Explosive Power of Dust.

Dust in almost any form seems to have some explosive possibilities. It has been established in the experimental mine of the Bureau of Mines at Bruceton, Pa., that a mixture of 200-mesh Pittsburg coal dust and shale dust, in the proportion of 65 per cent. coal to 70 per cent. shale, will propagate an explosion. The volatile matter in this mixture is about 13 per cent., nearly 100 per cent. higher than in gas black. While this coal dust contains about 15 per cent. carbon, the latter is 85 per cent. carbon. It is apparent that if the gas black is explosive, its explosive properties will be due to the finely divided carbon rather than to the volate content. Generally speaking, the finer a dust, the more easily it is ignited. In connection with certain factory explosions, C. Engler has recorded experiments on the inflammability of soot. He could not explode a mixture of air and soot otherwise non-explosive could be made to explode by introducing a soot cloud.

Worth Knowing.

Nuts which have grown stale may be freshened by soaking an hour in milk, then placing in oven to dry.

Such vegetables as cucumbers, radishes and tomatoes should be washed, completely dried and put in the ice box until time of serving.

Until reconstruction work is entirely complete we must not waste one scrap of meat fat. The poorly nourished peoples of Allied and neutral countries need great quantities of fat to build them up again.

Fresh fruit from stores or stands should be wiped, then washed and dried before eating or cooking. It should be kept in a cool, dry, dark place if stored for any time before using.

Greens for salads, such as lettuce, endives, celery, watercress and parsley, should be carefully washed and then dried, so that no water remains on the leaves. They should then be tied up in a clean cloth and wrung out of cold water, and put directly on ice. This will render them perfectly crisp and cold, and ready for the dressing just before serving. There is no question as to the health-giving value of salads. They would be more popular if this custom of more carefully prepared.

SOUR MILK SUGGESTIONS.

Years ago, before the day when nearly every family owned its icebox of some kind, as they do to-day, every good housewife had her own repertoire of sour milk recipes. Grandmother just had to know how to make good cake and puddings with sour milk, and how to use up her cream that had turned.

To-day, even in the best regulated household, there sometimes is sour milk or cream on hand, and a few of grandmother's recipes would be a real asset to every kitchen filing cabinet.

Make a simple white cake after your favorite recipe, bake in layers and put together with sour cream filling, and it will be added at once to your family's list of favorite desserts. It is particularly nice for Sunday night supper.

Whip half a cup of sour cream and sweeten with half a cup of powdered sugar. Then add half a cup of finely chopped almonds and flavor with vanilla.

A very good cake which is usually eaten warm like gingerbread is made by creaming a cup of sugar with a cup of shortening, and adding to it alternately with a cup of sour milk, a cup and a half of flour, sifted with a teaspoonful each of soda, cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg. Chop half a cup of raisins, sprinkle over them another half cup of flour and add last.

GINGER GEMS.

Ginger gems served hot for dessert with whipped cream or a lemon sauce make another good dessert, especially liked by children.

Melt half a cup of shortening and add to half a cup of sugar. Then add an egg, well beaten, and a cup of molasses and a cup of sour milk in which a teaspoonful of soda has been dissolved. Sift into a cup of flour with half a teaspoonful each of cloves, ginger, cinnamon and nutmeg, and then add enough more flour to make a stiff butter. Bake in gem pans.

GRANDMOTHER'S HERMITS.

Grandmother's hermits, made with sour milk, will keep a long time. For this reason they are particularly good to send quite some distance, as no matter how long they may be en route, they are sure to be as soft and fresh when they arrive as when sent.

Cream a cup of sugar with half a cup of shortening and add to it one egg, well beaten. Then add half a cup of thick, sour cream, a teaspoonful of soda, two tablespoonfuls of molasses, spice to suit, and half a cup each of chopped walnuts and raisins. Flour to mix soft. Drop from the end of a spoon.

To make a most unusual pie beat two eggs till very light, then add a cup of sugar and a cup of thick, sour cream, half a cup of raisins, and half a teaspoonful of cinnamon and half a teaspoonful of nutmeg. Bake between two crusts.

Cherry pudding. Beat one egg with a third of a cup of sugar. Dissolve a quarter of a teaspoonful of soda in a cup of sour milk, and add to it a teaspoonful of melted butter. Then add a cup of flour and a cup of stoned cherries. Bake in a hot oven and serve with sugar and cream or with a vanilla sauce.

TIMELY RECIPES.

GOOD STOCK AND GOOD SOUPS.

