SWAT THE SCRUB BULL

Big Campaign On for Improved Type of Cattle.

The Scrub Bull a Menace to the Cattle Industry—Like Begets Like—Use Pure-bred Bulls With Proven Propensity.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

THE great subject of conversation among the rural people to-day is the present scrub bull campaign. Already, meetings are being held in a great many of the counties in connection with it and at every agricultural meeting of any importance at all, the scrub bull is being "cussed" and discussed with a vim and vengeance that people have seldom put into other branches of their work. It seems as if the veil of mystery has suddenly lifted and people have been enabled to see distinctly the vast importance that a pure-bred sire of good individuality and breeding has on the stock of the country.

It is also true that a great many are taking exception to the campaign, and they raise some objections which they think are perfectly legitimate, but which do not hold water when analyzed by the practical man, who has made a success of live stock by the use of a pure-bred sire of good breeding. Some farmers are saying that the Government has no right to try to make them discard their scrub bulls and use a pure-bred of good quality. The Government is not, in any way, trying to force anybody to dispose of his herd sire for a better one; everybody has a right to use any kind of an animal that he wants to and it is nobody's affair but his own. But what they are doing is to make plain to the owners of grade and scrub pure-bred sires the value of a bull that has a reasonable amount of individualism and breeding behind him, and then leave the whole question to be turned over and threshed out in the farmer's own mind.

Although the present campaign in Ontario is a new idea in this province, such work has been going on for some time in different parts of the United States, particularly in Wisconsin, which is one of the banner states of this country. In that state they are going about it in a little different manner than is being adopted in Ontario. Instead of the state Government doing the greater part of it, the different breed associations are the "men behind the gun." They got the school children interested in taking what they are doing in the different counties. After this was finished, meetings were held in different parts of the county and discussions on the value of good bulls were held. In order to give the campaign a starting impetus the different breed associations had donated pure-bred sires to a common cause. These pure-bred sires were given to a farmer in exchange for his scrub pure-bred or grade sire, which was in turn sold for beef and the money received, used to carry on the campaign to a greater extent. In this way there was no money changed between the farmer receiving the good pure-bred and campaign authorities; the farmer thereby getting a good bull for the price of beef, and a surety of reaping some benefit from the influence on his herd. The campaign was carried on very energetically and with remarkably excellent results. Other counties and states have adopted their general methods and are carrying on campaigns in different localities with good results, and it is safe to say that if the rural people of this province are going about it in a little different manner than is being adopted in Ontario should be a huge success.

In dealing with the scrub bull or grade sire there are one or two principles in breeding that are easily understood, and should be comprehended by all owners of bulls. The old saying that "like begets like" goes to a certain extent, but in using a grand sire one is always sure of what one is going to get in the offspring because, in the use of an animal with several infusions of blood, there is always a breaking up and segregation of characters which does not get anybody any place in the development of their herd. Whereas, in the use of the pure-bred of good quality there is always a chance of any resulting service being better than the parents. Pure-bred sires of good breeding are endowed with a character or power called propensity, which means that an animal has the power to stamp on his offspring some desirable characteristic more than some other. When we consider that the grade sire is likely to throw anything in the way of calves, and the scrub pure-bred has no propensity, there is a reason that this class of animal should be discarded as soon as circumstances will permit and good ones substituted.—J. C. McBeath, O. A. College, Guelph.

Conquering Quack Grass.
Clean cultivation is the most practical method. The only successful way is to give the cultivation when needed no matter what the other work may be. Such a plan, however, makes it necessary to limit the eradication operations to such a sized field as can be handled with the other farm work. Ploughing quack grass infested land which has been to clover this year as soon as the first crop is removed and keeping it absolutely free from all green plants from then on to freezing-up time, continuing this in the spring until planting time, and then plant to corn or potatoes and keeping the crop clean, usually deals the weeds a knock-out blow without losing a crop. The plow or disk and spring-tooth harrow are the only implements needed to do efficient work.

Hospital for Sick Children
COLLEGE ST., TORONTO.

Great Provincial Charity Makes Christmas Appeal to Friends of Childhood.

Dear Mr. Editor:
The most vital fact in public health service throughout the province is, as you know, the tremendous strides made in child welfare work. Modern science is harking back to the ancient proverb that "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." It has been the privilege of the Hospital for Sick Children—the greatest institution of its kind upon the continent—to find that ounce of prevention.

In bygone days dependence was put more largely in medicines. Nowadays there is a closer partnership between the pediatrician and Dame Nature. Since the erection of our Baby's Ward and the establishment of well babies' clinics the infant mortality in Toronto alone has been reduced from 155 to 32 per thousand. Further statistics which might be given would merely corroborate the actual life-saving value of the Hospital's work. And it is unnecessary to explain to you that the information as to the researches which make such a record possible is at once communicated to the Health Officers and practicing physicians throughout Ontario.

Consequently the Hospital has stately a claim upon the Christmas-time generosity of every friend of little children. An institution which is securing the newborn child good health, but of life itself, is entitled to the abundant support of the public. During the past financial year, revenue from all sources fell one hundred dollars a day behind necessary expenditures. It has always been the ambition of the Hospital for Sick Children to gain not only the support but the sympathy of the people of Toronto, and so to-day, with a debt exceeding $150,000, it appeals to your readers to help along with some gift, whether it be great or small. A contribution of $2,000 from an individual or a society gives the privilege of naming a cot for all time; a donation of 25 cents will run the whole Hospital for half a minute. Between these two amounts there is surely some sum which can be sent by everybody to the secretary-treasurer at 69 College Street, Toronto, as a token of interest in a charity whose field is as large as this province. The Hospital for Sick Children is one of the largest and most highly regarded in the world. It is an institution in which the people of Ontario may take legitimate pride, for it is through their generosity that success has been possible.

Two hundred and fifty children, pale of cheek or with twisted limbs, will be the immediate beneficiaries of the Yuletide remembrances of your readers. Thousands more throughout the coming year will benefit by their kindness.
IRVING E. ROBERTSON,
Chairman of Appeal Committee.
