Wrong Impressions of the Word "Natural"

WEATHER
PROBABILITIES—Fine and Warm

While natural gas is a product made by nature, it is no more natural than other materials, like coal, oil or iron ore. The word natural came into common usage probably as contrasted with manufactured gas and the use of the word appears to have given a fallacious impression that natural gas was a free and unlimited natural resource.

Merely being made by nature does not mean that a substance is cheap and of low value. Natural gas is a natural resource which men have learned to use for the satisfaction of their wants.

The misconception regarding the position of natural gas has arisen from failing to appreciate that man creates no new matter, and can merely get the materials of nature ready for consumption, since every product of industry owes its origin to natural resources.

Although natural gas is cheap, do not waste it, the supply is not everlasting.
