

STOMACH TROUBLE DUE TO THIN BLOOD

It Usually Disappears When the Blood is Made Rich and Red.

Thin blood is one of the most common causes of stomach trouble. It affects the digestion very quickly. The glands that furnish the digestive fluids are diminished in their activity, the stomach muscles are weakened and there is a loss of nerve force. In this state of health nothing will more quickly restore the appetite, digestion and normal nutrition than good, rich, red blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood, making it rich and red, and this enriched blood strengthens weak nerves, stimulates tired muscles, and awakens to normal action the glands that supply the digestive fluids. This is shown by an improved appetite and soon the effect of these blood-enriching pills is evident throughout the whole system. You find that what you eat does not distress you, and that you are vigorous instead of irritable and listless. If your appetite is tickle, if you have any of the distressing pains and symptoms of indigestion, you should at once take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and profit by the better condition in which they will put your blood.

These pills are sold by all dealers in medicine, or you can get them by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Foolish Man.

There was a man in our town,
And he would never learn;
He went upon a fishing trip
And let his camp-fire burn.

Oh, swiftly spread that forest fire
And many homes it burned,
And from that little fishing trip
That man has never returned.

The Bowl and the Necklace.

In a certain Balkan state that I will refrain from naming, says Lord Frederic Hamilton in his book, Days Before Yesterday, the inhabitants are confirmed souvenir hunters.

During a dinner party at the British legation in that nameless state one of the ladies was wearing a fine necklace of pearls, which a native of the state admired immensely and begged for permission to examine. The diplomat's wife very unwisely unfastened the necklace, and amid loud expressions of admiration at its beautiful workmanship they passed it round from hand to hand.

At the end of the dinner the lady asked for her necklace, but no one knew anything about it. The British minister, who thought that he understood the people of the country, rose to the occasion. With a smile, he said, "We have just witnessed a very clever and very amusing piece of legerdemain. Now we are going to see another piece of conjuring."

He walked quietly to the doors of the room, locked them and put the keys into his pocket. Then, placing a small silver bowl from the sideboard in the centre of the dinner table, he continued, "I am now going to switch off all the lights and count ten slowly. Then I shall turn on the lights again, and, hey, presto! Madame de—'s necklace will be found lying in that silver bowl!"

The room was plunged in darkness, and the minister counted slowly up to ten. The electric lights blazed on again. There was no necklace, but the silver bowl had vanished!

Surnames and Their Origin

METCALF

Variation—Metcalfe.
Racial Origin—Welsh.
Source—A locality.

There is a tradition regarding the origin of this family name of the sort that is often met with an attempt to explain it by a fanciful story woven around the apparent elements of which the name is supposed to be compounded.

This tradition has it that a certain strong man, having had an encounter with a bull, in which he finally conquered, explained laconically that he had "met a calf."

Actually the family name of Metcalf is one of those which have been adopted as indicative of the localities in which the first bearers of the surnames lived. And its origin is traced to Wales.

The original Metcalfs were dwellers in or near a spot called anciently "the valley of the church" in the Cymric tongue.

In the Welsh the word "mredd" indicates a valley, more specifically a little vale, and "calf" means variously a cell, channel or little church. If the ancient form had been adhered to in the development of the name, rather than an unconscious approximation of English words in the Anglicized form, the name to-day might more properly be spelled "Medcalf."

But though of Welsh origin, it is more than likely that the name's principal development was in England. Certainly it would never have been used by a person still living in the locality of that name, unless he were the owner or overlord of the section.

MANSFIELD

Variations—Mansell, Manser.
Racial Origin—Anglo-Saxon.
Source—A place name, also an occupation.

The family name of Mansfield comes from the town in Nottinghamshire, England, of the same name. Its first use as a surname, of course, was to designate the place from which the individual had come, and later, from which his ancestors had come.

The name of the town is ancient, dating back to Anglo-Saxon days. "Manrian" in the tongue of the Anglo-Saxons meant to trade or traffic, and this has given us the first syllable of the place name. "Field," of course, is synonymous with the modern word. But in the olden times it also had a special, restricted meaning, indicating a place of trade, a fairground. And this was, in the ancient days, a trading centre.

