WALTER BRODEUR SAYS HE CAN NOW EAT ANYTHING ON THE TABLE.

Suffered So From Stomach Trouble He Dreaded For Meal-Time to Come.

"For the first time in two years I can eat a hearty meal without fear of distress afterwards and I certainly am strong for Tanlac," said Walter Brodeur, 1472 City Hall Ave., Montreal, Que.

"I had acid stomach of the worst sort and nothing agreed with me. Often for as long as an hour after eating I felt that I was about to choke and would just have to fight to get my breath and I was so worried and nervous that I dreaded for night to come, as it meant hours of rolling and tossing.

"Everything is changed now, however, and I am like a new man, eat what I want, sleep all night long without a break and get up in the morning feeling as fresh and active as a boy."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

Surnames and Their Origin

FROBISHER

Variation—Forbisher.
Racial Origin—English.
Source—An occupation.

With the "tip" that the family name of Frober or Forbisher is based upon an occupation, can you guess its origin?

Probably not. And the reason is because the word is all but obsolete, and the exact occupation is obsolete also, though there are a great many more or less akin to it in the various industries of modern times.

Occasionally, however, you will run across the word "furbish." Probably a majority of people cannot tell you exactly what it means even though they have heard or merely likely, read it. It means to polish. The "furbisher" or "forbisher" of medieval England was a "polisher." And again you have to conjure up a picture of life in the Middle Ages to realize what kept him so busy what it was that needed so much polishing as to give rise to a regular occupation. Today he would probably polish automobiles, or put the fine gloss on combs. In the Middle Ages he was kept busy polishing armor. He did for the iron and steel clothing of the knight, squire and man-at-arms, what the little tailor around the corner does for the worsted and buckwheat and clerk of to-day—for rust was just as active in the Middle Ages as dust is now.

RODGERS

Variation—Rodger, Rogers, Roger.
Racial Origin—English.
Source—A given name.

The family names of Rodgers and Rogers have been formed from a given name, through the regular method of adding the termination "son," which in the course of time has been shortened to a mere "s," and in some cases dropped altogether, thus bringing the family name back to the same form as the given name from which it developed.

The name of Rodger, or Roger, is Teutonic. In one form or other it is to be found among most of the Teutonic races. In the Icelandic, that branch of the Scandinavian tongues which has changed the least of all the Teutonic languages in the course of time, it was "Hrothgeir," being a compound of the words "broth" and "geir," and having a meaning of "famous spear." Incidentally it is from this same root "geir" that the French word "guerre" meaning "war" as well as the word "war" itself, has been developed.

The old records show that the forms "Rodgar" and "Rogier" (the "g" being pronounced hard) were used by the Anglo-Saxons before the Norman invasion. The form "Roger" also was Norman and Flemish. The Danish form was "Roedegeer" while farther south on the Continent, under the Latin influence, the given name became "Rogier."

Don't Say It!

The harshest words that one can throw are often these, "I told you so." Nor are you pleased, you must admit, when you're the one they chance to hit.

Some people seem to take delight in anything that smacks of spite—they smile within at other's woes and pelt them with "I told you so's."

Perhaps you try a venture new and somehow fail to see it through; there's always someone standing by, to give the old "I told you" cry.

With heart and soul we all despise the man who ever waxes wise and very spitefully bestows his cynical "I told you so's."

Age Mellows Bells.

European bells could be accounted for only by their age. After careful investigation, an ingenious bell maker determined that with a century of use the bell clapper and the inner surface of the bell became so worn that they fitted exactly and a considerable surface of each came in contact. Accordingly he cast a clapper in a form that gave them a considerable contact surface to begin with. The result was all that he had hoped. A month of lively ringing is still needed to give any given bell a tone of the desired quality, but the economy in time is obvious.

KEEP BABY WELL IN THE SPRING

Mothers who have little ones in the home find the Spring a time of great anxiety. At this season conditions make it necessary to keep the baby indoors. He is often confined to overheated and badly ventilated rooms and catches colds which rack his whole system. To guard against this a box of Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in the house and an occasional dose given the baby to keep his stomach and bowels working regularly. This will prevent colds, constipation or colic, and keep baby well. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Hemp Hurds for Paper Making.

An interesting investigation recently carried out at the Forest Products Laboratories of the Department of the Interior, Canada, relates to the value of hemp hurds as a paper-making material. Hemp hurds are the waste stalks of hemp from which the fibre has been removed. Considerable quantities of the hurds, at present a mere waste product, are available in Canada. Some attention has been given to this subject in the United States, where experiments have been made in which the soda process was used. The work at the Laboratories, however, has been directed towards the application of the sulphite process, widely used in Canadian pulp mills for the manufacture of chemical wood-pulp. The results obtained indicate that while the material lends itself to sulphite cooking the resulting pulp has an extremely short fibre and is somewhat hard to bleach. The yield, however, is large, and the pulp might advantageously be used as a filler with pulps of longer fibre.

Seventeen Dynasties Instead of Forty-one.

Seventeen sovereign ruling dynasties exist in the world, as against forty-one in 1914. Twenty-four dynasties, of which the most were German, lost their thrones through the war; and the most tragic fate was that of the Romanoff family, of which sixteen members were assassinated during and after the Russian revolution.

Those and other figures, characteristic of change in the world's affairs since the outbreak of the war, appear in this year's Almanac de Gotha, that classic encyclopedia of world royalty. According to this authority the ruling German princes abdicated in 1918 as Hohenzollerns or other dynasties who many abdicated in the name of the emperor.

