Is Just the Thing in Fashion These Days.

Fichu Revived—New Neckwear, Skirts.

Though her thoughts may be 'way over on the western front, and her interest in the humbling of the horrible Hun has not lessened one bit, there are certain matters close at hand which require some consideration. Since one must be dressed, there are smart and becoming clothes to choose—and does it not behoove Madame to look her best at all times and for all occasions?

Just now we hear so often that "things have changed," and they tell us how many things are different. One is reminded of this in connection with summer millinery, for time was—and not so long ago!—when we adhered rather closely to the straw hat for the summer months. But not this year of 1918! Perhaps it is because spring pushes so hard into the lap of next winter and we don our straw chapans along in January, that we are quite willing and anxious to wear something else in June. At any rate, the hat of Georgette crepe is the thing just now.

THE SMALL HAT.
For morning and tailored wear Madame adjusts a close-fitting, trim little Hindoo turban, or a wee toque crepe Georgette over her sleek coiffure. It is usually untrimmed, save for some effective draping of the

A Scotchman's Preference.

Lord Strathcona was fond of stories of his Scotch countrymen. One that pleased him highly I have heard him often repeat, says Epiphany Wilson in "The Life of Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal."

A Scot was once boasting that Scotch apples were far better than the Canadian variety.

"Really," exclaimed his friend, "you can't mean that."

"I do mean it," was the response. "But I must premise that for my ain taste I prefer them sour and hard."

One story told of his native town delighted him, although he professed incredulity. The superintendent of the Forbes Sabbath school had prepared a list of questions for the junior class—the strongest man, the wisest man, the meekest man, and so on.

One child—a cynical little elf he was—answered correctly, "Samson, Solomon, Moses." All the others wrote or printed opposite the queries the name of the hero of their hearts—Lord Strathcona. There might be stronger and wiser and meeker men, but the junior class was not "acquainted with 'em."

Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarhal deafness. Catarhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarhal, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surface of the system. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts through the blood on the mucous surface of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarhal Deafness that can be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. At dealers, or write to F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

HOT BATH IN BOGOTA.

It Took Quite a Lot of Difficulty to Get.

Ever since our arrival Hays and I had been threatening to patronize one of the two public bathhouses with a first-class bogotano reputation rumor had it existed in the capital, says Frank's "Washington Down the Andes." But in a land where the temperature rarely reaches 50 and the floors are tiled, it takes courage, and we had been satisfying ourselves, and our duty to humanity by bravely splashing a basin of icy water over many forms each morning on rising. By dint of strong resolution often repeated to be up at six and visit one of the cases we did finally manage one morning to find ourselves wandering the streets by eight, with towel and soap under our arms, and stared at by all we met. We discovered still worn by well-dressed women (particularly those who possess the real fillet), but this, of course, is not a fashion brand new this season, although there are new shapes in the collars.

There are lovely new hand-made guimpes of net and of organdie, with hemstitching and tiny tucks, and some times lace for their adorning, and these are in new shapes and styles. And one may have white or ecru in the net.

THE FICHU REVIVED.
Fichus are a quaint, old-time fashion revived again this summer. They look well on the organdie and other thin summer frocks. These, too, are of net or of organdie, and are frilly, with lace and wee ruffles.

NEW SKIRTS.
are of silk tulle, and are exceedingly smart. They are soft and graceful and women like their clinging lines. Usually they are most simply made, for the material is beautiful enough to be unadorned. One shop had tri-coloite skirts in the loveliest colors—Chinese blue, navy blue, rose, a shimmering taupe, pale gray, pink, and, of course, black and white.

Demals.
I deny that life is necessarily a tragedy. I affirm that to any brave, simple and honest soul life is always a success.

I deny that any fraud or wrong ever profits the doer. I affirm that the laws of cosmic goodness, the so-called moral laws, are just as accurate as the laws of matter and force.

I deny that death ends all. I affirm that I and that love shall survive death.

I deny that fear ever did any permanent good. I affirm that the first virtue for every soul is courage.

I deny that the world is getting worse. I affirm that all success of wrong is only apparent, and that the only things that grow are goodness, health and truth; so that every century humanity is better than the preceding.

I deny that money, force or authority ever helped the truth or helped the people. I affirm that only noble living, honest thinking and loving doing have ever advanced the coming of the kingdom of God.

I can prove none of these statements. But I stake my soul on them. —Dr. Frank Crane, in Farm Life.

ered La Violeta at last, next door to a blacksmith shop. The keeper we woke up told us we might have a cold bath, but that the sign on the front wall: "Hot baths at all hours," was to be taken with a bogotano meaning.

A few mornings later we did actually find the other establishment open. We entered a large patio, the most striking of several buildings, within which was a round, or, more exactly, an eight-sided house, and in time succeeded in arousing the place to the extent of bringing down upon us a youth hugely excited at the appearance of a crowd of two whole bathers all at one time.

