AIR MASTERS, TOO

Have Taken Awful Toll of the Fliers, and Bombed His Bases.

Paris Cable - East of Amiena along the Avre River, the French have made successful attacks against the Germans on several sectors, capturing the greater part of the Senacat Wood and also advancing their line east and west of the stream. The Germans in the Aisne region attacked the French near Corbeny and also in the Champagne, while the French in Lorraine carried out a successful maneouvre against the enemy in which prisoners were taken. The French War Office reports read:

Thursday Evening-"We have attacked various enemy positions on the Avre on a front of four kilometres between Thermes and Mailly Raineval.

"East of the Avre we have made progress, and west of it we nave taken the greater part of the Senecat Woods and carried our line to the outskirts of Castel. Further south we reached the slopes west of the beights dominating the Avre.

The number of prisoners taken by us exceeds up to the present five hundred, of whom fifteen are officers. We captured several machine yuns. "It is confirmed that an enemy raid fast night east of Caurieres Wood was deadly for our assailants. We found about forty German bodies on the ground. We took twenty prisoners, including one officer."

MASTERS OF THE AIR. Paris Cable - If ever anyone doubted the French mastery of the air the recent destruction of the Friedrichshafen works ought to convince these persons that the French are masters in air fighting. Not only on bombing expeditions are the French masters, but also in fighting air battles. Ever since the Battle of the Somme started. French machines have kept in constant liason with the infantsy and artillery units. The escadrilles operating at low altitudes have sad the Germans frightful losses

Air mastery is an important, if not the most important, factor of any battle. The French not only have shown the Germans that they have this mastery, but also that they mean to keep it. In this way the destruction of an important number of machines in the Friedershafen works has been a double success for General Foch's army, for, not only have the works been blown to pieces. but the number of machines destroyed will mean that less air enemies.

Perhaps the greatest day the French aviators have had was April 12. when eight German machines where shot down, damaged, within the German lines, five captive ballcons were shot down in flames and five others were pierced through by French bullets. During the same day, and the following night. the French dropped 48 tons of bombs on enemy depots and munition dumps. American aviators attached to the French escardrilles partici pated in the bombing and air fight ing expeditions.

London Cable - The British naval success against German mine sweepers in the Cattegat recently, says the Daily Telegraph, is sufficient answer to the Germans who say that the British grand fleet is in hiding.

Contrasting the British fleet's action in the Cattegat with the German raids in the straits of Dover, the Daily Telegraph points out that while the Germans in their bases on the Beigian coast are only 20 miles from the Straits, the exploit in the Catte-, careius planned operation conducted more than 500 miles from

CANADA'S PRIDE

CANADIANS have good reason to be proud of the position Canada holds in the world today. This pride is justified by the activities of her people, by her unlimited natural resources, by her splendid institutions, and particularly by her Industries.

Facts about the immensity of some Canadian industries would astonish most people.

These industries, when viewed in the light of comparison with other countries, are simply tremendous.

The growth of any industry is limited to the number of people it can serve, and that is a fact not often properly appreciated when Canadian industries are compared to similar enterprises in, say, the United States.

For example: the population. of the United States exceeds 100,000,000. Opportunity for industries there is almost unlimited. In comparison, Canada with its seven million population is a small country—yet in spite of this comparatively small population. Canada possesses several industries which in actual size rank among the biggest in the world.

In shoemaking, one Canadian concern has developed a volume of business and a service to the Canadian people which is not equalled by another shoe manufacturer anywhere in the world. This concern, if located in the United States, would rank as one of the twelve largest out of some two thousand shoe manufacturers

While the sales of the largest shoe manufacturer in the United States—selling to the American people—do not exceed twenty-five cents per capita per year, the sales of Ames Holden McCready to the Canadian people last year were approximately eighty cents per

In a comparative sense, therefore, this Canadian concern is greater than the foremost American shoe manufacturer in the United States.

Thus Ames Holden McCready truly merit the distinction of their title "Shoemakers to the Canadian Nation."

Just imagine for a moment the enormous work of supplying a large portion of Canada's 7,000,000 people with its boots and shoes:

-it requires-huge up-to-date factories equipped with the most modern machinery able to turn out 8,000 pairs of shoes a day.

-it requires-a variety of nearly 800 different styles to meet the requirements of all classes of people, for different grades, shapes and kinds of shoes.

