WAGONS IN AFRICA.
The Country Was Developed by Ox-Drawn Vehicles.

Railways have made an enormous advance, not to travel only, but to trade and to politics in South Africa. Lord Bryce says in his "Imperialism of South Africa," "for before the construction of the great trunk-line (which was not opened to Pretoria till 1892) the only means of conveyance was the ox-wagon. The ox-wagon needs a few words of description, for it is the most characteristic feature of South African travel. It is a long, low structure, drawn by seven, eight, nine, or even ten yokes of oxen, and is surrounded when intended to carry travelers, by a convex wooden frame and a canvas roof. The animals are harnessed by a strong and heavy chain attached to the yoke which holds each pair together. The oxen usually accomplish about twelve miles a day, but can be made to do sixteen, or with pressure a little more. They walk very slowly, and they are allowed to rest and feed more hours than those during which they travel. The rest-time is usually the forenoon and till about four p. m., with another rest for part of the night. It was in these wagons that the Boers carried with them their wives and children and household goods in the great exodus of 1836. It was in such wagons that nearly all the explorations of South Africa have been made, such as those by the missionaries, and particularly by Robert Moffat and by Livingstone (in his earlier journals), and such as those of the hunting pioneers, men and the Great Salt Lake, a dry, open country where the wagon can be made a true ship of the desert. This explains the fact, so surprising to most European readers of African travel and adventure, that wherever man can walk or ride he can take his moving home with him.

"I have spoken of the 'trackers' used by wagons and coaches; the reader must not suppose that these are mere roads. There are few made in South Africa, except in the neighborhood of Cape Town, Durban, Maritzburg, Graham's Town and one or two other towns. Those in Natal are among the best. Neither are there (except as aforesaid) and bridges, save here and there rude ones of logs thrown across a stream bed. Elsewhere the track is merely a line across the veldt (prairie), marked sometimes out deep by the wheels of many wagons, where all that man has done has been to remove the trees or bushes."

TEETHING TROUBLES

Baby's teething time is a time of worry and anxiety to most mothers. The little ones become cross; peevish; their little stomach becomes deranged and constipation and colic sets in. To make the teething period easy on baby the stomach and bowels must be kept sweet and regular. This can be done by the use of Baby's Own Tablets—the ideal laxative for little ones. Concerning them, Mrs. Henry Bernard, St. Emile, Que., says: "Baby's Own Tablets cured my baby of constipation and made his teething painless. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont."

COONS AND TURKEYS.

—more than a substitute, better. That is all right—they can eat them. Our Michigan Fathers can eat all the coon they want. We will take a second helping to turkey, declares a writer in the Columbus Journal. We try to imagine the eating of coon. We can't do it any more than we can think of eating cat. But hunting coons is different. Here is the process: Take an automobile. Put in guns, dogs and a companion or two, and then, when far into the country and near a forest, throw the dogs and send them into the woods. Soon the start is barking vigorously and there is a coon. The papers tell of one party of four starting out after dark, returning at midnight with nine coons. That couldn't be done in Ohio, which is not a primitive state, like Massachusetts. Our coon crop is gone. We are sorry. The coon is a fine animal for coon, but not for meat. John Alden and his merry men are welcome to it.

Minard's Liniment used by Physicians

How He Slept at the Fort.
Ed Jackson, Secretary of State, who is one of the students at the United States' army officers' reserve training camp at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, had to spend one of the cool nights in the trenches, as that is a part of the training given to the embryo officers, notes the Indianapolis News. As he emerged from his "bunk" the next morning he was met by one of his fellow students.
"Well, how did you sleep last night?" inquired Jackson's friend.
"In sections," gruffly replied the state official.
"How's that?"
"Well, first my right foot was asleep and then my left one; then one arm and then another and so on. But I guess I added them all up I got in a pretty good night's rest."

HOW'S THIS FOR CORNS? LIFTS 'EM OUT QUICK

You can peel your corns off, lift them out by the roots, do it without pain and quickly, too, if you first apply a few drops of Putnam's Corn Extractor. Putnam's shrivels up the corn, makes it look like dead skin, up to the root completely. The beauty about Putnam's Extractor is this—it acts without pain—does its work quickly and costs but a quarter in any drug store in the land. Get it to-day.

WAR BREAD.

Responsible for Digestive Disorders Followed by Eruptions.
Reports of illness through eating war bread are being received from all over the country, and the news that Lord Rhonda has instituted an inquiry into the cause will come as a relief to many, says the Dundee Advertiser.
The bread is said to have given rise to digestive troubles and then eruptions in many districts. This is said to be due to the fact that some bakers are using imported flour, which contains beans and rice—ingredients which are quite unfit for breadmaking. The inclusion of the germ sets free a large percentage of fat, which is unsuitable for the weak digestions. Then, of course, regulation flour does not possess the reaping properties which wheat flour does, and this fact again gives rise to disorders.
The gray loaf can never be as palatable as the white one, but it can be made equally digestible and nourishing if the necessary precautions are taken. Still, our bread to-day, with all its defects, is not as bad as they which the Parisians had to satisfy their hunger at the time of the siege of Paris, when a quantity of straw was mixed with flour in order to help eke them out.
They are hunting coons on Massachusetts and eating them. They are said to be a fine substitute for turkey out the supplies of grain.

