DEDICATED BOY AND CIRL IN CANADA

My Dear Boys and Girls:-

Old London is full of so many interesting places ,I could fill my letters to you with accounts of the things to be seen. Some of you have, I know, visited many of the places. Ten, at least of our members were actually born in London, but there are some historic places which even Londoners who were born there and still live there do not know of, just as many people living in Canada do not know all about their own country.

One such place is an old tea house in the Strand.

Over 300 years ago, in the reign of Queen Anne, tea was a very expensive luxury, chiefly because it was not widely used. It cost as much as five and seven dollars a pound.

Queen Anne was very fond of tea herself, and she wished to make it more popular among her subjects, so that in her reign "tes houses" became popular, places where people first met for the pleasure of drinking tea together

Richard Twining, who is the direct descendant of an Abbott who lived in the time of the War of the Roses, was One of the first proprietors of a tea house to be honored by Queen Anne. in 1711 she made him her purveyor of tea, and his tea house was known by the sign of a golden Hon and called "Ye Signe of Ye Golden Lyon" in the Strand. Tea and coffee houses soon after this beame very popular. A third Richard Twining who still carried on the business was born after the battle of Trafalgar, and lived to the age of 99 years, through the reign of four sovereigns.

Theodore Hook, a famous humorist who lived in the 18th century, once wrote a comical verse about this fambus old tea house: "It seems in some places kind nature has planned. That names with their callings agree. For Twining the tea-man that lives in the Strand Would be wining deprived of his "T."

WINDMILLS.

Have you ever seen a windmill? In the country districts of England there are still old mills to be seen with the big white sails flapping in the wind. Not alf are in use, but there are still places where the miller grinds his corn in this old fashioned way. The poet, Longreilow, wrote a poem about the windmill:-

THE WINDMILL Behold !a giant am I, Aloft here in my tower, with my granite jaws I devour, The maize the wheat and the rye, look down over the farms. in the fields of grain I see. The harvest that is to be, And I fling aloft my arms For I know it is all for me.

And grind them into flour.

stand here in my place. With my foot on the rock below. And whichever way it may blow, I meet it face to face. As a brave man meets his foe.

And while we wrestle and strive, My master the miller stands, And feeds me with his hands, For he knows who makes his thrive, who makes him lord of lands.

On Sundays I take my rest. Church going bells begin, Their low, melodious din. cross my arms on my breast. and all is peace within. OUR MAIL BAG.

After the oil has acted, the stomach will be better able to retain the food. If the action of the oil is not satisfactory, give an enema of salt to one pint of boiled water, slightly warm. Use a soft rubber catheter on the end of a Tountain syringe tube, so that a high injection may be given.

After 12 hours' fast, if the stomach seems to be able to retain food, try one or two ounces of clear mutton broth; then, thin gruel made from barley, rice or wheat; or some chicken broth with thin dry toast; then a well-cooked cereal, and gradually work back to the regular diet.

Milk will sour on the stomach and should be diluted with water or gruel. It is best not to try milk for two or three days. The general rule for diarrhoea or vomiting is, stop all milk at once. Tepid sponge baths with a little soda or alcohol in the water are good to control the fever. These may be given frequently and the aching head kept cool with cold cloths. •••••

Headaches and backaches, loss of appetite, poor digestion, nervousness, pimples and unsightly blotches on the skin, all indicate that the blood has become impure—that it is not doing its appointed work. If this condition is not remedied it will grow worse and worse and a complete berasdown will eventually occur. To bring about a health ycondition of the blood no medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Their one mission is to make new, rich blood, which reaches every part of the body, bringing with it new health and increasing vitality. Thousands have testified to the benefit they have found in the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills when run down in health. Among these is Mrs. Bertha Kendall, Darling avenue, Toronto, who says: "In the summer of 1918 I was in poor health. My appetite was variable, and I was weak and unfit for work, and I suffered a great deal from nervous headache and palpitation of the heart. A lady friend recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which I used with splendid results, as by the time I had taken six boxes I felt like a new woman. I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are worth their weight in gold to every nercous, sick woman, as they cure quickly and save

Facts About Canada

In the closing days of May, 1615, a ship arrived at Quebec from Honfieur. France, bearing from members of the Recollet Order who had been set aside for missionary work in the new world. They were Denis Lemay, Jean Dolbeau, Joseph Le Caron and the lay brother Pacifique du Plessis. "They packed their church ornaments and we our baggage," wrote Champlain of this trip.

Greater was the wonder of the Indians when the priests landed at the foot of the rock at Quebec. Their garb consisted of a rude garment of coarse, grey cloth, girt at the waist with the knotted cord of the Order and completed with a peaked hood to be drawn over the head. Their naked feet were shod with wooden sandals more than one inch in thickness.

Their first work was to choose site for their convent; this they erected near the fortified dwellings and the houses that Champlain had erected. This done they made an altar and celebrated the first mass ever celebrated in Canada. Dolbeau was the officiating priest while all New France knelt on the bare ground around him while the cannon from the ships and the fort boomed in honor of the event. Then, in imitation of the Apostolic order, they took counsel together and assigned each his province in the vast field of missionary activity they had come to initiate. Le Curon took the Hurons; Dolbeau the Montegnain, while for the time Lemay and du Plessis were to remain in Quebec. Dolbeau followed the Indians of the Tadousac region in their wanderings and lived in their desolate wigwams until he was worn out and almost blinded by the smoke of the wretched homes. He was forced to return to Quebec to regain his health but the next year, undaunted by his past experiences, he went with them even to the borders of the Esquimaux lands. But the hardships of the trip were forgotten in the belief that he was performing a work of vast importance for the Indians and the new world. His experlences were duplicated by those of the other priests who considered nothing too severe if it would advance the interests of the church and the Indians in New France.

England has always been famed for her roses, but the adoption of the rose as the national symbol does not seem to have taken place till Edward IV. introduced it on his seal. The lily of France has been traced to very early times, but probably owes its adoption to the Franks at the battle of Tolbiac, who crowned themselves with lilies after the battle.

It Eases Pain.6 Ask any druggist or dealer in medicines what is the most popular of the medicinal oils for pains in the joints, in the muscles or nerves, or for neuralgia and rheumatism. and he will tell you that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is in greater demand than any other. The reason for this is that it possesses greater healing qualities than any other oil.
