THE FRYATT MURDER

(Philadelphia Record.)

Nothing could so comprehensively disclose the sinuities of German psychology as the proceedings in regard to Captain Fryatt. The captain was shot by order of a court-martial on the ground that he had tried to ram a submarine. He got away at the time, but after more than a year the Germans got him and killed him.

This was only of a piece with most of Germany's conduct during the war, and there was no obvious reason why it should have lain more heavily than many other things on the German conscience. The Provisional Government might have disclaimed all responsibility for what the Imperial Government did. But the Fryatt murder seems to have disquieted Germany more than Miss Cavell's murder, or the deportation of 125,000 Belgians, 6,000 of whom perished, or the sinking of the Lusitania.

Germany seems to have been affrighted by Captain Fryatt's ghost, and in an effort to lay it a national court-martial was created to review the proceedings. On that court was Professor Schuecking, reputed to be a great authority on international law, who explained to his associates that it was a principle of the law of nations that a civilian committing an act of war made himself liable to the death penalty.

This is true enough, but if only a small part of the truth involved in the Fryatt case. The German pundit produces as much international law as will vindicate Germany, and ignores the rest, and his countrymen stand awe-struck at the vastness of his erudition. The law of nations provides that a naval vessel in war may sumo a merchant vessel to stop and submit to search and seizure. If he refuses it is at his own peril. If he tries flight it is lawful to sink him. If he fights he is outside of the law of nations, and in the event of capture may be shot.

Gentlemen, I had my leg badly hurt, the pain was very severe and a large swelling came above the knee. I expected it would be serious. I rubbed with MINARD'S LINIMENT, which stopped the pain and reduced the swelling very quickly. I cannot speak too highly of MINARD'S LINIMENT.

AMOS T. SMITH.
Port Hood Island.

But the essential fact in such a case is that he refused a lawful command to stop and be searched. The worst that could happen to him if he were an enemy would be capture. But the German submarine did not summon vessels to surrender. They did not call on them to submit to search and seizure. The captain of the Lusitania had no opportunity to save the lives of his passengers and crew by surrendering; the vessel was simply blown up without warning. In nearly all cases the submarines proceeded in this manner. Every merchant captain knew when he saw a submarine what was in store for him. "The submarine would only sink him if it could, and it might or might not afford any opportunity for the persons on board to escape. In most cases no opportunity was given; the vessel was sunk with all on board unless the crew managed to flee while the vessel was going down, and they might be hundreds of miles from shore and the weather be stormy.

Professor Schuecking and the national court-martial justify the killing of Captain Fryatt by an appeal to that international law which the German submarines treated with contempt from the beginning of the war to the end. The law is made for foreigners; Germans are always above law.

Ruthenians.

Ruthenian is the name given to Christian inhabitants of what was formerly known as "Little Russia," living in what is eastern Austria, and also in northeastern Poland. They use the ancient Greek liturgy translated into the old Slavonic tongue, though Roman Catholics professing obedience to the See of Rome. They have a married secular clergy, following what is known as the use of St. Basil. It should, however, be noted that the name is sometimes loosely applied in Canada to several Russian sects living in the West.

An Old English Custom.
In the northern counties of England there was practiced at Easter up to at least half a century ago the curious custom of "lifting." It must still exist. I have before me, written a correspondent, a newspaper cutting of 1860 giving an account of an indignant commercial traveler of the ritual to which he was subjected on Easter Tuesday by the maids of a hotel at Crewe. He was placed in a chair, lifted three times and kissed by the merry revellers. It appeared that a like privilege might have been his for the exercising on Easter Monday a privilege which absence made impossible. There is a reminiscence of a century earlier by a man who was treated by the maids of the Talbot Inn, Shrewsbury, in a similar fashion, but who in addition had to pay a fee.—London Chronicle.

Fooled the Reporter.

A good story concerning De Valera, the Sinn Fein leader, is going the rounds of London.

