AWFUL STORY

Of Wife Slavery in British Chinatown.

(London Tit-Bits). Recent revelations as to the immensity of the secret drug traffic have shown that much of the "dope" which is being used so indiscreetly by promfsing young actresses, jaded society women, and others finds its way into this country vid the Chinetowns of Great Britain. And this is but one of the many underground ways by which the yellow man grows wealthy by catering for the vice of the foolish.

Scores of Chinamer have made big fortunes out of the secret sale of such harmful drugs as opium, cocaine teroine, trionel, bang, verona,l and betel-nut. Despite the public attention which has been focused on the traffic and the increased activity of the authorities, the game is still pro-

The profits are enormous. And the business, all the more dangerous because it is generally carried on under the cloak of a seemingly innocent trade, flourishes not only in the Limehouse district of London, but in Liverbool, Cardiff, and Glasgow, and, in a lesser degree, Birmingham and Manchester as well.

DELPORABLE MARRIAGE.

All the Chinese colonies in these cities are connected by strange mysterious links. The inhabitants of one known perfectly well, in an incredibly short space of time, what is going on in the other. They stand or fall together in any financial enterprise. A wrong done to one is a wrong done to theatres and takes stock of the chorus the whole race domiciled in this counband themselves together and spend any amount of money to avenge an injury to the most insignificant memer of their community. There is no more "clannish" race on earth. The "Yellow Peril" is far from being merely a figure speech. It is a real menace. Perhaps the most deadly form takes is in the marriage of Chinamen to white girls. Recent investigations have made in the Chinatown of Breat Britain-London and Liverpool in particular reveal an actonishing and deplorable state of things. First of all the fact stands out clear and distinct that any white girl who marries a "chink" sells herself into the worst form of slavery For the Chinaman seldom marries for love. He weds so that he can utilize his white wife in various crooked money-making schemes, such as, for example, sending her into the night resorts of great cities to dispose secretly of harmful and costly drugs to depraved devotees who are willing to pay practically any price to satisfy their craving. If she is caught by the police she goes silently to prison. Terror prerents her from knowingly or willingly implicating her husband, for the 'chink" has ways of dealing with a white wife who endangers his liberty beside which the horrors of ordinary prison life pale into insignificance. TERRORIZED DECOYS.

Another way John Chinaman utilizes his white wife is to force her to act

The methods by which a "chink" ures a British girl into marriage are ingenious in the extreme well worthy. indeed, of a race whose chief characteristic is cunning. I have discovered these methods at first hand, and an exposure of them may serve the useful purpose of causing any girl to think very carefully before she allows even the idea of life-long alliance with a Chinaman to enter her head.

No sooner has she settled down than she is gradually initiated into the mysteries of drugs, the preparation of the opium pipe, the playing of fan-tan, the luring of the victims to her husband's resort, the secret sale of "dope", and the way to dodge the police. She has been married as a speculation or investment. And she earns every penny of her keep and a great deal more.

Too late she realizes that the life John Chinatown had, in his wooing days, sworn to her would be a garden of roses is, instead, a garden of thorns -from which there is no escape except death.

DIED OF FRIGHT. Man Who Declined to Save Zeppelin Crew.

Pathetic circumstances attended the fate of Skipper Martin, of the Grimsby. Eng., trawler King Stepnen, wno aeclined to rescue the crew of a Zeppelin in the North Sea. The adventure preyed on his mind, and he died after nervous collapse caused by the mistaken belief that he had been poisoned. He had received a number of anony mous letters containing threats, apparently from Germans in England, and when he became ill after smoking a cigarette from a packet which had been sent to him by post, he was convinced that the cigarettes had contained poison. Analysis proved that his fears were unfounded, but mover recovered from the shock. "He died from sheer fright," was the verdict of his medical attendant. The Zeppelin incident occurred on Feb. 1, 1916, and public opinion held that Martin acted rightly. The trawler discovered the disabled airship in the sea, with its huge envelope rising about 50 feet out of the water. The commander offered to handsomely reward Martin and his crew if they would save them, but Martin declined on the ground that he would not trust the dermans. "I had," said Martin, "talked it over with Denny (the mate), as we were drawing near, and after considering all the pros and cons, both of us agreed that if we lowered a boat U S Government Has Over 3,000 when compared with the size of the earth itself.

The operation of atmospheric and oceanic and other similar causes is continually bringing about changes in the shape of the earth's crust. One of the most interesting of the agencies whereby such alterations are affected is the carrying power of rivers.

Wherever a great quantity of sand and gravel is being brought down from the interior of a continent and poured into the sea, as for instance. along the northwestern coast of Europe, or the Guif coast of the United States, the weight of the earth's crust is slowly increased, and the consequence is seen in the gradual subsidence of the shore.

Such a sinking has been going on for thousands of years along the North Sea/coast and on the continental side of the British Channel. A similar depression 4s occurring on the eastern edge of our own country and along the Gulf of Mexico. It has been estimated that the Gulf coast is sinking at the rate of nearly two feet in a century.

Corresponding elevations must of course occur elsewhere. And to these slow changes in the level of the earth's crust earthquakes are due, as well as to the more violent local disturbances created by volcanic action.

SOHN'S

SENSITIVE PLANET.

Trifling Causes Create Big Changes in Earth's Surface.

One naturally thinks of the earth's crust as being exceedingly solid and stable, except perhaps in volcanic regions where earthquakes are of frecuent occurrence. As a matter of fact, however, the shell of our planet is extremely sensitive and delicately balanced, so that under the influence of causes that seem altogether insignificant in comparison with the gigantic bulk and weight of the earth it yields and fluctuates in a most amazir manner.

To an eye so placed as to be capable. of taking in at one comprehensive wlance the whole round outline of the globe it would not appear of precisely the same shape during an entire day or even an hour. Most of the changes

The work these women do is really to assemble and put together parts made in factories in various parts of the country. The rubberized fabric from which the mask is made, after being? tested for imperfections, is died out into faie blanks, eye washers and binders; the feltbacked fabric for the nose and chinstraps is cut, and the various parts are stitched together by women at the machines. Each process is inspected by women: before it is combined with any other, and inspection continues throughout production until final inspection by a crops of women with special training and experience. One of the most important parts of the mask is a valve on which depends the possibility of getting rid of the air already breathed and the taking in of new air. Women inspectors try this rubber part, stretching it and testing it for possible flaws. The hose which connects the can containing chemicals with the mask is tried der water and discarded if a Building the City.

The new and better world after the war, of which we dream these days, will not build itself any more than the rubble which marks the site of Ypres and Louvain will come together of itself into beautiful and splendid buildings, observes a writer. It will take time and struggle and infinite patience, and if men and women are not willing to pay the price of a new and better world, such will not come merely because they have airy visions of it. Much of our talk about better things to come is too cheap and easy and has not enough of grip and purpose to make it worth much. What God is giving us, and will give us in those great after-the-war days, is a wonderful opportunity, but we shall have to meet that opportunity with heroic endeavor and self-sacrificing effort before it can possibly become fruitful. Talk is cheap and dreams are sweet and inspiring, but it is not with these alone that the Kingdom of God is builded in the earth and mankind is won for righteousness and brotherbood.