Derivatives of this Saxon word "manrian" appear to be among those which survived the tidal wave of French which the Normans spread over England, for in the period following, when many of the old Saxon words came to the surface again, there are found the words "manser," "mansell," and "manicle," indicating tradesmen specially skilled in buying rather than selling. They were, in short, the "purchasing agents" of those days, in the service of big institutions and large households of the more important nobility. And from these words denoting occupations have come the family names of Mansell and Manser.

High Climbing.

Speaking of the Mount Everest expedition, Sir Francis Younghusband says: "At great heights men get very nervous and irritable. At 16,000 feet they begin to lose patience with one another, and the higher they climb the deeper they hate."

There is a moral in that for men seeking high altitudes in our common human life.

May it never be said of them with truth, "The higher they climb the deeper they hate."

It is a fine thing to find a man who goes upward to great heights without losing his head, his nervous equipoise, his self-control. It is an inspiration to us who plod and drudge along at the lower levels to find him generous, amiable, affable, ready to meet all comers and faithful to his friends.

On the other hand, it is deplorable to come upon a man who wins his way to eminence of any sort, and in that lofty station, instead of looking down upon "the common herd" and thinks—and tells—how great he is in comparison with them.

What is so-called "success" if in winning it one hates and is hated?

High climbing spoils many a man. He cannot stand the atmosphere. He is as one intoxicated by the spreading view of the kingdoms of materialism beneath him. The more he sees the more he wants. Once he was happy with little; now he is miserable with much.

The best kind of climbing is that described by Matthew Arnold in "Rugby Chapel." In that fine poem he tells of his father, Thomas Arnold, the headmaster, who is hero of Thomas Hughes' noted book, "Tom Brown at Rugby." He shows us that Thomas Arnold was ever a climber, but was unwilling to climb alone. He led his boys upward and onward with him.

Nobody admires a man whose struggle is all for himself, that he may gather riches, and make his boast of them and "show off" to the world. When Death comes, Death does not care to see any of his things. The question at the last is simply, "Did you serve?" It is not "How much have you?"

The only portable baggage on the last and loneliest climb of all which the soul is called upon to make are the imperishable qualities of character: Love and truth, courage and faith, if we choose, will go with us all the way.

All Allies at Louvain.

The laying of the cornerstone of the new Louvain Library July 23 will occasion a gathering of world-famous statesmen and educators from all nations that were allied in arms with Belgium after the shock of war, says a Paris despatch. Cardinal Mercier has announced the acceptance by Nicholas Murray Butler of an invitation to preside at the ceremonies. He has, furthermore, extended invitations to all American universities to send delegates.

Ex-President Poincaré will lead the group of visitors from France, and it is announced that Whitney Warren, the American architect, who was entrusted with the honor of planning the famous monument, will assist at the ceremonies in addition to attending to the architectural and artistic details of the structure. The international committee in charge of rebuilding the library, of which King Albert and Cardinal Mercier are among the foremost workers, regard the gift of the library by the United States not only as a monument consecrating the sacrifice of Belgium in the first onslaught before the German invasion, but as a manifestation from America which will be an eternal protest and reproach against the "cultural" methods used by the Germans. Cardinal Mercier himself has said that erection of the library by American friends is a profound symbol for the future and an event of the greatest spiritual importance.

A Good Creed for Club Leaders.

I believe in boys and girls, the men and women of a great to-morrow; that whatever the boy sows the man shall reap. I believe in the curse of ignorance, in the efficiency of schools, in the dignity of teaching, and in the joy of serving others. I believe in wisdom as revealed in human lives as well as in the pages of a book, in lessons taught, not so much so by precept as by example; in the ability to work with the hands as well as to think with the head; in everything that makes life large and lovely. I believe in beauty in the school-room, in the home, in daily life, and in out-of-doors. I believe that every hour of every day we receive a just reward for all we are and all we do. I believe in the present and its opportunities, in the future and its promises and in the divine joy of living.

Easily Remembered.

Angry voices were heard as the midnight express was about to start.

"I tell you," cried the attendant, blocking the carriage door, "this is a sleeping-carriage, and you can't tread in it without a special ticket!"

"Begorra, I had a ticket!"

"Where is it?"

"I've lost it," replied the Irishman who was causing the disturbance.

"If you've really had the misfortune to lose your ticket, perhaps you can remember your berth?"

