BIRTHS

JOHNSON—In Walpole, on Sunday, Sept. 14th, 1919, to Mr. and Mrs. Percy Johnson, a son.

MARRIAGES

KEITH-THOMPSON—In Hamilton, on Saturday, Sept. 14, 1919, Miss Pearl Thompson to John Keith.

DEATHS

FALLS—At her late residence, Nelles Corners, on Saturday, September 13, 1919, Annie Amelia Donnelly, beloved wife of Benjamin A. Falls, in her 49th year.

The funeral met at the house at 2 p. m. on Monday last and proceeded to the Stone Church, Walpole, for service and interment.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander have moved into the store lately occupied by Mr. D. F. Williams, being unable to secure a house in the village. Mr. Alexander is working on the railroad.

Mr. Geo. Depew, proprietor of the Commercial hotel, is having the house renovated on the inside by having it papered and painted. The work is being done by Mr. Wm. Griffey.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Porter and son and daughter, Jim and Miss Eileen, accompanied by Miss Shirley Homes, motored to London on Friday last. They returned home on Sunday evening.

Mrs. Margaret Townsend will hold an auction sale of farm stock, implements, etc., at her farm, Lot 14, Concession 1, Walpole township, on Thursday, September 25th. For further particulars see complete list elsewhere in this issue.

Mrs. John Lambert of Port Dover, has sold her property in this village on east Talbot street to Mr. Robert McNeal, of Woodhouse, the latter to take possession in the near future. Mr. McNeal recently sold his farm to Mr. A. Cronse, of Dundas.

Mrs. Geo. Appleford will hold an auction sale of farm stock and implements at her farm, 1 mile east of Nanticoke on Saturday, September 27th. The farm property will be offered for sale by auction at the same time. See bills for further particulars.

Mr. Peter Banks has purchased from Mr. N. R. Pond the lot next to the garage of Booth and Pond. Mr. Banks intends building a Blacksmith's shop and conducting a horse shoeing and general repair business. Mr. Pond recently purchased the lot from Mrs. Eliza Allen.

In the results of the junior matriculation to the press last week by the Department of Education an error was made in that of Haldimand county. Mr. Russell Walter, of this place, whose name did not appear in the report, has received his certificate, he having secured a partial matriculation, failing in French.

The September meeting of the Varsity Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Lunly. A very interesting paper was read by Mrs. D. Parkinson. A solo by Miss Edna Saunders, followed by a reading by Mrs. A. C. Saunders, ably contributed to the program, at the close of which a dainty lunch was served by the hostess. The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Thos. Brown on September 30. A good attendance is requested as very important business is to be discussed.

In Memoriam
SWING—In loving memory of our dear son William Henry, who was killed in Shan I Land, B. C., Sept. 23, 1912. A day of remembrance so sweet to recall, For Henry was loved by one and by all; So sad, yet so true, we cannot tell why God called our loved one so early to die. May the heavenly winds blow softly O'er that sweet and hallowed spot, For Henry was loved by every one And never will be forgot.
FATHER, MOTHER AND BROTHERS.

Card of Thanks
Through the column of The Record we wish to thank the kind friends and neighbors for their great kindness shown us during the long illness and subsequent death of husband and father. We also wish to thank all those who so kindly gave their autos to follow the remains to Tillsonburg cemetery.

Convention a Success

The fifty-fourth annual convention of Haldimand Sunday School Association was held in the Presbyterian church, Hagersville, on Thursday and Friday of last week, September 11th and 12th, there being a good attendance at the sessions.

Rev. J. M. Whitelaw opened the Convention with prayer, after which the president, Mr. J. C. Hare, took the chair. The reports of the different departments were called for, six out of seven answering by letter or person, and all showing favorable progress. The financial report showed receipts of $228.87 with an expenditure of $172.04.

The first speaker was Rev. W. P. Fletcher, who spoke on "Teacher Training." He showed the importance of it in the Sunday School as well as in the public school and industrial work. The teacher in the S. S. should study the members of his or her class so as to be able to meet their needs and consequently in studying the subject to be able to apply it to those needs.

In the afternoon, after having been led in prayer by Mrs. J. Slack, of Springvale, the Rev. P. H. Dayfoot, spoke on "A Sunday School Handout." The babies are called the juniors. The young people and all who cannot get to the Sunday school are being called to join the Home department. A handout that is worth having or something that they are throwing away? It behooved the School to think and act and to give them graded instruction.

Rev. N. D. MacCinnon spoke on "Reverence," stating that the ones for irreverence in God was in the family circle where all sit together and in the character of the home training as well. Rev. W. G. Fiddes spoke on the "Salisbury School at Hagersville," which was followed by a conference led by Rev. W. P. Fletcher. After a song service Mr. C. S. Bell spoke on the Referendum issue and gave some of the results of the liquor question on the home, the church and the industrial world. Rev. W. P. Fletcher gave some ideas for the Haldimand Sunday School, urging that each school try to reach it, denominational requirements.

