in the telephone receivers. The commander changes his course until he hears equally well with both ear-pieces.

"While it is perfectly feasible to direct a submarine by telephone it is much more effective to convert the microphone vibrations into visual signals. As a result the commander of a submarine has only to watch a finger move over a dial in order to know what course he should steer. In a sense he sees the sound which the microphone detectors hear.

"While a visual steering indicator is primarily depended upon to guide the submarine on its dandy errand, telephones are connected with the microphones, to be used when the occasion arises. With their aid the commander can distinguish one under-water sound from another and interpret it correctly. A tramp steamer can be microphonically distinguished from a Mauretania, a torpedo boat from a super-

FOLK TALES.

Ethical Wisdom Always Taught by Them.

At the bottom of the folk tale there was nearly always a basis of folk-wisdom—the perception that right-thinking and doing could bring people through all worldly, and even personal, limitations and obstacles. The stories were told by the common folk, who had to contend with every kind of material disadvantage, says the Christian Science Monitor. But they managed to grasp the essentials of existence in that hard schooling, and the greatest, simplest and most universal of folk tales, the parables, were told to them.

In the folk tales of the world, according to the standing of the nation's ethical barometer, we find certain lessons taught perpetually. Kindness is always repaid in some unexpected form or other, even when the kindly act has passed from the donor's memory, and the unblindest person or creature may prove the most powerful friend in time of need. The old woman by the roadside with her burden, the old man with his stick, the traveler, the ill-treated dog or cat, even the insect in difficulties, the blind horse, and the cunningest person or creature may prove the most powerful friend in time of need. China's Altar of History.

There is no altar in earth which vies in marble majesty with the Altar of Heaven—Tien Tan in the south of the Chinese city of Peking, which Emperor Yung Le of the Ming dynasty, reared in A. D. 1420, with its triple balustrades, stairs and platforms of pure white marble carved miraculously its great circle covering a wide area in the midst of a vast inclosure. Standing alone, deserted under the blue Chinese sky, it is a dream of majesty and beauty. As the great setting of a scene of ritual pomp that calls for thousands and thousands of robed celebrants with music, incense, sacrifice, it is transcendently imposing and impressive. There the emperor knelt once a year and worshipped "the only being in the universe he could look up to"—Shang Ti—the emperor of the world above, whose court was in the sky and the spear tips of whose soldiers were the stars.

And the shells burst fast and the thick smoke hung over the sea of old France.

A Rabbi holding a crucifix, bending to Did you know, I taught Jew to his "Christian" friend.

As the Rabbi of Lyons bowed there—how low with the crucifix.

Of Christ rejected by Christians.

Then only Christ's love with the "Christians" but the Rabbi of Lyons.

Reached not the happiness of Lyons that into his face were done.

In the name of the Christ whose symbol of love he held as he was bent.

And as the Christian bowed the Jew, so the Jew for the Christian did.

Perchance the living soldier then, through the closing dark dimmed.

In answer, he bowed the story of the love and grace entwined.

By the fingers of a Jew around the crucifix of Christ.

And perchance his lips on those fingers too pressed a kiss that well suited.

He bent, he bowed, with the crucifix; he bowed, he bowed, and well.

For a dying Catholic to kiss.

And the Rabbi of Lyons by the side of the Christian fell.

French farmers will receive a premium of 15.8 cents a bushel on all wheat grown in 1917 and yearly thereafter while the maximum selling prices prevail.

Guatemala's perfumery imports in 1915 were valued at $15,225, of which the United States supplied products amounting to $5,963.

One thousand bales of eisal were shipped from the Hawaiian Islands to San Francisco in 1916. Ten thousand tons of potash, valued at $3,500,000, were produced. Nebraska's alkali lakes yielded the largest amount.

Clogs are replacing leather shoes in London, England, according to reports. Their cost is but one-quarter of that of a pair of shoes.

British Honduras shipped 942,000 pounds of crude chicle gum valued at $305,785, to the United States in 1916. This was a slight decrease from the exports of the previous year.

Japanese flour is gradually replacing the American product in Hong Kong, China. Bags of forty-nine pounds each retailed in the past year at prices ranging from $2.20 to $2.50.

A short railway line has been built in Shanghai, China, to connect two longer important railroads. Steel work for the five bridges on the new line was supplied by an American firm.

Gray will be a popular color for hats as well as for dresses this spring.

Many of the high turbans are trimmed with flaring ribbons.

Collars and neckties show many variations in the new dresses.

A chemise blouse of crepe de chine, with plaits and a sash looped over at the side, is both becoming and practical.

Inticative patterns of soutache braiding ornament the large pockets, the bodice and the panel apron of one spring dress.

A dainty voile blouse has touches of hand embroidery in pink, and has ruffles of Valenciennes lace which appear at both top and bottom at the cuffs.

Head and leather ornaments are favorite trimmings for the spring hats, and a string of wooden beads encircles more than one crown.

Unanimous Consent.

There was a wedding in a certain church the other day, and, as usual, the minister in the course of the ceremony said: "If any one has aught to say why this couple should not be joined in the holy bonds of wedlock, let him now speak or forever hold his peace." During the silence that followed a man who was accustomed to serving as a chairman of meetings, arose and, rapping the top of the pew sharply with his knuckles, said, "There being no objection the motion is carried."

Oh, happy were the days we spent
Around our mother's knee,
When she would sing to us,
Was half so kind as she.
She put us to bed, and tucked us in,
To please our roving eye,
When we were put to bed, we told her weans
Around our mother's knee.

Refrain:
A mother's friendship is sincere,
A mother's love is divine;
Our mother's dear, well-loved eyes
Are our truest friends.

When we were put to bed, we told her weans,
For she was our true friend,
For she was our true friend,
On life's weary journey,
She was our true friend,
And she was our true friend,
Every day was bright and fair,
And she was our true friend.

These happy days are past and gone,
And now we are all grown,
A crooked road we may have taken,
But still we seek her love,
For she was our true friend,
And she was our true friend,
And she was our true friend,
And she was our true friend.

Orang Utan.

The large anthropoids of Borneo and Sumatra are usually called orang outangs. This form, it seems, is not correct. Orang signifies man and outang, or utang, debt, something owing, so that orang outang would simply mean a man in debt. The correct Malay name is orang utan, or outan. This signifies the forest man in distinction to orang dustum, or village (civilized) man.

Difference in Complexions.

The difference in the complexions of people is due to the varying amounts of pigment; very dark people, those with dark eyes and dark hair, have a great deal of this coloring material in their cells. Great many people are neither light nor very dark. They have less than the dark-complexioned people and more than the light-complexioned people. When the hair turns gray it is because the pigment has disappeared. As this is due to the loss of this coloring material, dark-complexioned people turn gray sooner than light-complexioned people. The structure of the skin showing how these cells are made in layers can be seen by examining the skin with a microscope.