There was an interval of silence, Paddy evidently employing his thinking powers.

"Och, be jabers, that's aisy!" he exclaimed at last. "I was born on the twenty-sixth of October, 1852."

RED HOT JULY DAYS HARD ON THE BABY

July—the month of oppressive heat; red hot days and sweltering nights; is extremely hard on little ones. Diarrhoea, dysentery, colic and cholera infantum carry off thousands of precious little lives every summer. The mother must be constantly on her guard to prevent these troubles or if they come suddenly to fight them. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during the hot summer as is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels and stomach, and an occasional dose given to the well child will prevent summer complaint, or if the trouble does come on suddenly will banish it. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Bits of Canadian News.

Coast Indians expect to take about two thousand fur seals this season. Last year the catch was twelve hundred. Indians are the only persons who can legally take these animals, outside the legal percentage permitted by International Treaty.

The Aircraft Manufacturing Company is now operating a first class commercial aircraft service in Vancouver. A large modern Curtiss seaplane has been secured as a nucleus of a much bigger fleet and the hangars are situated on Burrard Inlet. Passengers will be taken up at English Bay and a regular service to Seattle, Victoria, Nanaimo and other cities will shortly be inaugurated. In addition to this aerial photography will be undertaken by the company, which should prove a great service to the owners of timber areas.

A resolution urging the Federal Government to permit women to file on homesteads on the same basis as men was passed at the convention of the Federated Women's Institute at Edmonton. At the present time only widows may file under the homesteaded regulations and it is pointed out that since the war women have discovered they are quite capable of performing all the work a farm entails. Several nurses who served overseas have exercised their soldiers' right to take homesteads whilst other women have purchased lands they are unable to secure otherwise.

Saskatchewan has doubled her dairy production during the past year, according to figures issued by the Department of Agriculture. The total output to May 1, 1921, was 671,174 pounds in comparison with 320,268 pounds for the same period in 1920. Comparative figures for May, 1921, and May, 1920, are 325,104 pounds and 187,625, respectively.

Three hundred thousand dollars worth of pelts were offered for sale at Winnipeg in June by the Winnipeg Fur Auction Sales Company. The sale included the entire collection of the Lamson-Hubbard Canadian Company's Mackenzie and Arctic furs. All of the furs which were presented at this fair were guaranteed to be of this season's catch.

The prairie provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta have more than ninety per cent. of the Dominion wheat acreage this year, according to the government's recently published figures. Out of a total acreage of 18,664,110 of wheat, the three provinces account for 17,418,900, an increase of 557,000 acres over last year.

It is predicted by agricultural authorities that within ten years the province of Manitoba will be producing sufficient tame strawberries to entirely fill her preserving needs and the bulk of those required for immediate consumption.

Immigration to Canada for the month of April, 1921, totaled 15,052, in comparison with 13,287 in April, 1919, an increase of 13 per cent. Of the total newcomers 8,476 were from the British Isles, 5,935 from the United States and 1,541 from other countries.

Fresh Milk in Cubes.

In Holland milk is now put up and sold in solid form, being made into little cubes which are readily dissolved in tea, coffee or other fluids.

The milk, after removal of the cream, is reduced by heat to dryness, then powdered and mixed with the cream, the material being pressed into blocks.

These milk cubes have the advantage of preserving their freshness for a long time. They are recommended for use in regions where milk is not easily to be had, and travelers may find it convenient to carry a supply of them.

BITS OF HUMOR FROM HERE & THERE

Polite.

Little Johnny was sitting by the pig pen. Neighbor Jones passed.

"Hullo, Johnny, how are the pigs to-day?"

"Nicely, thank you. How are all your folk?"

Punished.

Wife—"Johnny was very bad this afternoon; he stole a lot of jam and cake, and ate so much he was ill."

Husband—"Did you punish him?"

Wife—"I should say I did. I sent him to bed without his supper."

Good Business.

Featherstone—"I wonder if your sister realizes, Willie, that during the last month I have given her ten pounds of sweets and some flowers?"

Willie—"Of course she does. That's why she is keeping her engagement with Jim Burling a secret."

King's Hearing is Good.

When King Christian visited a little town in northern Schleswig a German woman remarked as they were passing the King, "You can't call him good looking anyway." The King turned and answered in German, "But his hearing is excellent."

