Serious Evidence Against Quien, Whose Priendship NOSKE RAIDS

A Paris special cables Georges Gaston Quien, on trial here charged with communicating military information to the enemy, and having collected evidence against Edith Cavell Officers of German Execuby the Germans in October, 1915, was questioned by the court to-day relative to his movements in June and

At yesterday's session of the court. Quien traced his journey from St. Quentin to Brussels, where he arrived on June 7. After reaching the Beigian capital, Quien decided to cross the frontier into Holland. This he succeeded in doing, presenting himself at The Hague to the French military attache, who sent him back into

He said to-day that he re-entered Beigium on the night of June 23, in company with one van Deer Smiesson. The next day he was arrested by the dermans, who accused him of traveling without a passport, and was imprisoned in Antwerp until late in Inly. This testimony was questioned by the colonel acting as president of the court, who said it was "strange no trace of his imprisonment could he found at Antwerp, and that the Germans later permitted Quien to go to Brussels."

The accused man admitted having seen Miss Cavell on July 26, after he had visited the home of a Madame Hodart, at which time he said that a pertain Jean Maes, who, he said, was fellow prisoner in Antwerp, accosted him in the street. There was read into the record a statement showing that Mass was a "suspicious character." and that he was known to have been in the pay of the Germans, being employed by German police at Madame Bodart gave Quien a pack age to be left at the home of a Madame Machiel. Quien denied that he had examined its contents, although during his preliminary examination he admitted it contained annotated road maps for the use of persons attempting to escape from the country. It was pointed out by the prosecution to-day that one of these maps, which only Quien could have obtained, was the chief evidence against Madame Bodart, and brought about her condemnation before a German court-martial. Explaining this discrepancy in his story, Quien said he was suffering from loss of

The president of the court pointed out during the hearing that almost everyone with whom Quien came in contact was immediately placed under TDIE CTARY AF errest or condemned by the Germans. Among those mentioned by the president was Father Bonsteels, who, believing Quien was honestly aiding allied sordiers to escape, gave him a railroad map, which showed the latest German modifications. Father Bonsteels was soon afterwards arrested, and sentenced to twelve years' imortsonment.

It was declared that Quien had asked Madame Vandamme to aid two young persons to escape, and that these two were directed to the frontier by Madame Vandamme, who sent another lady with them as a guide. The three were arrested, and Madame Vandamme was also thrown into jail by the Ger-

Commercial Building Take the Workers.

A London cable: All private shipbuilding yards throughout the country, numbering about twenty, are affected by the Government order that all work be stopped on war ships except those about to be launched. The Admiralty yards at Chatham, Devonport and Portsmouth will not stop, however, as they are entirely occupied with the refitting of 2,700 steamers which are about to be returned to the owners, from whom they were requisitioned for war service. Among the warships being built at private yards are cruisers, destroyers and

Shipbuilders must be liberally compensated in cases where contracts are may prove more economical than car-

The Mail quotes an officer of the Admiralty as saying that one sound reason for stopping work on warships is that the step will clear the yards for commercial building. There is an excellent demand for new tonnage, and this work will probably absorb the men liberated by the stoppage of work on naval vessels. According to forty warships, valued at 25,000,000 corns are painful growths. Hollo-pounds sterling, has been stopped.

ULTRA-RADICALS

tive Cleared Out.

May Cause Another General Strike.

A Berlin cable: A sensational raid by Gustav Noske, Secretary for Military Affairs, on the premises occupied by the Ultra Radical Executive Committee of the Workingmen's Councils of Greater Berlin threatens to precipitate another general strike.

The raid was a result of trouble between Noske and a "rump" board of the Councils dominated by Richard Mueller and other independent Communist agitators. The struggle grew out of an attempt by Mueller to force elections of "shop councils" in advance of the issue by the Government of a writ for the elections.

Fearing the defeat of their radical Soviet programme, the Ultra Radicals proceeded to make extensive arrangements for balloting in the hig industrial plants, when the Government stepped in and informed the worker that the elections would be invalid. and urged them to abide by the decision of the National Assembly on the issue of the Workingmen's Par-Hament

The Redicals immediately accepted the challenge of the Government and proceeded to perfect a plan for elections to be held under their direction. This resulted in Noske's ordering the raid on the executive offices of the Councils. A minute search of the premises was made and Noske is still guarding the place.