It appears that recently a certain London newspaper sent a reporter over to Ireland to take shorthand notes of one of his speeches. The audience objected, but De Valera was all smiles and urbanity.

"Let the gentleman remain," he said. "So far as I am concerned, he is at liberty to report my speech verbatim, if it pleases him."

De Valera advanced to the front of the platform. Eyes glistened, ears were all attention, and the reporter's pencil was poised in the air. De Valera bestowed one more benignant smile on the newspaper man, winked wickily at his audience, and began his speech—in the Gaelic language.—Pearson's Weekly.

There are new umbrellas. And midday carries them sun or rain.

They are of gay new silks—purples, greens, pretty blues and reds. They have the fashionable short handles and ferrules, and so may be used as umbrellas when it showers and parasols when old Sol beams. Handle and tips are of that white bakelite which is so effective, and the top and rings are colored to match the silk, which makes a stunning combination.

That sea-power depends on something else besides armor-plate and 17-inch guns is quite unobtrusively mentioned by Admiral Beatty in his remarks and the British "quadrons" which blockaded the German ports. the timbers and strewn the waves with corpses. This bleak water was one of the highways down which passed the great migrations which peopled northern France and founded the Norman dynasty.

It was a people compounded of the races who long ago made a highway of this savage sea-track that guarded the British Isles during the war. It was no idle figure of speech to describe the modern Briton as a descendant of the sea-rovers. That, precisely, is what a great many Britons are, and that makes them the wardens of the North Atlantic to-day just as their pirate fathers were its wardens centuries ago, they in their swan-prowed longboats, and the modern Briton in his destroyer.

Battleships are easy of construction, brave men are common to all races, but the spirit that can thrive on the waters which the blockading fleets had to guard is the spirit on which British sea-power rests. It is not the sea fights, the winning or losing of battles, that will determine the control of the sea. It is the actual ruling of the waves themselves. A chance shot may sink a dreadnought, but the power to dominate by seamanship the wastes of water stretching from the outer Hebrides to the Arctic Ocean—this goes to the foundation of naval supremacy.

To make a faded dress white, boil it in two gallons of water in which a half cupful of cream of tartar is dissolved.

Make your piece-bags of mosquito netting. You can then find the location of any piece without dumping out the entire contents of the bag.

Essence of peppermint, applied with a soft cloth and rubbed vigorously, will remove white spots from highly polished surfaces on furniture. When washing and rinsing colored material add a tablespoonful of Epsom salts to each gallon of water, and even the most delicate shades will neither fade nor run.

When working a pattern in crochet which requires a chain on which to work, first make the chain and whip it to a piece of muslin. This is a great help, as one can work much faster and more easily than on the chain by itself. After starting the work it can be ripped from the muslin.

When you wish to embroider sheer material baste it on heavy waxed paper. You will find this more convenient than to use a hoop. The needle passes readily through the goods, but slides over the paper, and the work can be bent into any shape and not wrinkle, since the paper is very strong and flexible.

Rust can be removed from steel by covering it with sweet oil for a day; then rub it with a lump of fresh lime and polish in the ordinary way.

To glaze linen, add a teaspoonful of salt and one of finely scraped soap to each pint of starch in which it is dipped.

HAITI DEVIL WORSHIP.

West Indies Blacks Are Vicious Savages.