Hogs Curtail Food Wastage

Comparatively few people realize just how extensive is the food wastage in Canada through the medium of the garbage can. A conservative estimate places it at $50,000,000 a year. The bones thrown into the garbage pails every day contain the essence of hundreds of plates of soup. It is a serious thought that with thousands of people in a city that so much is still going into the garbage cans of this country. The three principal methods for the disposal of garbage are (1) incineration, (2) reduction and (3) feeding. The latter necessarily involves the least waste and serves a useful purpose in supplying feed for the animals whose flesh is vitally needed for shipment overseas. By the reduction process, garbage is treated so as to remove the grease and to convert certain elements into fertilizer. In this way it is not wholly wasted. Investigation has gone to show that garbage, if hog-fetch as good a price on the market as grain-fed animals. When cases of "softer" pork have been noted it has generally been found that the animals were improperly raised, kept in small pens and not allowed to exercise.
One hundred pigs will eat a ton of garbage per day. This means an average ration of 20 pounds apiece per day. Every 1,000 pigs could support from 20 to 30 head of swine. A ton of garbage fed to hogs may be expected to yield, roughly speaking, about 40 pounds of marketable live weight.
As little garbage should reach the can as possible, but every housekeeper finds that a certain amount inevitably finds its way into this receptacle, and there is no better way of having it used up than by keeping pigs or chickens. In most communities the garbage might be saved and given to the family

Alaska Native Like Train

High, white-topped shoes and silk and satin party gowns, worn by native Alaska natives, are cited by J. L. McPherson, of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce as proof of the prosperity being enjoyed by the residents of that territory.
Mr. McPherson, who has returned from a six weeks' trip to Alaska, says that the present fad of the Ketchikan natives is taxi riding at a cost of $3 an hour, according to the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. The several taxicabs recently installed at Ketchikan are doing a land office business, he says. To bid good-bye to a native departing on one of the boats, an entire family of native friends rode down to the dock, wishing him a good voyage, re-entered their motor car and the head of the family airily waved to the chauffeur, "Home, James."
With their rapidly acquired taste for the latest styles in clothing, Mr. McPherson says, has come a liberal patronage of the bootblack by both the men and women, much to the delight of the bootblack.

Some Curious Facts Experience Has Proved

"My friend who occupies the room next to mine and does not have to rise next up early," said a man who has to get up early, "that my alarm clock disturbs him; that it wakes him up before his time. But now here is an interesting thing about that:
"My clock wakes him up if he knew the night before that I had set it; but if he did not know that I had set it, it rings and does not wake him up."
"That would seem curious but for the fact that the winding of the clock produces an equally interesting, though somewhat different effect on myself. Suppose I set the alarm for 6:30. In such case I am likely to wake up just before that hour.
"Waking up in that manner I look at the clock and find it to be, say, 6:25. I shut off the alarm, so that it won't ring, and then I get up, unless I am too tired to go to bed. I then just ten minutes more, when I am likely to go instantly to sleep and sleep over half an hour or an hour, with no alarm clock to wake me.
"No doubt the reason my friend in the room is awakened by my alarm clock, is that his mind is receptive to it, sensitive to it; while when he does not know that I have set it, his mind does not find any responsively sensitive spot in his brain and so it does not awaken him."
"Of course, it is by the same sort of mental operation that I am awakened just before the clock strikes. When I wind the clock I fix it in my mind the fact that I want to get up at a certain hour and my brain does the rest."
"There are plenty of people who have to get up early who never use an alarm clock; they rise at a fixed hour regularly by force of habit, but they must first acquire the habit. They say to themselves, 'Now I must get up at such and such an hour, and the brain somehow makes a record of that call and at that hour calls the sleeper.
"The alarm clock is an ingenious piece of mechanism; the human brain is something very wonderful."

His Price Was Low

While ashore in a port of one of the little island republics in the Caribbean a number of United States marines attended a bull fight that was graced by the presence of his excellency the president of the republic. The sea soldiers occupied a box near the presidential party and, to amuse themselves while waiting for the show to begin, threw pennies into a river that flowed by the arena and watched native boys dive for them. The word quickly passed that soldados Americanos were pitching wealth into the muddy waters and soon hundreds of black shining faces were on the banks of the river just outside the bull ring. The marines enjoyed themselves hugely watching the little fellows dive, but finally ran out of pennies and were forced to raise the limit to quarters and half dollars. One marine, more reckless than the others, pitched a big silver dollar, while a score of black boys dived for it. He was just about to repeat the performance when an excited native seated near by plucked at his sleeve and whispered hoarsely: "Please don't do that, senor, you'll have the president diving."

