

THE POTATO. Some Doubts as to Its Introduction.

Thomas Carlyle once declared that the biggest gold nugget ever found was never half so useful to the world as one good, mealy potato.

There are many claimants for the honor of its introduction. Some say that it was the naturalist Cusius who planted the tuber in the Botanical Gardens in Vienna in 1586.

There are other stories, however. Sir John Hawkins on returning from Santa Fe in 1543 had with him some potatoes.

Tradition has it that Sir Francis Drake made a present of potato roots to Raleigh, who planted them in his garden in County Cork in 1584.

When potatoes were first used for food it was the "seed" or "apple" that was used, and it was some time before the tuber was found to be the most delicious food.

It appears that nothing or little was known of the potato in Scotland until long past the middle of the eighteenth century.

There is no doubt that the Irish were the first people to recognize the value of the potato as a staple article of food.

End Your Catarrh To-day. Catarrh sufferers, meaning those with colds, sore throats, bronchitis, etc., can all be cured right at home by inhaling "Catarrhose."

THE MIDDLE TEMPLE

Holds Stage Where Queen Bess Saw Shakespeare.

The hall of the Middle temple, London, contains a table made from a tree presented by Queen Elizabeth.

The top is 30 feet long and 2 inches thick and forms "the high table" for the Benchers of the Inn.

The eastern end of the hall is occupied by a magnificent carved screen, finished in 1574, the upper part of which forms the Minstrels' gallery.

Among them may be observed the arms of Sir Walter Raleigh, Pepys and of the present lord chancellor and the present lord chief justice of England.

WEIRD DREAM STORY. The Startling Vision That Saved the Life of Lady Vernon.

The following dream story is told in "The Story of My Life," by Augustus J. C. Hain.

Lady Vernon dreamed that she saw the butler, with a knife in one hand and a candle in the other, crossing the entrance hall, and she awoke with a great start.

She dreamed—she dreamed that she saw the butler, with a knife in one hand and a candle in the other, crossing the entrance hall, and she awoke with a great start.

Two or three tablespoons of lard used in the wash-bowl will remove stains and help to whiten the clothes.

Never allow a mirror to hang in the sunlight or the backing will become clouded.

Equal parts of milk and lukewarm water are excellent for sponging pains.

A tablespoonful of ice-cold water added to the unbroken white of an egg will make better meringue than two eggs.
