Mr. Thos. Butcher, the popular Nanticoke mail carrier, brought in two apples that are rather oddities. The one is of an unusual size weighing one pound the other one being a twin apple.

What might have been a very serious accident happened to Mrs. R. A. McCarter on Monday evening. In coming down the stairs, in some way she missed her footing, and fell to the bottom striking her head. When picked up she was unconscious and remained so for several hours. We are glad to report that she is recovering nicely.

Letter From France

France, Sept. 11th, 1918.

Dear Mrs. Histed,

Although I don't have the pleasure of knowing you personally, I feel I must write you a few lines and thank you for the lovely socks you knitted which I received in a parcel from the Jarvis ladies.

We were on our way to the Somme when I thought I needed a change of socks, it was then I discovered who had had knit them although I had had them in my pack for quite a while. "Well better late than never, Eh!" But if you dear kind people at home knew how we boys over here appreciate your every kindness then you will be able to understand our feelings toward you far better than words can express some day I hope to have the pleasure of thanking you personally for your every kindness to us while we were away, and may that time soon come, Again thanking you personally for the lovely socks, I remain,

Yours Very Truly,

Spr. T. GOLDING.

We'll Need Help on This

An order has been issued by Rear Admiral Wood, commanding the Boston naval district, the drift of which is that all letters sent out or official documents must bear the name of the writer typed as well as in ink.

The reason is plain. The official has come to recognize that the average signature of those who write letters or fill in documents is not legible.

In business correspondence the plain blind signature in ink has always been a hard hurdle to take. There are some men who note determined that they shall write their names in such a way that the work of deciphering them will be a problem that will make lawyers dizzy and ordinary laymen clean, stark, staring mad.

There is on our desk at this moment a letter from some gent in Winnipeg. His paper is fine and there's a picture of a building on top. The whole thing smacks of quarter-cut oak, plate glass and office hours from 10 to 3:30.

And what he says is not half bad either. He canters along at an easy style and performs like a chap who would buy silk hose and chocolates for his stenographer at Christmas.

But when his stenog. gets through at the end and shoves the paper across for his nibe to operate upon—good night!

He started strong, and ended stronger. It looks like Creator leading a cressendo or the head trombone player 'or Sousa in action up to his knees.

It may be that this Winnipeg friend of ours has a great big wad in the bank and is so stiff that some slippery person will forge his name and drive a bung hole into his saving. If that is correct he's surely bamboozled all the check-raisers and forgers that ever camped west of the Great Lakes.

He's a dandy. No doubt he was a dandy at a run-hop-step-jump when he was young, and, well bet our meal ticket that he could stand on his head before he was six years old.

Our big problem just now is that we want to write this chap in answer to his "favor of the 27th," etc., but whether to send to the street cleaning department, or the Winnipeg bug house or the cattle yards—we'll be darned if we know what to do.

When you sign your name to anything, for the love of Mike, don't try to do a shirt dance or play the mouth organ at same moment. —Printer and Publisher.

Housing Stock for Winter Months

(Experimental Farm Note)

This is the season of the year when every farmer should be considering the putting of his farm buildings in the best shape possible for winter housing of his live stock, that is (1) in regard to cleanliness, (2) light, (3) ventilation, and (4) warmth.

First, the farmer should see that all dirt and cobwebs that have accumulated through the summer are swept down and a good coat of white wash applied with a certain amount of a disinfectant, such as is used on all farms added to the white wash, in order to eliminate as much as possible any disease which may be present.

Second,—See that there are as many windows as possible in your buildings and that the glass is tight in all of them, for there is no better preventive of disease than plenty of light. If it is not possible to have double windows for all your stables be sure to use what you have on windows on the north side in order to conserve heat.

Third,—Ventilation is one of the most important things in live stock industry, and unfortunately, one that is not enough stressed upon, for without proper ventilation, it is practically impossible to get the good, healthy development and benefit from feed consumed that we should have in our live stock.

Fourth,—It is also very important to see that all boarding is tightly nailed nailed down and all cracks closed in order to keep as uniform a temperature as possible and prevent drafts which are very detrimental to our live stock at certain times.

The Experimental Farm system is pleased at all times to forward bulletins on farm buildings, ventilation, etc., also answer questions and help prepare plans of such buildings as may be required on your farms.

In the Money

At Fenwick Fair races on Wednesday last, Sept. 25th, Jos. Owen's Magister won third money in the 2-18 class in a field of four starters. Best time was 2:23.

Dr. Howell's "Bub" won first money in the 2:30 class in a field of twelve starters. Best time 2:20.

These horses have been in training at Brantford as they were unable to use the local track.
