How Highway Act Works

We have been asked to give an outline of the new Highway Act passed by the Ontario Government. The Act provides that any township may by by-law appoint a road overseer, who, under the jurisdiction of the council, shall supervise all work and inspect all roads within the exclusive jurisdiction of the township council. Forty per cent. of the salary paid such overseer shall be paid by the provincial government. The overseer shall also conform to such regulations as the government may advise. He need not be engaged for any stated period but at the pleasure of the council. The ratepayers shall have the privilege of doing their statute labor as formerly. If they do not do their duty, then they shall pay for it in money and somebody else will do the work. The Act specifies that all the work, whether completed or not, must be paid into the treasurer at the rate of so much per day, collect to set said rate. When all is settled for the year, those who did their statute labor will have the amount paid in refund, and the balance will pay those who did work for others. A copy of the by-law passed by the township council adopting the Highway Act must be forwarded to the department and meet with the approval of the minister. The government gets its funds from the automobile license money. The government bonus to the council is 20 per cent. on the amount collected by each council. A number of municipalities have adopted the act.—Tillsburg News.

BEST LITTERING TIME

Have the Young Pigs Arrive in April or October.

June and December the Months for Mating—Give the Sow Good Farrowing Quarters—Care of Milk in Hot Weather.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Now is the time to start and get ready for the fall litter of pigs. Any females of breeding age should be bred as soon as possible in order that they may farrow before the cold weather of winter sets in. The gestation period of the sow is sixteen weeks and consequently, if the sows are to farrow before winter, it is necessary that they be bred soon. For the average farmer the best time to have the sows farrow is in April and October. When the pigs are born in April they are given a chance to get a good start before the hot weather comes. When the litter comes in the fall, say October or early November, the young pigs are given a chance to get out into the fields and get exercise, which gives them an early start before they are put into the closer confinement of winter quarters.

For those contemplating breeding sows for fall litters, always pick the strongest and most tyy on hand. Always use the best individuals to be had, particularly those exhibiting a good matronly appearance as shown by the number of teats.

Plenty of exercise while the sows are pregnant is very essential, and a good way for the sows to gain this is to allow them the freedom of the fields after the grain has been cut and taken off. As the time for farrowing approaches, closer watch must be kept on the sow in pig, and a few days, say two weeks before her time is up she should be brought in and introduced to her new quarters. She need not necessarily be kept in there all the time, but she should receive a little grain at the outset with plenty of water and some feed of a laxative nature to prevent constipation, which is the bane of hog raisers. By judicious feeding of the sow previous to farrowing the owner will have the sow in good physical condition and the pigs will come strong and healthy, and there will be lots of milk for the youngsters when they arrive.

As for farrowing quarters any good warm box-stall, free from draughts and dampness, is a good place. The quarters should be dry and clean. Some people advocate little bedding for the sow while the pigs are young, claiming that the youngsters are liable to get buried in the straw and the sow is liable to lie on them. A good remedy for this would be to use cut straw where possible. However, if the cut straw is out of the question, it may be just as well not to be too liberal with the long straw. The farmer must use his own judgment when emergency arises, always being careful to do the best thing for the mother and family.—J. C. McBeath, O. A. College, Guelph.

Hot Weather Suggestions on the Care of MILK.

It is one of the anomalies of life that the sources of our greatest pleasures and greatest means of good, may also be sources of life's greatest pains and most harm. Milk is a case in point. Milk is the best source of life's greatest need—proper and sufficient food. It may also be a cause of the destruction of life, because it may become the home or feeding ground of those death-dealing organisms which are now recognized as the cause of practically all deaths, except those due to accident or old age.

Fortunately we have discovered comparatively simple methods of combating the effects of what are called pathogenic (disease-producing) bacteria. These may be stated in a few short rules as follows:

- Milk which is consumed in a raw condition must be drawn only from cows which are healthy. Milk given from cows which are sick, which are not "good-doers," and especially milk from cows with a cough, must be pasteurized.

- As soon as the milk is drawn from the cow, it should be cooled to 50 degrees F. or lower, and be kept at that temperature until consumed. This makes an unfavorable condition for the germs to grow in.

- All pails, strainers, dippers, milk bottles, pitchers, etc., which come in contact with the milk, must be thoroughly washed and preferably steamed, or be rinsed after washing in a chloride solution, which has been found to be one of the best germicides.

- Milk should not be exposed to the air any longer than absolutely necessary, as this seeds the milk with a fresh lot of germs. This means the keeping of milk in a closed vessel and not in an open dish.

- "Left over" milk from meals should not be put into the general supply, as this causes the whole lot to spoil.

- "Left over" milk from the sick room should be pasteurized or destroyed, as it may spread disease.

- Milk at all times and in all places should be kept clean and cool.—H. H. Dean, O. A. College, Guelph.

A regular supply of salt will be found helpful in promoting thrift in live stock.

If pasture is provided for pigs, it will require less meal for a pound of gain.

Mares previous to foaling will perform a good deal of work if they are carefully handled and the result will be stronger foals than with idle mares.

It is interesting to note the excellent preservation of some old family residences. So well do they "fit into the picture" that except for their architecture one might almost imagine them the product of the present age, yet in reality they stand as silent tributes to the wise precaution against decay and deterioration on the part of a former generation.

Any house that is worth building should also be worthy of preservation by means of paint: The maximum of protection is found in