Figured On a Big Score

"Mamma, didn't you say last week you wanted the carving-knife and the copper sharpened?"
Mrs. Suburb—Indeed I did. Bless your little heart. How thoughtful you are! They are both so blunt as to be useless.
"Well, I'll take 'em round to the cutter's for you."
"How sweet of you to offer to do such things for my mamma, my little cherub! I'll wrap them up."
"No, don't wrap them up. I want them to show. There's a boy out there waiting to lick me; but I fancy when he sees me coming he'll go home!"

The Mystery of Love

Love is the great mystery of life. It may be the growth of years, months or an instant, says the Christian Herald. Man sees a million beautiful faces; he hears a million sweet voices; he meets a million women with flowers at their breasts and light in their eyes—and they do not touch him. Then he sees the one, and she holds him for life and death. She is no nobler, better or more beautiful than were those he passed by, and yet his world is empty without her. Assuredly there is far more than fashion in this universal force we call love.

Because You Love Me

Because you love me, earth is fairer now.
There is more friendship in each stranger's eye,
My heart more thankful as in prayer I bow,
My dreams more splendid as in sleep I lie.
Because you love me, I have left behind
All I esteemed in earthly goods, or aims,
Comfort and ease renounced in war to find
Fuel for my twin loves' fierce-mounting flames.
Because you love me, life is sweeter than ever in the tawdry days now gone,
Because you love me, I shall march to war—
Die on a littered field, some bloody dawn.
—By Frederick M. Clouter, Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

Our Wheels Made of Cotton

Gears are now being made of ordinary cotton which outwear those made from the finest steel. It seems incredible, but it is true, says Popular Science Monthly.
"The very hardness of the metal gears causes the teeth surfaces to scrape over each other when they mesh, producing hideous screeches and groans. Everyone of these scrapings means a certain amount of wear."
Teeth made out of compressed cotton yield. They are, therefore, noiseless. Compressed with the metal gears, they are indestructible. To make these fiber gears a large cylinder built up of cotton disks is compressed to but one-sixteenth of its former length!

Will not burn

BLACK KNIGHT STOVE POLISH

Time after time, together with the rest of the city of Moscow, the Kremlin has been burned. The last occasion being in 1812 when it was occupied by Napoleon and the inhabitants of the city themselves started the conflagrations in all parts of the city. It was indeed these fires which forced the little corporal to commence his disastrous retreat across the snow-bound steppes of Russia. Napoleon had his headquarters in the Kremlin, and while the flames were not so destructive there as in other parts of the city, yet they forced evacuation.

The Crow

I have seen no bird walk the ground with just the same air the crow does. It is not exactly pride; there is no strut or swagger in it, though perhaps just a little condescension; it is the contented and self-possessed gait of a lord over his domains. All these acres are mine, he says, and all these crops; men plow and sow for me and I say here or go there, and find life sweet and good wherever I am. The hawk looks awkward and out of place on the ground; the game birds lurry and skulk; but the crow is at home and treads the earth as if there were none to molest or make him afraid.—John Burroughs.

What Becomes of That Cent?

A farmer comes to town with 30 apples, which he sells three for a cent, getting of course, 10 cents for them.
Another farmer, also with 30 apples, sells them two for a cent, getting 15 cents for his. They get 25 cents in all.
The next time they come in, with 30 apples each, they meet at the edge of town and put their apples together, making 60 apples. One man having sold two for a cent, the other three for a cent, they decided to sell them five for 2 cents.
They do so, and when they've through find out they have received but 24 cents.
The problem is, why did they not get as much for their apples selling them five for 2 cents as they did when they sold them separately, or what becomes of the cent?

WOMAN'S NERVES MADE STRONG

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
Winona, Minn.—"I suffered for more than a year from nervousness, and was so bad I could not rest at night—would awake and get so nervous I would have to get up and walk around and in the morning would be all tired out. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and thought I would try it. My nervousness soon left me. I sleep well and feel fine in the morning and able to do my work. I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to make weak nerves strong."—Mrs. ALBERT SULTZ, 608 Chicago, St. Winona, Minn.
How often do we hear the expression among women, "I am so nervous, I can't sleep," or "it seems as though I should fly." Such women should profit by Mrs. Sultz's experience and give the famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial.
For forty years it has been overcoming such serious conditions as displacement, ulceration, irritation, nervousness, periodic pains, backache, dizziness, and nervous prostration of women, and is now considered the standard remedy for such ailments.