The youth assured us there was plenty of hot water. I won the toss and was soon stripped. But the shower was colder than the ice fields bounding the pole. When I had caught my breath I bawled my reproach of profane Spanish at the youth, who could be seen through a hole above potting with some sort of an upright boiler and firebox, and now and then peering down upon me. Suddenly the water grew warm, hot, boiling, then, just when I had soaped myself from crown to toe in the steam, it turned as suddenly cold again, and at an instant later stopped entirely. My eyes tight closed I shouted at the youth above. "Es que el agua caliente se secó," he droned. "It is that the hotel water has finished itself."

There being no deadly weapon at hand I turned on a tap of ice-cold water and raced to the dressing room still half soaped. Hays, scantily clad, was gazing fiercely at the youth through a hole in the door.

"They don't want any more hot water," he demanded, "any more hot water." "Not now, señor, but there will be soon."

"Good. How soon?" "Early to-morrow morning, señor."

"Well, you cross-eyed son of a bitch," exploded the ordinarily even-tempered ex-corporal. "I came here and stripped to an undershirt that I might have in my bare feet on this tile floor in honor of Jose Maria de la Santa

Bahrein is an Arabian word meaning "the two seas." The island has little rainfall, none at all during the summer, and yet it is dotted with wells and they sprang of fresh water. Not only on short but below the tide level several miles out at sea the natives find these bubbling wells of sparkling water. It is supposed that these wells and springs have their source on the mainland of Arabia and Persia.

Canada's River of Mud.
What is perhaps the most wonderful river in the whole world and one which is certainly unique of its kind was discovered by a party of prospectors exploring what is known as the "Stinky river region" in northern Alberta, Canada.

Briefly, it is a river of mud—that is to say, although its course is well marked, with banks clearly defined, as in an ordinary river, its bed contains not water, but thick liquid mud of the consistency of molasses.

The mud river flows, as does a water river, but, of course, much more slowly. In fact, its progress during the time the party were observing it was more nearly resembled that of a glacier. Unlike a glacier, however, there is no terminal moraine. A glacier at its foot melts and flows away, leaving an accumulation of rocks, but any heavy masses that may be in this river of mud must settle to the bottom and remain concealed by the mud itself. This mud river defies, as a plain, spreading out fan-like and forming a morass of unknown depth and extent—London Mail.

Good Ways.
Woolen blankets which have shrunk may be used without discomfort if a band of muslin wide enough to go under the mattress is stitched to one end. The grease spot on a silk dress or wool dress can often be removed by dipping a small cloth in alcohol and rubbing the spot affected.

Spring popcorn with warm water just before placing it in the popper; the steam will soften the shell of the grain, and all the kernels will pop.

One woman has made her table linen give double wear in these days of high prices; when a cloth wears at the table edges, she cuts it down to the size of the table top and reserves it for family use.

If you have trouble in threading your needle, try holding it over a black surface when using white thread, and over a white surface when using black thread.

CROP PROSPECTS GOOD
Railway Official's Conclusions Following Western Tour.

"After an extended tour through the west, both over the C. P. R. and other lines, during which I looked carefully into crop prospects, I think it is safe to conclude that, with the increased acreage under cultivation, Western Canada this year will produce at least as many bushels of grain as last year, provided, of course, that conditions continue as favorable as they are at present."

This was the statement made on July 15 by Mr. C. E. McPherson, assistant passenger manager of the C. P. R., at Winnipeg, while in Montreal on a business trip.

Mr. McPherson said that in some parts of Alberta and Saskatchewan drought and winds have cut into the possibilities of the harvest very seriously, while in larger districts recent rains have helped the growing grain along wonderfully, so that where a few weeks ago there was little in sight it now seemed likely there would be at least fair crops. In Manitoba, which province had during recent years fallen behind in wheat production, Mr. McPherson said the prospects were particularly good, with a largely increased area of wheat acreage and every prospect of abundant yield.

So far as passenger business was concerned, Mr. McPherson said that the roads in the west had never done better than during the present year. As to American tourist business, particularly toward the far west, Mr. McPherson said it was too early to make any predictions, but the prospects pointed to at least as good a season as last year, while the number of visitors to the Rocky Mountain resorts was well up to the average.

Mr. McPherson will return to Winnipeg in a few days.

BAHREIN PEARLS.
Fisheries There Are Finest in the World.

The pearl fisheries of Bahrein are the finest in the world. This little island in the Persian gulf, has been a Mecca for pearl merchants for over 2,000 years. Arabian divers were plumbing the waters of the gulf when Julius Caesar landed in Rome. Perhaps the pearl Cleopatra drank in Anthony's honor was a Bahrein pearl. Some of the finest pearls in the world were first sold in the markets of Bahrein. The natives of the island say that the pearls are raindrops caught in the oyster's mouth.