The basis of all soups is good stock. Get the butcher to break up the bone of one and a half pounds of shin beef. Put in a stewpan and cover with cold water; add one carrot, one turnip, one onion, and a few peppercorns and salt. Let it simmer for several hours; strain the fat. A delicious and quickly made tomato soup is prepared by adding to one and a half pints of stock one breakfast cupful of small puree and a dessertspoonful of small sago, pepper and salt. Boil, stirring from time to time, till the sago is clear.

KIDNEY SOUP.

Cut up an ox kidney in small pieces, carefully removing all the fat. Fry in a little butter, add a little water and simmer for four hours; add two pints of stock, half a teaspoonful of sugar, one teaspoonful of mustard, pepper and salt. Thicken with one large tablespoonful of flour and boil for half an hour.

OX TAIL SOUP.

Joint the tail and fry lightly in a little butter; add one carrot and one turnip cut very small, a very little stock, and simmer till the tail is cooked. Then add three pints of stock, pepper and salt. Set aside till cool, skim off all the fat, reheat and serve.

The size of the private telegraph exchange grows with the erection of every hotel or office building of any considerable proportions. The largest ever constructed is that of a New York hotel which has been recently opened to the public. It occupies 3,165 square feet of floor space, having an operating room 110 feet long by 15 feet wide, a terminal room 30 feet long and 52 feet wide, a rest room 23 feet by 15 feet and a locker and washroom 30 feet by 14 feet. The operating force consists of one chief operator, eight supervisors and 110 attendants. The switchboard consists of 23 positions. Thirteen positions are equipped with telautographs used for paging and announcing only. The switchboard has a capacity of 3,340 extensions and 180 trunks. The hotel has telephone service in each of its 2,200 rooms, and there are 40 public telephone booths served by four switchboards connected with the main switchboard. The following gives some idea of a few of the items which make up part of the telephone system: 630 fuses, 1,170 condensers, 2,400 relays, 5,350 lamps, 38,500 jacks, 750,000 soldered connections, 7,296,000 feet of wire.

According to Professor Vaughn MacCaughey, of the College of Hawaii, the Hawaiian mine is rapidly becoming extinct. The disappearance of "one of the finest physical types known in the history of the human race" is due to the introduction by white men of alcohol, plague, measles, leprosy, tuberculosis, pneumonia and the most terrible of blood diseases, none of these having been known in Hawaii before the advent of the white man.

Found Platinum Beds.

Dr. Herschel C. Parker, of Columbia university, while on an exploring expedition to Alaska last summer, discovered extensive platinum beds in the Susitana and Yentna valleys in the Cook inlet country. He brought out a large number of ore samples on his return to the States, and is now engaged in exhaustive tests of the metal. He expects to establish a plant for handling the ore when he goes back to Alaska.

"The Alaska platinum ore is low grade," said Doctor Parker, "but it is there in abundance. It will have to be handled in large quantities and under scientific methods of economy to make it pay. Th equestion of its commercial value is simply one of engineering. With the end of the war and the consequent wide use of platinum for jewelry, I believe the Alaska beds will prove a valuable source of world supply."

A Healthy Island.

The little island of St. Kilda, the most remote of the Hebrides—attacked by a German submarine a year or so ago, is one of the healthiest of all the British isles. It is only when the supply ship arrives there, as it does two or three times in the summer, that anything happens. Then the whole population catch cold and are ill for about four days.

"BUNCOMBE."

How a Colonel's Name Came to Be a Term of Reproach.

Whenever I pick up a copy of the Congressional Record and numerous other publications and read the irrelevant speeches therein reported, I sigh for the memory of Colonel Edward Buncombe, "Girard" writes in the Philadelphia Ledger.

Through no fault of the gallant gentleman himself, there clings to his name an unpleasant significance which many of our brave public men do naught to mitigate. Indeed, if there be such a thing as one shade's taking vengeance upon another in the future world Colonel Buncombe will at least pull out Felix Walker's tongue.

It was all Walker's fault that "buncombe" became a terms of reproach, and the incident which made it so happened a century ago.

Walker representedin Congress a district of North Carolina of which Buncombe county was a part. The county had been named away back in 1791 in honor of Colonel Buncombe.

Walker was one of those long distance orators who without half trying could empty the halls of Congress and put them in a condition beside which the dead streets of Pompeii appear great white ways. When upbraided one day for talking about everything except the question at issue Walker used this immortal phrase:

"I am only talking for Buncombe," meaning his home county.

And so "buncombe" became a new word in our language, which has been conveniently shortened into the colloquial "bunk."
