(Too Late for Last Week)

Rev. H. S. Smith, of Jarvis, delivered a very impressive sermon here on "Missions" a week ago Sunday, and on Sunday last gave us a splendid talk on the same subject.

Next Sunday the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered at 11 a. m., with Sunday School at 10 a. m. Decision Day Services for the Sunday School next Sunday.

The League will pack a barrel of clothing, etc., for the Deaconess Home in Hamilton on Wednesday.

The programme for the Xmas Tree entertainment is progressing nicely.

CHERISH MORE DEARLY THAN GERMANS.

Medical statistics reveal the startling fact that 2,462 died of consumption in Ontario last year—seven every day of the year.

It has destroyed more human life than all the wars of the universe.

One-quarter of all who die between the ages of 20 and 50 are victims of the Great White Plague.

The sad story of a once happy family has been brought to our attention. The father, ill for many months, worked away at his trade until finally, broken down completely, he had to give up. An examination proved him to be in the last stage of consumption. He lived but a short time after, leaving a legacy of disease to his four little children, all of whom were found to be infected.

Fortunately their plight was discovered in time, and they were hurried to the Queen Mary Hospital for Consumptive Children.

The frail little mother is clinging out an existence as best she can—her one ray of sunshine a weekly visit to her little ones, now much improved in health.

The Queen Mary Hospital is doing a great work amongst the consumptive children—aiming out of her of the early cases may be cured if taken in time. Help is urgently needed to carry on the work. Contributions for the fund may be sent to Dr. J. H. Allen, Chairman of the Board of Management, 23 King Street West, Toronto, by whom they will be gratefully acknowledged.

It is the aim of high quality which have been made a hard goal and have shown much good to the live stock industry of Canada. Often the highest quality stock is the cheapest in the end.

A good sized lot of good type and including in the one that should be used by every live stock breeder in the country. The one whose ancestors have not made good, or that is a poor individual, will likely turn out to be a liability rather than an asset. His use will never improve live stock even if one does get him cheaply. He is dear at any price. It is also very important that the females used as a foundation, are good, strong, healthy animals of robust constitution representing the best type of the breeds which you are working with, and that they are descended from ancestors that have proved worthy of the breed they represent in regard to conformation, quality and production.

This year above all others, with the high price of hay and live stock, farmers should endeavor to utilize to the best advantage possible, all roughages such as straw, corn stalks, etc., by running these through a cutting box and mixing with a small amount of cut hay, with the addition of a few pulped roots and a small quantity of meal, you will have a food which breeding stock will thrive and winter very well on, and at the same time enabling the farmer to keep his usual quota of breeding animals.

A good many farmers are in the vicinity of lumber mills or finishing mills where they are able to procure sawdust or shavings for bedding in the place of straw, or where they could use dry muck for an absorbent. By utilizing all the home grown roughages and keeping more live stock, the farmer will be increasing the fertility of his farm by a method which has been proven most conclusively the best and most economical way of maintaining agricultural production, never more essential than at the present time.

New Novel by "The Poet of the Prairies"

Whether Robert J. C. Stead, whose western poems some years ago won him the sobriquet, "the Poet of the Prairies," is more particularly a poet or a novelist is a point which literary people have not yet settled. In this respect he is, perhaps, unique among Canadian writers. When his novel, "The Homesteaders," appeared two years ago people said that he was, after all, a novelist, and the Canadian market has been sold out of "The Homesteaders" ever since. The situation was met this summer by the publishers setting up and printing a large edition in Canada—the previous editions had been printed in England.

Then came Stead's latest collection of verse, "Kitchener and other Poems," which immediately became a best seller, and has been in demand ever since. It was this collection which prompted a Scotch reviewer to say in the Aberdeen Free Press, "Robert J. C. Stead, of Calgary, is the only singer of any decided merit which the Canadian West, has yet produced, but Stead is a host in himself." And the London Daily Express said, "Canada has done great deeds on the battlefield. The poems of Robert J. C. Stead entitled her to claim some of the finest poetry the war has produced. There is a strength, a beauty, a restrained passion in his war verses such as very few of our war poets have exhibited." High praise this, from such a quarter. Stead is surely a poet.

And now comes his new novel "The Cow Puncher," (Toronto, the Musson Book Co., Ltd., cloth $1.50), and threatens to force a further revision of opinion. Advance sales already place "The Cow Puncher" among the big novels of the year, and Dr. W. T. Allison, professor of English and well-known litterateur, who read the book in manuscript, declares it is "the greatest thing in a literary way that ever came out of the prairie country." It is the story of a young rancher who, although denied all enternal advantages in his youth, was nevertheless able to "make good" in the supreme tests of life and death. It is a story to read and re-read. There is not a dull paragraph in it. It is more than a novel; it is an epoch in Canadian literature.

And perhaps it is precisely because Robert Stead is so much a poet that he is able to catch and express the peculiar charm of the open air and the wide spaces, of vast smoke and prairie shadows, and great mountains afar, and big men and women not too cramped by conventions, that he is able to write such novels as "The Cow Puncher."
