SINN FEINERS ARE RELEASED AND STRIKE ENDS

Irish Labor Men Claim a Great Victory Over the Government.

DUE TO MACREADY

Troops Fire Over Londonderry Crowd—Revenue Office Fired.

Dublin cable says: There is much speculation regarding the motive of the Government a sudden change of policy toward the Sinn Fein hunger-strikers two hours after Mr. Bonar Law's uncompromising speech in the House of Commons.

Public rumor attributes the decision to the influence of General Macready, who has just taken up his duties as Commander-in-Chief of the force in

He is said to have great hopes of making military rule in Ireland both more efficient and more tolerable than heretofore, and he did not want to start with deaths and inquests in Oublin cable: Sixty-eight hunger-striking prisoners have been released, apparently unconditionally, and as a result tue strike is considered off.

The Lord Mayor, who went to see Lord French at the Vice-Regal Lodge when a hitch arose at Dublin Castle through a stipulation that the prisoners must return to their captivity on their recovery, stated on his return that the prisoners would be released unconditionally.

The prisoners had refused to accept the stipulation, on the ground that it was a reapplication of the "cat-and-mouse" policy.

The release of the prisoners, announced at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. is regarded as a complete triumph for the hunger-strike and its ally, the general strike. It became known early that Viscount French had summoned the Lord Mayor, and that it was then only a question of terms.

It is not definitely known what the terms are, and for some days there may be contradictory statements regarding them. The trade unionists, however, had no doubt which side had won, and immediately called off the strike, to the great relief of the citi

Earlier it was officially announced that it was not intended to release all the hunger-strikers in Mount Joy Prison unconditionally, but that an order has been issued that those requiring medical treatment outside the prison will be released on parole for periods to be specified in the case of each individual by the prison doctor. After only four of the prisoners had been removed from Mount Joy Prison the Government intervened with the conditions pertaining to the reincarceration of the hunger-strikers after hospital treatment. The prisoners refused the new terms. When a danger arose that there would be a refusal of further departure from the prison by the hunger-strikers, the Lord Mayor again at which it was said to have been visited the Vice-Regal Lodge, with a view to having the order rescinded. The Prisons Board also received an ordered that henceforth, under the Defence of the Realm ...ct, prisoners should receive ameliorative treatment from the date of their arrest until their trial for a specific offence.

The visit to Dublin of James Henry Thomas, General ecretary of the National Union of Railwaymen and Labor member of Parliament for Derby, Ruhr region and Frankfort and its is regarded as having had some share in the decision for the release of the men. It is said that an attempt was to have been made to bring about a strike in England, in spite of the Irish to the best advantage. The statement case. They were indignant at two proposals made to them by the authorities which implied that certain of the men should desert their colleagues. Their attitude was, "all or none."

The str ke was in ful! force to-day. If funerals were in progress, hearses and the chief mourners were allowed to proceed; all other vehicles in funeral corteges were turned back. An indication of the universal sentiment regarding the prisoners, apart from political bias, is shown by an appeal from Chief Rabbi Herzog to the Vicefor clemenry for "the unfortunate members of the Reichewear, who got Dublin cable: The general strike the House of Commons, in which he the treatment of the Irish hunger strikers in Mountjoy Prison continued to-day with added tenseness, and increased fears of serious developments. Another development was the arrival in Dublin of General Sir Nevil MacCready, the new commander of the forces in Ireland, who is expected to assume his duties at once.

The general expectation here with regard to the hunger strikers, based upon last night's debate in the House of Commons in London, is that the Government, although refriging to release the political prisoners, will make strike.
