Troops Charge Mobs and Fire Into Them.

Roughs Smash Windows. Loot Stores.

Boston Despatch -State Guardsmen opened fire with a machine gun on a mob in South Boston late to-night, killing one and wounding several others. The riot was proceeding at last reports.

Boston despatch: Rioting in and near Scollag Square, in which an unidentified man was killed, a woman shot in the arm, and a police officer beaten into unconsciousness, was the most serious occurrence of the early part of Boston's first night under protection of the State Guard. All day ong the square, which is near police headquarters, and which is famous as the home of numerous cheap entertainment places, had been crowded. This was one of the places where hoodlums, freed from restraint by the police strike, gathered last night and smashed windows and looted stores. When the first of the State Guard forces went on duty to-night a danger point. The mob steadily increased in size, and attacked a police officer. Before the cavalry could rescue him and scatter the crowd the officer had been hurled to the ground and was senseless. At the same time shots rang out, and the troopers found a man lying dead and a woman wound-ed. The cavair, called for reinforcements as the mob surged back, and 200 infantrymen were harried to the square. In an earlier attempt to clear the crowd from Scollay Square, Pte. Carl Mead, of the 1st Troop, State Cavairy, was knocked from his horse. unconscious, by a bottle.

Guardsmen stopped dice games on Avery street, near the theatrical district. Two thousand gamesters and lookers-on fled as the soldiers charged the length of the street.

Metropolitan Park policemen who had been doing duty were suspended when they refused to continue the work to night. They immediately marched to the policemen's union headquarters and joined the union. Governor Coolidge early to-night ordered the 14th and 20th Regiments of the State Guard to join the four regiments of Guardsmen previously called out to police the city.

ONLY ANIMAL BONES

Found in Coffin of a House Fire Victim.

Montreal despatch: Burnt and charred bones of a dog or some other animal were discovered yesterday in the coffin of J. Dubeau, a farmer of St. Malachie, near Ormstown, who was burnt to death when his house was destroyed by fire on July 11.

Coroner Trepannier had been ordered by the Attorney General to reopen the inquest and the body was exhumed. On opening the coffin it was found that there were bones which seemed to be those of animals as we!! as those of a human being. These were at once sent to Montreal, where Dr. Drome, the coroner's court medical expert here, decided that all were the bones of animals. Immediately Chief Lorrain and his men set to work to try and discover the body of the victim.

Debeau is supposed to have renained alone in his house on the night of July 11 after a quarrel with his wife and a man friend. The two atter went to another house, where Mrs. Dubeau slept, and the Friend watched

More Fall plowing and after-harvest cultivation has been done than for some years past.

A large area of Fall wheat has been sown already, and all indications point to an increased acreage of the crop. Huron reports that some of the new wheat is already covering the ground nicely. Considerable Winter rye is also being put in.

Threshing is general. Oats are said to be turning out better relatively than either Spring wheat or barley. Buckwheat has been revived by the late Summer rains that a fair yield is now looked for; but, as with all Spring grains, the straw is short. Millet and rape are also looking well. The condition of late potato fields has been much improved since the middle of August, after being held back by the drought. Sugar beets and mangels have also picked up well, but turnips generally are not satisfactory, many yields being effected by actory, many yields being effected by Ice.

Clover and alfalfa fields have been KILLED WOMAN greatly revived by recent showers. some farmers in Durham have threshed as high as 15 bushels of alsike seed to the acre, for which they received $23 a bushel. Peel reports sweet clover as also yielding 15 bushels to the acre. Corn has improved greatly with the rains, and is now regarded as a fair crop for both the bin and the silo.

Washington Despatch - Characterized as an alliance, and not a league, "which will breed wars instead of securing peace," the German mace treaty, including the covenant for a League of Nations, was formally re-Foreign Relations Committee, with forty-five amendments and four reservations.

Accompanying the treaty was the majority report of the Foreign Relations Committee, subscribedt to by every Republican member except Senator McCumber, of North Dakota, explaining the amendments and reservations, all of which, it was declared were "governed by a single purpose, and that is to guard American rights and sovereignty, the invasion of which would stimulate breaches of faith, encourage conflicts and generate wars."

