Teaching Thrift at Home

In the teaching of thrift it is impossible to overestimate the importance of the home. In the producing of permanent results along this line the home can do more than any other agency. This is because the wife and mother not only regulates the expenditure of the household, but further because through example and precept she does much to shape the minds of the children on this subject.

It has been said that the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world, and there is a great deal of truth in the statement. It is equally true that the rising generation will be industrious and thrifty in proportion as the children are taught at home the necessity and value of these qualities.

Much may be done through advice, but possibly the best way to train the Canadian child in thrift is through the introduction of the War Savings Plan into the home. Four dollars buys a War Savings Stamp and 25 cents buys a Thrift Stamp. Sixteen of them are exchanged for a War Savings Stamp, on which the government pays 4 1/2 per cent compounded half-yearly. W.S.M. should find a place in every home.

J. H. McNeaney Dead

Distressing news of the death in London military hospital on Saturday, of Flight Lieut. J. H. McNeaney, whose wife and family reside at 178 West 2nd street, Mount Hamilton, was received in the Hamilton this morning. About a month ago Lieut. McNeaney, who served many months with the Royal Air force in France, was admitted into hospital suffering with rheumatism, and up to a few days ago it was understood he was improving. Complications, however, set in early last week, and the physicians were unable to save his life. His mother, who lives at 39 Hope avenue, Hamilton, received the news of her son's death while mourning the demise of her husband, who passed away only a short time ago, and it came as a great shock to her.

Prior to his enlistment for overseas service Flight Lieut. McNeaney was employed as an artist on the advertising staff of the Right House. Some little time after arrival in France he transferred to the Royal Air force, and for exceptional bravery exhibited during an aerial battle on the western front he was awarded the distinguished flying cross.

Besides his mother he is survived by a wife and two small children.

Married in England
Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Porter received word last week of the marriage in England of her son Lea to Miss Flora Smith, of Skipton, England, on the 1st of February. The marriage took place in the Congregational Church, Skipton, at two o'clock, in the afternoon, a packed church viewing the ceremony. After the ceremony a tea was served in the Co-operative Society rooms, about forty guests being present.

The many friends in Jarvis of the bridegroom will wish for him and his bride the best wishes for a long and prosperous life. Mr. and Mrs. Porter expect to sail for Canada in the very near future.

PROTECTING YOUR GAS SUPPLY

WEATHER
PROBABILITIES—Mostly Fair and cold

Natural gas users rarely think of the forethought, labor, time and money that have been expended in order that this incomparable fuel may be always ready for instant use.

Yet consider this one item: The Natural Gas producing companies of Ontario have under lease and pay rental on hundreds of thousands of acres on which no wells have yet been drilled. A great part of this land will prove unproductive when it is tested, but it must be held for the protection of the present gas supply and to provide, if possible, for the future. Meantime the safest policy for the consumer is to be economical with the present supply.

Although natural gas is cheap, do not waste it, the supply is not everlasting.