-it requires—the maintenance of six large distributing branches in principal cities from coast to coast, and in these are carried over a million dollars worth of stock, ready for quick delivery to retailers.

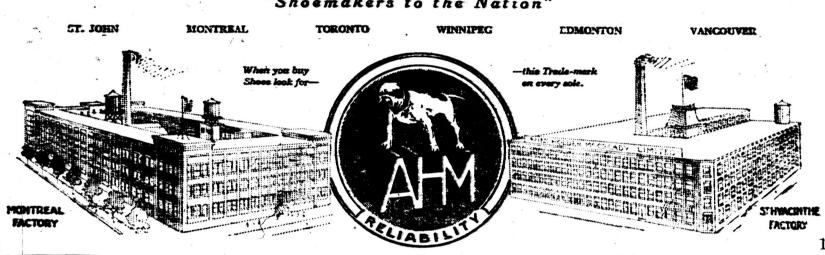

-it requires-sixty travelling salesmen to call on the retail trade. because out of approximately 10.000 retail dealers who sell shoes in Canada, more than 5,000 handle A.H.M. Shoes.

-it requires-many other details of organization and equipment, but this brief outline will give you some slight idea of the part that this great shoe concern is playing in the business of supplying footwear to the Canadian people.

You will be interested in these facts, because the next time you buy footwear bearing the A.H.M. Brand, you will know that they are the product of a large and efficient organization making shoes which will in every case give you the greatest value for your money.

The enemy, it says, has gained little new strength for use in the North Sea by the Baltic situation, while British superiority has been increased since the battle of Jurand by the cooperation of the American forces, and the entire naval strength of the United States would be available if necessary. Moreover, if the German naval forces were to be employed advantageously as the right wing of the German army, they should have been thrown in before and not during or after the opening of the battle in

"If a naval battle." it continues, could by any possibility have been decided in Germany's favor, she would have been saved the necessity of pressing forward her army, and would have spared hundreds and thousands of casualties which, on her own confession, she could not afford. "A battle on the sea is fought simply to gain the right to attain that end for three years and eight months. and if they have out done so while the surface.

the use of gas shells has taken surprising form in the present battle. One new method is to tire heavy, slowlyfailure, and great numbers of the dispersing gases along charted lanes against the enemy, filling in the alternate spaces with quickly dissipating poison fumes. Storming attacks are then made by troops who charge when a sufficient interval of time has been given for the light gases to rise. With the British Army in France Cable - It is difficult for on the British war zone to adjust himself to the new conditions here. It all seems like a horrid dream -this apreading German blight across the cultivated plains of Flanders, with

The plague of war has descended on the countryside. Now one meet his civilian friends—the little folk and the aged-from many hamiet making their way sadly back along the broad highway leading westwar from the tide of invasion, which driving them from all they hold dear.
They look back on the rolling fields that separate them from their little world. By day a bank of grim, grey smoke from hurning hamlets and from myriad beiching guns marks the zone along which are struggling the splendid British soldiers in their efforts to block further inroads of the enemy. By night the skyline is sometimes a lurid; blaze as consuming flames leap up from a hundred homes and great cannon vomit volcanic fire. It is a living hell. It is a part of heretofore untouched Flanders going the way of the devastated regions of the Somme, and so gentle peasant folk stand and look or wander on. they go they cannot comprehend it. SEEK SHELTER OF GUNS. The correspondent found a little family group crouching beneath huge British howitzers held in reserve. Their eyes were fastened on the mounting columns of smoke which rose from the village whence they came. There were no tears and no words, but the expression on their faces was like that of one just condemned to die.

Why they stopped beside the guns was unexplained. Possibly it was because it gave them a sense of protection from dangers out be Hundreds of Flemish homes been shorn of their protectors. have been called to the French colors, and for these this has been a time of double terror. Some of the peasants, indeed, clung to their cottages amidst the crashing of shells until British soldiers led them away. Some have died by their own hearths before they could be removed. A host of these people must have refused to be dragged from the homes which they had been keeping so patiently, awaiting the return of husbands or Brothers from the war. There were many pitiful cases of homes, in which there were bedridden invalids, whom their friends had no means of removing without help from the soldiers. It was only yesterday that a British official photographer, who was recording the history of the war on his films, discovered a helpless paralytic lying on a house which had already been party wrecked by shells.
