Conditions for Successful Beekeeping

The first requisite for successful beekeeping is that the owner of the bees should be interested in them. He will then study their ways and will learn to manage them well. He will learn from bee books and journals as well as by experience, and also, perhaps, from the friendly advice of a bee-keeping neighbor.

Another important condition is an abundance of honey-producing flowers within a mile or two of the apiary. There is hardly a place in the settled parts of Canada where this condition is not fulfilled to some extent. The kinds of plants that produce the bulk of the surplus honey are not many. By far the most important are clover and white clover found on almost every farm, and most plentiful, of course, where they are grown for hay, pasture or seed. In southern Alberta and the dry interior of British Columbia, clover yields first place to alfalfa, and in the semi-cleared lands of the north, fireweed (Epilobium angustifolium) a promising honey plant which is now the subject of a special investigation by the Bee Division of the Experimental Farms. Among minor sources of surplus honey are buckwheat and basswood in southern Ontario and south-western Quebec; golden rod and aster, principally in Eastern Canada; wild raspberry, sweet clover, Canadian thistle and various weeds. Red clover is an example of a plant containing abundant nectar in which the flowers are too narrow and deep for the bees to collect it.

A third factor of great importance is suitable weather for the development of the honey plant and for the secretion and ingathering of the nectar. In the case of most plants, including white and alsike clover, a moderately wet spring followed by fine warm weather when the plants are in full bloom, produces the best results. In such a season it is not unusual to get 150 pounds of honey per colony in a good clover district. On the other hand, continuous rain or broken weather during the honey flow, may prevent the production of surplus honey. We cannot forecast the weather in any part of the country, so that the honey crop is as uncertain as any farm crop. In 1915 the highest yield per colony from clover was obtained in Nova Scotia; in Ontario the crop was only moderate, and in the lower mainland of British Columbia a failure. In 1916 Nova Scotia gave less than the average, Quebec, Manitoba and Ontario far above the average, and the lower mainland of British Columbia again a failure. In 1917 Nova Scotia received a failure, southern Ontario almost an average, Quebec and Manitoba below the average and the lower mainland of British Columbia a bountiful crop. The shifting of the good yield from one region to another was due to weather conditions. In the aggregate returns, however, Ontario and Quebec next, the Maritime Provinces came next, and British Columbia third, a comparison of considerable importance to the specialist but less to the amateur.

The rise in sugar has been reflected in honey market. In the last two years the demand for honey has been very great; price has risen 3 to 5 cents a pound within the past few months and while extracted honey at the time of writing is being quoted at 14 to 17 cents per pound wholesale. Bee-keeping needs but little capital, can be carried on anywhere, even in a vacant lot in the city, and is not particularly laborious. The bees require attention only in pleasant weather, knowledge and foresight being needed to do all that is necessary until the weather is again likely to be favorable.—Experimental Farm Notes.

Reception Given

On Tuesday evening, Feb. 5, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Ross gave a reception to their daughter Margaret, who was married the previous week to Mr. William Emmitt of Brantford.

The home was beautifully arranged for the occasion and the evening was spent in Progressive Euchre until 12 o'clock. Miss Eva Atkinson winning the first prize for most points.

A very delicious lunch was served and balance of evening was spent in dancing.

The young couple received a goodly number of useful presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmitt will reside on his farm near Brantford after March 1.

Successful Concert

The Old Folk's concert given in the Music Hall on Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the Women's Institute, proved as large a success as was anticipated by the promoters in spite of the disagreeable weather. The steady all day rain and almost impassable condition of the country roads undoubtedly kept a number from the country from attending. The program and costumes elicited a very hearty response from the audience and those who took part should be pleased with their work. Robert McCarter proved a very able chairman. The Red Cross quilt was auctioneered off during the evening by Mr. G. L. Miller, the highest bid being $13.00 and going to Dr. A. R. Colman, Jr. The names on the quilt brought 37.70 making a total of $50.70. The door proceeds were $54, making a total of a little over $104, the said amount going for Red Cross purposes.

"The Condition of the Fur Seals Today" by Bonnycastle Dale; "His First Duck" by F. V. William; "The Civilization of 'Split Rock'" by M. A. Shaw; "Injun Devil" by E. A. Sturtzel; "A Toilet Net for the Camper" by E. G. Brewer; "The Old Time River Brigade" by R. J. Fraser; "Wandering Trails" by H. C. Haddon; "A Hunt with New Brunswick Guides"; these are some of the stories and articles that go to make up the mid-winter number of Red and Gun in Canada, published at Woodstock, Ont., by W. W. Taylor Limited. In addition to the above their February number contains under the heading of "Guns and Ammunition" two fine articles by expert gunmen, namely Thomas K. Lee and Major Townsend Whelen. Mr. is described by the editor of this department as "undoubtedly the finest target shot with the 22 rifle that has ever lived" and his articles on "Repeating and Single Shot Rifles" will be read with great interest by gunmen.

"Prisoner's Personal Parcel" scheme for Prisoners of War other than Officers interned abroad

The British War Office has sanctioned an arrangement whereby one parcel which does not contain other than specified articles may be sent each three months by private individuals in Canada direct to prisoners of war other than officers interned abroad. The parcel must be packed and despatched through the post office by the relative or friend of the prisoner and must bear a coupon.

The next of kin has first right to the coupon and can designate to whom it may be given if they do not wish to use it. Persons wishing to send parcels under this scheme should apply for the necessary coupons, if they have not already done so, as early as possible. Coupons for parcels intended for prisoners belonging to the Canadian Forces are supplied by the Prisoners of War Department, Canadian Red Cross Society, 14 Cockspur street, S.W.1, and in the case of prisoners belonging to the Imperial Forces, Allied Forces or Civilian prisoners of War, by the Central Prisoners of War Committee, 4 Thurloe Place, London, S.W. 7. The list of goods which may be forwarded is as follows:—

Pipe, sponge, pencils, tooth powder, pomade, cap badges and badges of rank, shaving brush, safety razor, bootlaces (mohair), candies (8 ounces), medal ribbons, brass polish, mittens (one pair a quarter), muffler (one each year), braces and belts (provided they are made of webbing and include no rubber leather), hose wife, handkerchiefs (one quarter), comb, hair brushes, tooth brushes, cloth brushes buttons, pipe lights, dubbin, hob nails, shaving soap (one stick a quarter), health salts, insecticide powder, chess, checkers and dominoes.

Persons are warned that the parcels are subject to censorship, and the inclusion in the parcel of any article not mentioned in the above list may entail confiscation of the parcel. The maximum weight of the parcel is eleven pounds, and it is advised that they should not weigh less than three pounds, so as to minimize the risk of loss in the post.

Death of Dr. F. S. Snider

Simcoe, Feb. 10—Dr. Frederick S. Snider, Sheriff of the county of Norfolk for the past ten years, died at his home here this morning. He was born in Windham township, graduated in medicine at McGill university and practised in Simcoe, Teeterville and Waterloo. For four years he was a member of the County Council and in 1898 was Warden. He was Conservative candidate in the Provincial election in 1902.

His brothers are Judge Snider of Hamilton, William, Provincial Livense Inspector, of Toronto, Russel of Winnipeg, and Arthur of Swift Current. He married Miss Carrie Douglas, daughter of the late Dr. Douglas, of Simcoe, who survives with two children, Douglas of Walkerville and Miss Leila at home.