Aside from warlike considerations, people have become accustomed to being safe that it is something of a shock to learn that only a few hundred miles from the centres of American culture there is an almost savage country, the islands of the West Indies are, as a rule, the shoddy and squalidest where any one, man or woman, may travel without fear of molestation. "But such is not the case in Haiti," says St. Verrill, in "The Book of the West Indies." "Here the shortcomings, the failures, the savage instincts of the blacks have been fed and fostered for centuries. From untamed jungles they were brought in reeking, pest-ridden slave ships to starve beneath the lash. Debauched, untaught, they rose, and in a resistless wave of black swept the dominating whites from the land. Then were loosed upon the pent-up hatred, the unending lust for revenge, the suppressed fury of the African races, and slaughter, rapine, incendiarism, torture and debauchery stalked naked through the stricken land. Haiti has improved considerably since then, but there is yet much room for improvement. The only wonder is that any vestige of civilization remains, that there is the semblance of rule, of industry, of order in the republic." Among the barbarisms now prevalent in Haiti are voodooism and obeah, the former a kind of devil worship, and the latter a form of witchcraft. "In its most fanatical form voodooism requires human sacrifices, which are accompanied by cannibalistic feasts and unspeakable orgies. Obeah, on the other hand, is merely witchcraft, with no religious significance whatever, and in its most malignant form consists of poisoning with devilish ingenuity and in its commonest and least violent form amounts merely to a lot of nonsense, hocus-pocus and mummering."

HONEY CAKE.

Here's Something Pretty Good for Sweet-Tooth People.

Three-quarters cup of honey, half cup sugar, 2/3 cups flour, 1 egg, 1/4 teaspoon ginger, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon ground cardamom seed, 1/2 teaspoon cloves, speck white pepper, speck of salt, 1/2 teaspoon soda, 1 tablespoon water, 2 ounces blanched almonds cut into small pieces or chopped. Sift together the flour and spices, dissolve the soda in the water, beat the egg and combine all the ingredients. Beat or knead the mixture thoroughly. Cook a small sample. If it does not rise sufficiently, add a little more soda and honey; if it falls, add a little more flour. Roll out the dough to the thickness of about three-fourths of an inch and bake in a hot oven. When the cake is done, glaze it with a thick sirup of sugar and water, and allow it to dry in a slow oven or in some other warm place. While it is still warm cut it into long strips, or it may be left in one large cake to be cut into thin slices when served. This cake will become very hard on cooling and will not be soft enough to eat for several weeks, but keep in good condition for an indefinite length of time.

RECIPES.

THRIFT FLITTERS.
Two cups cold mashed potatoes, 1/2 cup left-over corn, 1 onion, minced fine, 1 egg, salt and pepper. Mix well and bake in a greased pan in which is a teaspoon of cooking oil. Brown on one side, then carefully turn and brown on the other side. Peas or salmon can be substituted for the corn with equal results.

STUFFED DATES SUPREME.
Two pounds dates, one-third cup black walnuts, one-third cup pimento cheese, 1 egg, salt and pepper. Wash the dates in warm water, dry them. Cut a slit in the sides and carefully remove the stones. Fill the cavity with the cheese and chopped walnut paste, well blended with the salt. Firmly press the filled dates together and pack closely in a waxed paper lined box.

STUFFED PRUNES.
One pound sweet prunes, one-third cup black walnuts, 1/2 cup raisins, 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Select large, well-shaped prunes. Soak overnight in warm water, and remove the stones. Mix chopped raisins with the walnut and lemon juice. When the mixture is ready, stuff the prunes with it.

PORK CHOPS AND ESCALLOPED POTATOES.
Fill a baking dish with sliced raw potatoes. Almost cover with water or milk. Lay pork chops on top of these. Season salt, pepper, dredge with flour. Bake in oven, turning the chops once. The fat from the meat will flavor the potatoes nicely.

STEAMED FRUIT PUDDING.
One quarter pound seeded raisins, one-eighth pound fat, one-eighth pound citron, one egg, 1/2 cup sugar, one-quarter teaspoon nutmeg, one-quarter teaspoon cinnamon, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one cup milk (generous measure), one cup breadcrumbs, ground fine; one-half cup flour, one and one-quarter cups chopped apples. Blend and juice of three lemons, medium size. Wash and dry raisins. Cut into pieces. Slice citron very fine. Cream fat and sugar, add beaten egg and seasonings, also lemon juice and grated rind. Add milk and flour alternately. Dredge raisins with flour and add to mixture. Fold in breadcrumbs and then the chopped apples. Turn into a well-greased mold and steam five hours. Serve with maple sauce. This recipe makes enough for two meals.