She Couldn't Explain.

The other day Jones heard a conundrum and decided to try it on his wife.

"Do you know why I am like a mule?" he asked her when he got home.

"No," she replied promptly. "I know you are, but I don't know why you are."

Go to the Top.

Examiner—"I am surprised that you all made mistakes in answering the question: 'Where was the Magna Charta signed?' Think it over—can no one tell me?"

Little Boy (at bottom of class)—"I can, sir."

Examiner—"Well?"

Little Boy—"At the bottom of the page."

A Cheerful Prospect for the O.D.

A recently enlisted soldier was walking post for the first time. A dark form approached him. "Halt!" he cried in a threatening tone. "Who are you?"

"The officer of the day."

"Advance."

The officer of the day advanced, but before he had proceeded half a dozen steps the sentinel again cried, "Halt!"

"This is the second time you have halted me," observed the officer. "What are you going to do next?"

"Never you mind. My orders are to call 'Halt!' three times and then shoot."

IMPROVEMENT IS TALK OF FRIENDS

TANLAC DID HER WORLD OF GOOD, SHE SAYS.

"Change It Has Made in Me Is Simply Wonderful," Says
Toronto Woman.

"Tanlac has certainly had a good chance in my case to show what it can do, for I sure had a long hard struggle and had just about tried everything," said Mrs. Mary Richards, 251 Ashdale Ave., Toronto.

"I have been in a badly run-down condition ever since I had pneumonia six years ago. My stomach was nearly always out of order. My appetite was very poor and I had to be very careful about what I ate, as I suffered terribly from indigestion, bronchitis and pains in my chest. My sleep was never sound and I had a tired, worn-out feeling all the time. I had dreadful headaches and weak spells and had fallen off in weight until I was scarcely more than a shadow of my former self, and I was absolutely unfit for work of any kind.

"But Tanlac has done me a world of good. My stomach is in fine condition and I eat all I want and everything agrees with me perfectly. All my aches and pains are a thing of the past and I'm stronger than I've been in a long time. In fact, Tanlac has the same as made a new person of me, for I can do my housework with ease and my friends are talking about the wonderful change that has come over me. I don't believe anyone who suffers as I did can do better than take Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere. Advt.

Integrity.

In the world of things created, Integrity is enduring.

The pyramids have been beaten upon by the hot sands of 5,000 years. Their edges have crumbled, their sides are defaced, but still they stand, their integrity untouched.

In the world of spirit, Integrity of character is ever the hallmark of greatness. Temptations to evade agreements, to cheapen quality, to place personal favor before impartial justice—all these can beat steadily upon it, yet it will stand staunch and uncompromising.

Integrity is the measure of a business; compromise ever so little and honor is dimmed and reputation fades away.

Don't wear out your welcome; it is difficult to replace.

Face, Neck, Arms. Terrible
Sight. Itched And Burned.
Cuticura Heals.

"Baby was two months old when I noticed little pimples on her head. They kept getting worse and spread till her head, face, neck and arms were one mass of eruptions, burning, itching, and bleeding. I was told it was eczema. Had to stop work, her arms and legs in linen. She was a terrible sight. For one year I did not rest night or day."

"Visited Cuticura Hospital 'C' in Montreal. In less than two weeks she began to mend and in a few days she was healed." (Signed) Mrs. J. E. Gosselin, 235 St. Denis St., Montreal, Ont., April 12, 1910.

HAS NO PAIN NOW

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Kiever.

Vancouver, B.C.—"I am pleased to say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me a lot of good. I can now walk about without the aid of a support and feel real strong again. A nurse advised me to take the Vegetable Compound and it is certainly helping me. It seems like Heaven to be relieved after months of pain."—Mrs. H. W. BAKER, 3874 10th Ave. West, Vancouver, B.C.

Albert Co., N.B.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine and they have done me a lot of good. Since then I have been able to do my housework and I have a lot of work to do as we live on a farm. Seeing your advertisement in the papers was what made me think of writing to you. I hope this may help some one else."—Mrs. Wm. B. KEIVER, Upper New Horton, Albert Co., N.B.

The reason women write such letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. and tell their friends how they are helped is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives. Freed from their illness they want to pass the good news along to other suffering women that they also may be relieved.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.