The reservations propose: (1) The unconditional right to withdraw from the league. (2) Declination to assume any o the obligations of the much discussed article 10, "except by action of the Congress of the United States." (3) Reserving to the United States the exclusive right to decide what questions are within its own domestic jurisdiction. (4) Absolute reservation of the Monroe Doctrine as to the judgment of the United States alone. The principal amendments are proposed to provide: Equal voting power for the United States with - Freat Britain in the assembly of the League.

Giving to China instead of Japan the Prevince of Shantung. Relief of the United States from having representatives on commiscions deciding matters in which it has no concern.

Others concern phraseology. These amendments and reserva tions, the majority report says, are submitted "to preserve American independence and American sovereignty. and thereby best serve the welfare of mankind.

The other nations will take it upon our own terms, for without us their league is a wreck, and all their gains from a victorious peace are imperilled."

That the adoption of amendments erting that the conference wil probably be in session for six months more in Paris, and might as well be "at least as usefully employed" as "they are now in dividing and sharing southeastern Europe and Asia Minor." German delegates, the report contends, could easily be brought to Paris, and as Germany is not a member of the League, she need not be consulted about changes of the con-

St. Germain, Sont. .... (By the Associated Press)...Dr. Karl Renner, head of the Austrian delegation to the Peace Conference, signed the treaty of peace between the Allied and associated powers and the Austrian Republic at 10.15 o'clock this morning. When all the delegates present had seated themselves at the round table, Dr. Renner was introduced, with the same formality that was observed, when the Germans entered the Hall of Mirrors at Versailles on June 28th. Georges Clemenceau, President of the Peace Conference, then rose and opened the session, asking Dr. Renner to affix his signature to the treaty and annexes, and announcing that the delegates would then be called in the order in which they were Fears that other nations may not named in the preamble on the document.

The Australian Republic, representatives of which signed the treaty to-day, is very different from the proud Austro-Hungarian Empire of 1914. The former provinces of Bohemia and Moravia and a part of the Duchy of Teschen now form the Republic of Czecho-Slovakia. The remainder of Teschen and most of Galicia have been incorporated into Poland. The new Ukrainian Republic takes certain sections in eastern Galicia, and the former Austrian crown lard of Bukowina. Hungary has separated from Austria along the historic boundary between those por tions of the former empire, but has herself lost parts of the province of Transylvania, which has been awarded to Roumania. On the south the provinces of Car-Kalamazoo, Mich., Report.—After being inthia, Daimatia, Carniola, Croatia and Slovania, Bosnia and Herzegovina, as well as parts of Styria, are formed, in conjunction with Serbia, into the new Jugo-Slav kingdom. Parts of Tyrol are taken over by Italy, the bounas to include most of the Istrian peninsula and a strip along the western frontier of the province of Carinthia. All, therefore, that remains of the former empire, is what is known as German-Austria, including upper and lower Apstria, and parts of Styria and of Tyrol. Since the close of hostilities there has been a movement afoot by which Australia would be annexed by Germany. By one of the most important clauses of the treaty signed to-day, this is forbidden.

The treaty does not stipulate an exact sum to be paid in indemnities. but this amount will be fixed by the Reparations Commission on or before May 1, 1921, the commission also betails of the payments, which will extend over a period of thirty years. This sum must be paid by the Austrian Republic, and is not to be anportioned among the component parts of the country which have been declared independent.

In addition to paying indemnities. Austria must also replace, ton for ton, all ships lost by the Allies through the activities of the Austrian navy during the war, and physically restore invaded areas. She is also to deliver up to Allied countries works of art and objects of historic value which were carried away by the Austrians

The economic clauses and those relative to freedom of transit are similar to those of the German pact. Questions relative to the disposition of the city of Fiume are not settled in the Austrian treaty, but Austria renounces in favor of the Allied and associated powers all her rights and titles over territories formerly belonging to her which, though outside the new frontiers of Austria, have not at present been assigned to any state. She undertakes to accept any settlement made in regard to those territories.