The only central European State with a sovereign—Liechtenstein—is situated between Austria and Switzerland. It can be traversed in a motor car in twenty minutes.

She Turned Out the King of Sweden.

One day a scholarly looking man, plainly dressed, went into a church in Holland and took a seat near the pulpit. In a few minutes a lady approached the pew, and, seeing a stranger in it, curiously asked him to go out. He took one of the seats reserved for the poor and joined devoutly in the service. When services were over one of the woman's friends asked her if she knew who it was whom she had ordered out of her seat. "No," she replied, "but it was only some pushing stranger. I suppose." "It was King Oscar of Sweden," replied her informant; "he is here visiting the queen." The only point was this: that the woman forgot to carry her "company manners" to church.

Six New Instruments Added to the Violin Family.

It has been said by musicians that the violin family is composed of two pygmies—the violin and the viola—and two giants—the violoncello and the double bass. It is reasonable to suppose that the great gap between these two extremes could be advantageously diminished. It is not surprising then that two well-known French musicians, father and son, have, after years of study and experimentation, created a number of intermediary instruments which have entirely changed the nature of the violin family.

In a mile of railway track there are over 2,000 sleepers.

SHE FOUND RELIEF AFTER FIVE YEARS

An Ex-Serviceman Tells How His Wife Found New Health.

"I wish to testify," says Mr. R. A. F. Hughes, of Hamilton, Ont., "as to the efficiency of your Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the following reasons: 'When I returned home in May, 1919, after nearly five years absence on army service, my wife had changed from a healthy, robust woman, to one whose life was a burden and ordinary duties almost impossible. Through war worries, loneliness and other factors contributed through my unavoidable absence, her health had been steadily undergoing what I might describe as an undermining process, for years.

"I was fully aware from her letters that I would not find her the same woman, but when I reached home, I was terribly shocked to find her in the condition she was in. Her healthy color had changed. She seemed bloodless and her skin was sallow. She was weak and listless, and with difficulty moved about the house. She hardly ever moved out of the house as she became so short of breath and feared she would fall during one of her dizzy spells, which she said were becoming more frequent.

"The day I arrived home I visited our doctor, who is an old friend, and later through his advice, consulted with another physician of this city. Everything was done that could be done and many medicines were prescribed and faithfully taken. As those were of no avail I trusted that time alone would suffice to build up what had gradually been undone in the course of five years. After twelve months conditions had become worse. Then I decided on change of air, gave up my position in the city and moved to the country. Even this did not do any good. I think it added to her depression.

"One day a friend visited us and as a result of their conversation my wife made up her mind to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"I had not much faith in what I did, but procured three boxes. This happened nine months ago. I was surprised to hear my wife say, after about the tenth day, I believe these pills are doing me good. A week or so after that I certainly believed they were, for I saw color returning to her cheeks and the sallow, unhealthy color disappearing. The pills were certainly doing what you claim they will do, and of her own free will she continued them for about three months. At the end of this time she seemed quite a different woman. Life was worth living. The listlessness had gone and she could walk up the steep hill, which is half a mile long, leading to our house, without the slightest inconvenience. At this stage she discontinued the pills and she is just as well now as ever she was.

"Now, sir, I want to say I have every faith in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as I have had proof, and I believe that what this medicine did for my wife, it can do for others."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Fire-Bug and the East Wind.

"It's time to hit the trail again," The careless camper said, And left his little fire ablaze Within its leafy bed.

"I'll light another cigarette," The idle loafer said, And chuckled his old snipe" in the brush.

"Good time to fire my slashing now," The thoughtless rancher said, And touched it off without a thought Of how far it might spread.

"Millions in lives and timber lost," The newspapers next said, What made those fires all start at once? We wondered as we read.

"It wasn't us, it was that wind," The fools in chorus said, So they're alive and loose this year, —We hope the wind is dead. —E. T. Allen.

New Forests for Great Britain.

A shipment of seven hundred pounds of Douglas fir seed was recently forwarded from the Dominion Forestry Branch seed-extracting plant at New Westminster, B.C., to Great Britain. This is the final shipment of seed collected in 1921. The total quantity of each kind of seed shipped for the season was: Douglas fir, 4,000 pounds; Sitka spruce, 3,000 pounds; and western hemlock, 100 pounds. As tree seed is very small and light, ranging from an average of forty-three thousand to the pound of Douglas fir to four hundred thousand seeds to the pound of Sitka spruce, it will be seen that many millions of seedlings will be germinated from these shipments for planting in the extensive reforestation scheme which the British Forestry Commission has in hand.

Country life, is more conducive to long life than town life, according to statistics collected by a well-known doctor.

Flowers Think.

Luther Burbank says that flowers think; that they have intelligence, and respond to our thought; that they know whether we love them or are indifferent to them.

Some people can raise flowers almost anywhere, even with very little sunshine, while others can do nothing with them under the most favorable conditions. That is because, as Mr. Burbank says, the little mind cells of flowers and plants know who they are and who do not, and respond accordingly. A very intelligent grower knows that she never could grow flowers, and that they will the moment she puts them on her person.

All plant life is sensitive to our thought, to our mental attitude. The farmer who hates farming never has the success with his crops that his neighbors who have growing things have. His mental attitude is not right, and his crops respond to his thought in kind.