The native divers wear a peculiar costume resembling a pair of white overalls. The dress is to protect them against the bites of sharks, for these dreaded monsters are supposed to have a distaste for white flesh. The costume is a disguise. To complete his outfit the diver wears a fatim, or clotheopin, on his head and carries a basket. The boats push out over the water, prayers are said and the divers go overboard. Besides the crew, the tiny craft carry an extra man to say prayers for the divers. They are something of a race of artists, these hunters of pearls, loving their work for its own sake. As a rule they work for wages, and the profits go to the trader who hires them.

In the market place the merchants sit by the side of the narrow streets judging the jewels as to their size, color, shape and brilliancy. They carry them about twisted in twill, and thrust in their wide girdles. The value of the gems that pass annually through the Bahrein market is over a million dollars.

BOON TO WOUNDED

"Bipp" a Wonder in Canadian Surgery.

"Bipp" is one of the new words that will be added to the dictionary as the direct outcome of the war. "Bipp" is a combination of bismuth, iodoform and paraffin paste, and is the name given to one of the most important surgical discoveries of Dr. Rutherford Morrison, the famous operative surgeon. It exercises a strange charm upon the treatment of dangerous wounds.

In the early days of the war doctors employed the older forms of curative surgery, which entailed long periods of suffering to the wounded soldier. By the new process the destroyed tissues and infected areas are excised, the parts thoroughly dressed with pure iodoform and after the application of a thin layer of "bipp" the wound can, in many cases, be sewn up immediately with every prospect of primary union and no further distress to the patient. Even wounds associated with bone injuries or damaged joints have been successfully treated by this method and compound fractures have lost much of their seriousness.

One of the most marvellous cases is recorded at a London military hospital. A piece of shell penetrated a soldier's chest and diaphragm, passing into the abdominal cavity. These terrible injuries inflicted without subsequent ill consequences, the track of the missile being excised and the wound sutured after a thorough application of "bipp." Similar success has been attained in cases of gas gangrene, which is deprived of its chief source, since the germs of this infection can no longer thrive.—New York Sun.

TORONTO FAT STOCK SHOW
The premium list for the Toronto Fat Stock Show which is held yearly at the Union Stock Yards, Toronto, will be ready on August 1st. It will be sent to applicants if they will write to the Secretary at the Stock Yards. This year large premiums are offered for classes of three steers, must be fed ninety days by the owner. The premium list is a most attractive one and a long list of entries is expected. This show is always a big success. This year the show will be held on December 5th and 6th.

Worth Remembering.
You can keep table silver bright, if after washing you let it stand in a jugful of soapy water, having a little ammonia in it.

To preserve the dye in black stockings, add a tablespoonful of vinegar to the last rinsing water.

A little methylated spirit used to moisten the polishing paste for brass and copper goods will keep them from tarnishing for quite a long time.

Weak tea made from plug tobacco will overcome insects on house plants.

A few oyster shells thrown into the furnace will help in preventing large clinkers forming.

Hardwood floors can be kept looking nice by simply washing them over with cold water and a mild white soap. Only wet a small portion at a time and polish with a soft dry cloth as you do the work.

Mud stains can be removed from black cloth by rubbing stain with half a raw potato.

It is said that the juice of a raw onion applied to the sting of an insect will remove the poison.

When the hands have been stained by handling vegetables and fruit, the stains may be removed with lemon, vinegar or sour milk. They should then be rinsed in cold water before the regular washing with soap. At night rub in some good cold cream, and use the hands and keep them in oil loose gloves all night.

When buying a broom test it by pressing the edge against the floor. If the straw bristles out and bend, the broom is a poor one. They should remain in a solid, firm mass.

SUMMER HEAT HARD ON BABY

No season of the year is so dangerous to the life of little ones as the summers. The excessive heat throws the little stomach out of order so quickly that unless prompt aid is at hand, the baby may be beyond all human help before the mother realizes he is ill. Summer is the season when diarrhoea, cholera infantum, dysentery and colic are most prevalent. Any of these troubles may prove deadly if not promptly treated. During the summer the mother's best friend is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach and keep baby healthy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

EGG-EATING.

National Differences Are Very Clearly Shown.

Nearly every nationality has some special way of cooking and serving eggs for breakfast, and quite unconsciously the average person's order of eggs will reveal his nationality.

Americans are said to prefer poached eggs. The foreigner, when travelling, who sees a man order a couple of eggs poached to toast, almost immediately jumps to the conclusion that only an American could have given the order. Hard-cooked eggs served whole are another American dish, and "deviled eggs," where the yoke is mixed with various condiments, is strictly American. Fried eggs, too, are where.

Hard cooked eggs are eaten in Germany, too, but they are usually prepared in a glass, chopped with butter, salt and pepper. The German likes his soft cooked eggs very soft indeed, and breaks the contents into a china cup, eating them from the cup. The
