The Cell that Rings the Bell

To ring the bell to dinner—to call someone to the phone—for every kind of signal, use COLUMBIA. They're the cells that ring the bells of wireless and run engines, autos, phones, transmitters, make lanterns blaze; set off alarms. The world over, "Columbia" is the other name for RELIABILITY.

D. Secord and family Sunday (week ago) with his brother in Hamilton

Jas. Kniffon was taken with another stroke a few days ago and at time of writing he is very, very low.

Those who spent Thanksgiving eventing with Mr. and Mrs. D. Secord at Prospect Farm were Mr. and Mrs. George Highwood of Glencoe, Mr. and Mrs.
Wm. Griffey and children of Jarvis and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Acomb and son Russell of Simcoe.

A very enjoyable time was spent at the social evening at Mount Zion by the young people last Friday evening.

Miss Eva Secord spent a few days last week with her aunt in Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Slocumb and girls, Mr. and Mrs. D. Secord, son and daughter, Walter and Eva, were guests at a silver wedding held in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Merrett Walker at their home in Port Dover last Saturday afternoon and evening.

Councillor Secord and two sons were guests of their uncle, Mr. Stanley Gilbert, and cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Marshall of Ambrose, Walsingham, on Sunday last.

Walter Stitt returned home Wednesday morning from the West.

A wedding was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Burch on Saturday last when their daughter, Marion, was united in marriage to Mr. Cecil Woodruff of Welland.

Flew Through Window

On Monday, 11th inst., a most unique occurrence happened at the Welsh public school. While the dominie was instructing a class in one of the many subjects of the present day curriculum, and the remainder of the pupils were cogitating over lessons assigned, a window pane was suddenly smashed into more pieces than there are subjects in said curriculum. Evidently the pane had been struck from the outside, for the piece of glass lodged on the floor, on the desks, and some small pieces in nearby pupils' hair. It appeared that no one saw the swiftly moving object that demolished the pane; but when an investigation was made a plump partridge was found on the floor close to the wall, immediately under the window. The bird was so stunned that it was unable to fly, but later it recovered the use of its wings. Apparently the only wound it sustained was a cut on the throat.
After the first excitement was over two girls testified that they had seen it coming, but thought it was a stone. One marvel is that while the scholars were frightened by the noise of the breaking glass, apparently no one knew the next instant that the bird had entered the schoolroom.—Reformer.
