Services I Remember

A Memorial Service at St. Paul's To the Canadian Troops.

(By Rev. G. Wreford.)

It was a dull cold evening a few years since and the London streets were glistening with moisture, but heavy rain did not prevent the great Cathedral being crowded to its utmost limits. Beneath the dome were seats reserved for Ministers of State, Ambassadors, Officers of the Army and Navy of the highest rank, nursing sisters in their scarlet and grey. And there too were black garbed figures, mourners of those brave hearts, to honour whose memory that vast concourse had come together. Look where you might around the great Cathedral nowhere was a vacant seat, long before the solemn service commenced.

The actual service was simple in the extreme, consisting of hymns, a lesson, a few prayers, a brief sermon from the Bishop of London and the benediction. The music was supplied by the massed bands of the Guards Brigade, perhaps the most marvellous aggregation of musical talent in all the world, together with the great organ whose vibrant tones pulsed down the aisles, at times almost like the sobs of a broken heart. It was a service none will ever forget. The nation was then passing through the darkest days of the late war. Scarcely a family represented in the great assembly but had recently lost a dear one, certainly not one family from which no relative had gone forth to do battle with the Hun. And the clear metallic notes of the brass instruments and the rolling of the drums all seemed to bring us closer to the blare and thunder of the battlefield.

Few could hear in that vast building the words of the Bishop's sermon. They were a glad appreciation of those whose loss we mourned that day. He spoke as one who had been for a while at any rate a comrade of those who fought on Flanders fields. Scarcely had he concluded and the Benediction had been pronounced when a sound was heard like the patter of hail on the roof, a sound which as it grew in volume into one deafening roll that filled the great Cathedral we knew to be the Funeral March.

Few had ever heard the Dead March in Saul as it was played that day. The wailing of the reeds, the skirling of the pipes of the Coldstreams mingling with the thunder of the drums seemed to many present as the echoes of those battlefields across the sea. But the climax came when with the sudden change of key, from the minor to the major, the great building seemed almost to rock with the triumphant strains that spoke more eloquently than words of life after death, of victory after defeat, of joy in the midst of pain, of the grief of parting lost in the thought of glad reunion.

As men listened that day their faces seemed transfused with a strange and wonderful light gleaming in many an eye. And men and women too stood more erect with faces quivering, but with shoulders squared as though they too were on parade and were determined to do their part.

Again the thunder of the drums dying away into silence and then one heard from over the west doors a bugle call. Clear as a silver bell its sweet notes floated down the aisles across the transepts, up to the gilded galleries beneath the dome. It was the Last Post, the requiem of every true soldier. We listened spellbound till its last notes died away into silence, and then with never a word spoken, as mourners leaving a sacred spot, we turned away and passed out into the crowded streets.

Sundad School Convention

The 30th Annual Convention of the Jarvis and South Walpole district, held in the Jarvis Methodist Church on Friday May 28th, was most successful one.

The president, Mr. J. C. Hare, presided. Rev. W. P. Fletcher, of Toronto, was present, representing the Ontario Sunday School Association, or as it is now called, the Ontario Council of Religious Education. Rev. Mr. Fletcher presided at the Round Table Conference and spoke on several phases of Sunday School work. Rev. Mr. Brand, of Mantonico, spoke on "Stewardship," and Rev. J. N. Westlauffer of Selkirk on "Superlatives."

The following were elected officers for the coming year: Mr. J. B. McKenzie, President; Mr. D. W. Hilborn, Vice-President; Mrs. W. H. Evans, Secy-Treas.; Mrs. A. Lamb, Supt. Elementary Dept.; Mr. E. S. Pond, Supt. Boys' Dept.; Miss Eva Thompson, Supt. Girls' Dept.; Mr. J. C. Hare, Supt. A. B. C.; Mrs. D. F. Kendry, Home Dept.; Rev. H. L. Smith, Teacher Training Dept.; Rev. R. F. Mercer, Temperance Dept.; Mr. A. C. Awde, Missionary Dept.

The very best way for the average citizen to go about bringing down the cost of living as far as his table is concerned, is to see that every square foot of that back garden is growing something for the family to eat.

Tragedy at Dunnville

Circus Treasurer Slain by an Employee

A deliberate murder was committed at Dunnville last Wednesday night, when Louis P. Philman, St. Louis, Assistant Manager of Howe's circus, was shot by Joseph Aperta, an employee of one of the booths attached to the circus, and died a few hours later.

The circus was at Dunnville, and Aperta got into some dispute with the manager as to division of receipts. When the big rush of ticket selling was over for the evening's performance, Aperta went to Philman in the ticket wagon and demanded his money. Philman refused, whereupon, Aperta pulled a gun and shot him twice, one bullet lodging over the heart. This happened in the presence of hundreds of people, but no effort was made to secure the gunman, who disappeared among the tents.

His assailant was found by two employees of the circus at an early hour Thursday morning. Ordered to hold up his hands, he reached for his revolver. One of the showmen shot him twice, once in the leg and once in the side. He is now in the hospital under guard, but may recover.

Aperta, who hails from Dayton, Ohio, recently joined the circus. He operated a "hot dog" stand and was known among the show fraternity as "Bologna Joe."

There is always the danger of a rupture of a Blood Vessel and as the Heart, the Blood Vessels and the Kidneys are all associated with High Blood Pressure the best and most satisfactory treatment is Hacking's Heart and Nerve Remedy and Hacking's Kidney and Liver Pills.

This treatment will reduce the Blood Pressure by removing the cause and driving out the Poisons from the system. We are firmly convinced that this treatment will reduce the blood pressure below the danger mark and thus free your mind from the constant worry of death.

People who have been ailing for years should not expect a complete cure in a few days, one should take at least six boxes of Hacking's Heart and Nerve Remedy and three boxes of the Kidney and Liver Pills. Be sure to get Hacking's. If your dealer does not have them, he will be glad to get them for you.

Mrs. Walker, formerly of Port Elgin, now living in Flint, Michigan, says: "The neighbors are perfectly astonished to see me getting along so well. I contribute my good health to the persistent use of Hacking's Heart and Nerve Remedy and gladly recommend it to all my friends."
