In the evening the concert given under the auspices of the Jarvis Band drew a well filled house and the numbers of the different entertainers were well received.

The Ontario License Board is this week sending out a circular to license inspectors to license them to warn doctors and druggists of the changes in the Ontario Temperance Act and asking their co-operation in observing the new regulations. This circular orders inspectors to persecute doctors who do not attach certificates to orders for alcohol, stating the quantity prescribed is the minimum needed, and druggists, merchants, etc., who do not keep a record of all sales of tinctures and essences.

Two American Aviators from Beamsville, flew over the town on Friday morning. The machine was a powerful one and circled around at quite a low altitude so that it could be seen very clearly. Considerable excitement existed, because from its actions the occupants seemed to be trying to find a suitable landing place. They evidently did not have this in mind however, for after giving an exhibition of some fancy turns and dives, the machine went off in the direction of the camp. —Caledonia Sachem.

The Ontario railway and municipal board was in Simcoe on Thursday hearing argument in the application of the Norfolk County Telephone Company for permission to issue its present shareholders without assessment or contribution an amount of shares equal to the present holding. It was shown that the present system is now appraised at double the liabilities against the company, which consist of $43,300 capital stock and about $6,000 bonds, and that extensions were made out of revenue and dividends passed during years when it was possible to float more capital stock.

Skim-Milk Substitute for Swine

(Experimental Farm Notes)

The use of milk substitutes for the weaned pig has received considerable attention on the Experimental Farm System. An average of results of three years' work at Ottawa with tankage reveals the following facts:

1. That as an addition to the ration already containing milk, oil meal is superior to tankage.

2. That is direct replacement of milk by tankage, shows the lowest gains and the highest cost of production of the five rations fed.

3. That the lots receiving no tankage usually made highest gains at the lowest cost.

4. That tankage, while useful in correcting an unbalanced ration, showed up poorly when added to rations already showing variety and fair balance, particularly illustrating the comparative value of skim milk.

Grain, oil meal and milk required 1.39 pounds meal per pound gain; grain, tankage and water, 2.59 pounds; and grain and milk, 1.54 pounds.

As mentioned, these results were obtained from an experiment in triplicate, or carried on similarly in three consecutive years. That tankage, however, may be regarded as a fair substitute for milk, while by no means equalling it, would be indicated by an experiment at the Experimental Station at Brantford.

Here three lots of pigs were fed, No. 1, grain only; No. 2, grain and tankage; No. 3, grain and buttermilk.

While high cost gains at a low cost were particularly in evidence as the result of feeding buttermilk, a very considerable reduction in cost of production and a marked increase in gains, are seen where tankage was added to the straight grain ration. Grain only made gains of 92 pounds daily costing 9.8c per pound; grain and tankage, 1.39 pounds daily costing 7.1c per pound; grain and buttermilk, 1.57 pounds daily costing 6c per pound. This bears out what has been pointed out, that as a balance for a ration low in protein, or for weaners, or a ration lacking milk, tankage has a place, but that, as an addition to an already balanced and suitable ration, no adequate return is likely from the use of the high-priced meat by-product.

A further qualified comparison of milk substitutes for weaned pigs was afforded at Ottawa in 1917. Here skim-milk was fed to all lots; meal and milk; milk and 10 per cent tankage; meal, milk and 10 per cent fish meal. The grain and milk lot gave slightly cheaper gains and was superior in condition, indicating that the addition of the concentrates mentioned was not economical.

For growing hogs fed on dry lot or outside paddock, milk showed to distinct advantage at Ottawa in 1917 in self-feeding trials. Hogs fed meal in self-feeders with skim-milk in troughs gave gains of 1.05 pounds daily costing 5.3c per pound. Meal, self-fed, with tankage replacing milk with another lot, gave gains of .52 pounds daily costing 10.2c per pound. The skim-milk fed lot required 1.79 pounds meal and the tankage fed pigs, 3.9 pounds meal per pound gain.

In the experiments referred to in the foregoing, all lots were practically identical in age, weight and thrift, at the start of operations.

Skim-milk is the natural food for weaning and weaned pig. Tankage, blood meal and fish meal, where these feeds are procurable, may be regarded as fairly efficient substitutes.