The following are the officers for 1919-1920: President, Mr. J. C. Hare, Nanticoke; Vice Pres., Mr. Thos. Camfield, Dunnville; Sec. Treas., Wm. MacNeil, Jarvis; Children Depart., Miss Leta Teitz, Hagersville; Y. P. Boys, Rev. C. V. Pitcher, Hagersville; Y. P. Girls, Miss Jennie Lint, Fisherville; A. B. C., Rev. Wm. Haidib, Dunnville; H. D., Rev. Lewis Lint, Fisherville; T. T., Rev. J. M. Whitelaw, Hagersville; Missions, Mrs. J. R. Pond, of Jarvis; Temperance, Mr. D. W. Hilborn, Selkirk.

When he awakened he looked about him and got a glimpse of two things, or perhaps three, his real position, with its two contradictory elements, national importance; national nonentity. (2) The reason for these, his own neglect, not to say stupidity, and (3) perhaps greatest of all, his responsibility as a citizen to aid in bettering conditions which could not exist, had he been doing his duty.

Now he is ready for action, action which has been preceded by interest and thought. He is asking not that the farmer be the only man considered but that in the councils of the nation representation and legislation proportionate to his importance be accorded him. He wants to help to make of this country a real democracy. "Government of the people, for the people, by the people." He wants equal educational advantage for rural and urban children, not necessarily similar education, but training suitable to the environment of each. He wants that public servants be appointed because certain work needs to be done and this and that one is fitted to do it.

In other words, efficiency is to be the key to any public service. He wants election accounts to be published so that this ballot market which, with or without reason, everyone believes to be established in this country of ours, may be abolished.

He wants workable legislation along these and many other points. Have you any objections to these aims? If so, let us have them. Our emblem is well-known, the producer and the consumer clasping hands. Our motto is "Equal rights for all, special privileges to none." Do you know a better one?

But the goal to which these points can be reached only by our President's steps—three—organization, education, legislation.

U.F.O.—U.F.W.O.

LEGISLATION is the third means by which our ends are to be obtained. Organization comes first as an active force; its main purpose is education. This education is to express itself in legislation.

There is no possibility of escaping the fact that Canada is an agricultural country essentially. Her great extent of fertile land and her geographical position make this probably, and government statistics show that, directly or indirectly, 80 per cent. of the wealth of the country comes from its farms.

Therefore it is no idle boast, but the mere statement of an acknowledged fact, though by no means an advertised fact, to say that the farmer is the most important citizen of Canada to-day. The low estimate which he has placed upon himself both as an individual and as a national factor has not only been detrimental to himself, but to the whole nation, of whose industrial structure his industry is the foundation.

Paradoxical, yet literally true, his is and has always been the most important and the least influential class in the country, producing four-fifths of the wealth of the country, possessing the most valuable asset of the country, the land, yet almost without representation in either the Provincial or Federal House, and with his viewpoint unconsidered, unknown and, in the main, unthought of. Now none but himself is to blame for this state of affairs, and of that much the farmer of to-day is aware.

Truth to tell the vast majority of farmers had no national viewpoint. They regarded themselves as individuals and their farms as personal property and did no real thinking along national lines. Mr. Brown and Mr. Smith, the farmers, living side by side with interests exactly identical, walked up to the polls and persistently nullified each other's national influence, for were not the Browns since the days of the beg since the days of the beginnings of things Tories and the Smiths Grits? Neither even stopped to ask why the Smiths and Browns of long ago allied themselves to these particular parties.

But Mr. Jones and Mr. White, both manufacturers, long since learned that whether their ancestors were Grit or Tory when these two giants came to take up their abode, was of no vital importance to them. Where their interests were identical their votes were either "yes" or "no," knew that twice one is two, and put that knowledge into practice. The only arithmetical operation the farmer knew was subtraction, 1-1=0. And, therefore, he is, so far as influence goes, just what he has tried to be—nothing.

When he awakened he looked about him and got a glimpse of two things, or perhaps three, his real position, with its two contradictory elements, national importance; national nonentity. (2) The reason for these, his own neglect, not to say stupidity, and (3) perhaps greatest of all, his responsibility as a citizen to aid in bettering conditions which could not exist, had he been doing his duty.

Now he is ready for action, action which has been preceded by interest and thought. He is asking not that the farmer be the only man considered but that in the councils of the nation representation and legislation proportionate to his importance be accorded him. He wants to help to make of this country a real democracy. "Government of the people, for the people, by the people." He wants equal educational advantage for rural and urban children, not necessarily similar education, but training suitable to the environment of each. He wants that public servants be appointed because certain work needs to be done and this and that one is fitted to do it.