The documents seized included much material which is said to prove that the Communists were planning an extensive political upheaval.

Allege Systematic Plans for Invasion

A Kattowitz, Silesia, cable: The Polish mining population of Upper Silesia continues to flee over the Polish border to avoid being involved in shooting frays. The search for arms is still being carried on by the Upper Silesian authorities with much success, though many difficulties are encountered in scouring the woods for hiding places and searching hostile Polish quarters.

According to yesterday's reports some artillery fire has been directed against the Silesian railroads and bridges, which are under strong guard.

The German authorities have prepared, and will present before the Entente commission, evidence concerning alleged systematic plans whereby a Polish invasion was ranged and Germans were abducted. Incorporated in their statement is the reply alleged to have been made prevent such abduction: sorry to be unable to serve; I have my instructions."

Among the populace of Dublin in 1780 the shoeblacks were a numerous and formidable body. The polish they used was lampbiack and eggs, for which they purchased all that were rotten in the markets. Their implements consisted of a three-legged stool, a basket containing a blunt knife, called a spudd, a painter's brush and an old wig.

A gentleman usually went out in the morning with dirty boots or shoes, sure to find a shoeblack sitting on his steel at the corner of the street. The gentleman put his foot in the lap of the shoeblack without ceremony, and the artist ecraped it with his spudd, wiped it with his wig and then laid on his composition as thick as black pant with his painter's brush.

Miller's Worm Powders prove their value. They do not cause any violent disturbances in the stomach, any pain or griping, but do their work quietly and painlessly, so that the destruction of the worms is imperceptible. Yet they are thorough, and from the first dose there is .mprovement in the condition of the sufferer and an entire cessation of manifestations of internal trouble.

MIRABEAU

Whatever Mirabeau may have been or may not have failed to be one great testimony to his character remains unshaken—the high opinion his Sir Gilbert Elliott, whose distinguished Listory is a voucher for his character, and his character is a voucher for the moral value of his judgment, found Mirabeau, when he resumed his acquaintance in England, "....an ardent friend and I besociety.

Mirabeau was also introduced to Hurd, fiterary man, court favorite, and Bishop of Worcester. while he knew well Dr. Price, the famous non-conformite divine; Lord Shelbourne, just created Marquis of Lansdowne, and Benja Vaugian (the author of the English version of the pamphlet on the Scheldt) were both not only true friends to Mirabeau, but, as will be seen, to Madame de Nebra also. The justice, the shrewdness and the sobriety to recognize and appreciate what was good in us, to see what was bad, and to foresse the best way to make that bad good, were attr which Mirabeau possessed as no other of our foreign critics has ever possessed them, and which he applied not only to our criminal system, but to our government and to our natio character. The flattering hyperboles in which Montesqueiu and Voltaire adore us are much less gratifying but far less sound and true than Mirabeau's rough, generous strictures. If, in his study of a country so much freer and happier than his own, he was betrayed for a moment into an

the impulsive heart. Later Mirabeau told La Marck that France must have a representative government as England had-"it contains every guarantee of judicious liberty." Yet though he certainly did not regard the House of Lords as "a monument of Gothic superstition," as the Abbe Sieyes did, he protested against it when the question came before the National Assembly in 1798. The most cursory acquaintance with the English political history of the latter part of the eighteenth century reveals a jobbery and corruption Mirabeau's mind could never have missed. Voltaire, indeed, seeing the many districts, a few, especially in districts where rust developed, yields through the mud to the pearls below

Fritz August Thiel, former German consular representative in Japan, has been picked for the post of Ambassador at Tokio. The appointments of the men se-

There is no mention at present of the selection of German Ambassador to France. Washington, Aug. 27.—No inquiry has been made of the United States as to whether Hamiel von Haimhausen, former counsellor of the Imperial German Embassy here, will be acceptable as Ambassador, but there is every indication that this Government will not receive Haimhausen or anyone else formerly connected with the embassy under the regime of Count von Bernstorff.
